Truman Due To Give Congress Record Budget For Peacetime

Expected To Hit $70,000,000,000; Row Seen Over How To Spread New Tax Load

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Congress members are taking it for granted that the biggest peacetime budget in history — generally expected to hit $70,000,000,000 — will be laid in their laps tomorrow. Who pays for it and how are about as big worries at the Capitol as the actual 'sum.

There already are indications that the real pulling and hauling will begin when it comes to saying who shall hand over the money for war in Korea and a continuing world-wide guard against Communist aggression.

There is a strong pay-as-you-go sentiment on Capitol Hill but it will be put to a severe test in trying to arrange to meet the big mobilization costs on the spot.

Message To Be Read

The figures to set the wheels turning do not come out officially until 12:30 p.m. EST Monday when President Truman's budget message will be read in the House and Senate. They will cover the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1951.

The President has left no doubt that he wants the bill paid as the money is spent. For instance he spoke last week of a tax raise "very much more" than the $8,000,000,000 a year in additional levies voted since fighting began in Korea.

Paying in cash would mean something very much like $16,000,000,000 in additional taxes on the basis of a $70,000,000,000 outlay.

There is talk of all sorts about how to get the money. The President's council of economic advisers already has declared incomes taxes should be raised at all levels. It also noted that the man who has most of that kind of cash is the citizen in the below-$10,000 income group.

Tax Message Due Soon

The council, quoted by the President in the economic message, used figures indicating that present taxes leave the middle and lower bracket man in possession of 86 per cent of the country's remaining yearly income.

On that basis, the question of how to raise the tax take 30 per cent or so above the current $50,000,000,000-plus level becomes a question of how to get most of it from that group.

Mr. Truman will write his own prescription for the method in a later tax message due at the Capitol before Feb. 1, and the House Ways and Means Committee will go to work on it in public hearings Feb. 5.

Yanks-To-Europe Debate May Boil To Climax Today

Some GOP Leaders Counseling Delay

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Heated debate over President Truman's plan to send troops to Europe's defense may boil to a sudden climax in the Senate tomorrow, but some Republican leaders were reported counseling delay of a showdown.

Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, said he will try to bring up his resolution to prohibit transfer of ground forces to Europe until Congress has approved the policy.

Connally Plans Counter Move

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he will counter any such move by a motion to send the proposal to his committee for further study.

Other Republicans were said to be advising party colleagues to await a report from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower before forcing a final congressional expression on the issue which has rocked Congress since the session began.

While they wouldn't comment directly, Sens. Taft (R-Ohio) and Millikin (R-Colo) were reported advising against seeking an immediate vote on the Wherry resolution.

Taft Challenges Truman

Taft, who heads the party's policy committee, has challenged President Truman's claim of authority to make such a transfer, without the lawmakers' advance approval. He contends a major national issue is involved.

Millikin, chairman of the conference of all GOP senators, has put himself in the middle ground between what he called "globalists and retreatists." He told the Senate last week he is "opposed to falling back on the United States an adopting a cornered-rat defense policy."

U. S. Will Demand Russia Settle Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—The United States will confront Russia with a hard-boiled demand that it settle up promptly when American-Soviet negotiators finally sit down tomorrow to talk about Moscow's overdue lend-lease account.

American officials said they plan to abandon polite diplomatic language and resort to blunt talk to obtain payment of this five-year-old obligation.

If the Russians continue to "stall," officials indicated the U. S. is considering:

1. Demanding return of much of the key industrial supplies shipped to the Soviet Union during the war.
2. Denouncing Russia publicly for bad faith.
3. Appealing to the international court to settle the case.

Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin is scheduled to head the Russian group when it meets American officials at the State Department.

The American delegation is led by John C. Wyley, former American envoy to Iran.

War Again Makes Widow Of N. J. Woman

PITMAN, N. J., Jan. 14 (AP)—War has made a widow of Mrs. Jean E. Snodgrass for the second time. This time she has four small daughters to share her grief.

The name of her husband, M/Sgt. James Fort Snodgrass, was included in the Defense Department's 200th Korean war casualty list released today.

Sgt. Snodgrass was killed Nov. 28 while fighting near the Manchurian border with the Third Army Division.

Mrs. Snodgrass' first husband, Flight Capt. Charles Ridgley Hammell, 3rd, of Philadelphia, was killed in a takeoff crash at Dinjan, India, on May 9, 1945, while piloting a transport loaded with war supplies for China.

U. S. Won't Quit Fight

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA, Monday, Jan. 15 (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, said today U. S. forces "will certainly stay and fight" in Korea. He said replacements at the front would arrive "in two or three months."

Gen. Collins came here from Tokyo, where he had engaged in secrecy-guarded high level conferences. He held a press conference within an hour after his arrival for his fourth visit of the war.

Gen. Collins flew in from Washington with Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief.

Former German Military Leaders Favor Rearming

Predict No Early Attack By Russia

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 14 (AP)—Three former German generals and a former admiral agreed today that West Germany should rearm to help defend Western Europe.

All predicted Russia will not attack Western Europe in the near future because she is chiefly interested at present in expanding her influence in Asia—though they did not discount completely the possibility that she might be provoked by German rearmament into making a premature move.

They disagreed as to what conditions West Germany should demand as its price for rearming.

Separate Interviews

These opinions were expressed in separate interviews, by former Gens. Hasso Eckhardt von Mantueffel, Guenther Blumentritt, and Bodo Zimmerman and by former Adm. Gottfried Hansen.

They were picked at random from a list of Germany's former military leaders and asked a series of questions about European defense.

Manteuffel, one of Germany's top tank experts, was commander of Hitler's Fifth Panzer Army and participated in the Battle of the Bulge. Blumentritt was Field Marshal Gerd Von Rundstedt's chief of staff on the western front and was acquitted of war crimes charges. Zimmerman was a lieutenant general and operations officer on the western front and was convicted of Nazi Party affiliation. Hansen, after retiring from active duty as an admiral, was liaison officer between the German Navy and Air Force during the war.

Germany "Must Fight"

Blumentritt was the strongest advocate of German rearmament.

"Germany must help," he said flatly. "She must fight to avoid annihilation by Bolshevism. She must fight to regain the confidence of the Western World to which she belongs. Fighting is the only way that Germany can gain the support of the Western Allies in re-establishing her eastern frontier (regaining areas now occupied by Poland)."

Four American Soldiers Released By North Koreans

WITH U. S. SECOND DIVISION, Korea, Jan. 14 (AP)—Four American soldiers, captured three days ago when their jeep was mined, were released today by the Reds.

It marked one of the rare instances of such action by North Korean troops. Chinese have released prisoners several times for propaganda reasons.

The GIs were not seriously mistreated but some of their clothing was taken. One said his shirt and socks were taken and he was forced to walk barefoot in the snow for several miles.

All four of the released prisoners were picked up by a friendly patrol and flown to Japan to be treated for exposure.

Three U.N.-Held Areas Fire-Bombed, Strafed

WITH THE U. S. SECOND DIVISION, Korea, Monday, Jan. 15 (AP)—Three areas of Korea held by United Nations forces were fire-bombed and strafed yesterday and last night, the U. S. Second Division reported today.

An unidentified plane dropped napalm (jellied gasoline) bombs near Ansong on the western front southeast of Suwon at 2:05 p. m. Sunday (12:05 a. m. Sunday EST).

An unidentified aircraft strafed and napalmed the sector south of Osan at 2:22 p. m.

A plane dropped four bombs at an undisclosed point south of Osan at 8:45 p. m.

Polio Increasing, U. S. Told As Dimes Drive Is Opened

WYTHEVILLE, Va., Jan. 14 (AP)—Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, launched the 1951 March of Dimes campaign tonight with a warning that "poliomyelitis is on the increase in America."

Calling for $50,000,000 in new funds, O'Connor said the foundation had a $5,000,000 debt at the end of 1950 because of the epidemics of the past three years.

"It is an honorable debt acquired by helping the stricken," he added.

O'Connor's speech, prepared for delivery over the Columbia Broadcasting System's coast-to-coast network, originated in this small town because it was the scene of the nation's worst polio epidemic last year.

The March of Dimes campaign beginning tomorrow will last throughout January.

"Tomorrow Americans everywhere will begin the greatest march against the number one epidemic disease of this country—the disease which in the past three terrible epidemic years has stricken more than 100,000 men, women and children," O'Connor said.

Europe Arms Aid Backers Count Heavily On "Ike"

Two Key Questions Still Unanswered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Administration officials are counting heavily on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to help get the European arms aid program through Congress.

Eisenhower, named to command a new international army in Western Europe, is now studying defense problems there. Officials say he unquestionably will report to Congress on his return.

Truman Proposal Awaited

President Truman will propose to Congress Monday the appropriation of new billions for foreign military assistance, centering in Europe. This will press toward a climax some of the main issues posed by former President Hoover and Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) in their criticisms of the administration's aid-Europe policy.

The two key questions opened up by this discussion are:

(1) Can an adequate defense against Russia be established in Europe by the collective efforts of the North Atlantic treaty powers?

(2) Should the U. S. continue supplying its European allies with arms and funds and should it send several more divisions to Western Europe as President Truman plans.

Independent Evaluation

In testifying on these and related questions Eisenhower, administration officials point out, will speak as a professional military man who was not associated with the early stages of work on the European defense system and who therefore has an independent evaluation to offer Congress.

That Eisenhower will support the undertaking wholeheartedly appears to be beyond question. This belief is based on his public statements since his arrival in Europe a week ago and on official reports which have come back to Washington from members of his party.

Patient In Hospital Is Killed By Visitor

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14 (AP) — A man walked into the ward of Magee Hospital to visit a patient tonight, then slashed her to death with a butcher knife while nine other patients screamed in horror, police Sergeant Henry Stacklin reported.

Stacklin said the victim and her assailant were negroes. He identified the victim as Hattie Tucker, 26.

The officer said her assailant, Charles Faust, 26, was overcome by doctors and nurses and booked on a murder charge.

"Fattest" Man Dies

CLAYTON, N. M., Jan. 14 (AP) — Bill Wetsel, who claimed to be the world's fattest man, died today at the age of 57.

Relatives said the last time he was weighed — about a year ago — he tipped the scales at 675 pounds.

Nine Passengers Failed To Show Up For Ill-Fated Hop

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 14 (AP)—Nine passengers failed to show up for the National Airlines flight scheduled to leave Newark airport for points south today.

The plane crashed as it was landing at Philadelphia and seven persons died in the flaming wreckage.

"We don't know whether these nine people cancelled their flights or not," Assistant Station Agent Ward Daniels said at the NAL office here. "But for one reason or another they didn't take off with the rest of the scheduled passengers."

Martin Assails Plans For Huge Boost In Taxes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. (AP)—House Republican Leader Martin today accused President Truman's top economic advisers of planning a "completely socialist" America. He tied that in with a statement that the people face the prospect of paying up to 50 per cent of their earnings in taxes.

The Massachusetts lawmaker said the annual report of the President's Council of Economic Advisers is a "blueprint for socialism" worked out "in the name of the national crisis."

The "touchstone" of the blueprint is increased taxation, Martin said, adding:

"Already the average American is paying more than 25 per cent of his income to federal, state and local governments in the form of taxation.

"With the additional staggering increases proposed, American citizens will find themselves turning over to the government between one-third and one-half of all they earn so that the government may spend it for them. This can lead only to less independence for the individual and more dependence on government — exactly the socialist goal."

Martin let fly in a statement—as Congress made ready to receive Mr. Truman's budget message tomorrow. Capitol Hill expected it to call for about $70,000,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and for a new tax hike in the neighborhood of $16,000,000,000 to put defense spending on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Uninvited Guest Kills Himself At Home Party

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 14 (AP)—An uninvited guest walked into a home party near Indiana Central College last night and shot himself to death. A dozen adults and seven small children watched.

State Police Detective Lawrence Broderick said the victim was Joseph McKee, 57, Indianapolis, rejected suitor of a woman at the party.

Gen. MacArthur 'Blundered,' War Reporter Says

"Misinterpreted" Red Withdrawals

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur was accused of "unsound deployment of the United Nations forces and a momentous blunder" by an American war correspondent in this week's Look magazine.

Homer Bigart of the New York Herald-Tribune, who has been reporting the war in Korea, wrote that a blunder by the United Nations commander "helped insure the success of the enemy's strategy."

"It is a great tragedy that a man who served his country so nobly should be hounded and disparaged in the final hours of his career," the article said.

Criticized For One Decision

"But this is one of the occupational hazards of being a general. MacArthur grossly miscalculated the intentions, strength and capabilities of the forces against him.

"And no nation in the spot we are in can string along with a leader whose ill-considered decision to launch the offensive of November 24 precipitated and magnified the swift disaster."

Bigart said it was on that one decision that MacArthur must be criticized.

Red Tactics Not New

The writer said MacArthur misinterpreted mysterious Chinese withdrawals and thought they were the result of demoralization by air and artillery bombardment.

He said stealthy maneuvers by Communist forces in Korea were no more novel than tactics of American Minute Men against the British on the road back from Lexington in 1775.

Industrialist Dies

BAYPORT, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP) — William S. Shipley, 71, board chairman of the York Corporation of York, Pa., manufacturers of industrial refrigeration and air-conditioning machinery, died today at his home.

Plane Skids Past End Of Runway Into Ditch, Burns

21 Survive Tragedy At Philadelphia Port

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14 (AP) — A heroic airline stewardess, four other women and two babies died today in the flaming wreckage of a four-engine National Airlines plane that skidded past the end of a runway, crashed into a ditch and burned in landing at International Airport.

The stewardess, who aided many of the 19 other passengers to escape with minor injuries, lost her life in her effort to save all aboard.

Mary Frances Housley, 24, Jacksonville, Fla., a diminutive brunette who had been with the airline only since last August, was found dead in the wreckage, her arms around one of the two babies. Survivors of the crash told how she opened the cabin door, cautioned them to "take it easy," and made repeated trips into the burning plane to aid others.

Pilot, Co-Pilot Escape

The pilot and co-pilot of the DC-4 plane escaped injury as the huge craft came to a stop with the fuselage bridging the 10-foot ditch at the edge of the big airport. The plane had crashed through a heavy wire guard fence and hit a beacon light that clipped off part of the left wing like a match snapped in two. Almost immediately fire flashed through the wreckage.

It was alternately raining and snowing as the big plane, making its only stop on a Newark, N. J., to Norfolk, Va., flight, touched down for the landing at 2:13 p m. (EST). The 6,000-foot paved runway was coated with nearly an inch of slush and water, but was rated safe for operations. Visibility was 1½ miles.

A Civil Aeronautics Administration employe on duty in the airport control tower said the big plane was making an instrument landing because of clouds covering the airport. It was a "normal" landing he added, but the plane overran the runway, rammed through the fence and bumped across the ditch, coming to a stop with the after section of the fuselage bridging the 10-foot cut.

Drop 10 Feet To Safety

A National Airlines official said that the 21 persons who escaped alive jumped from the plane within 90 seconds after it came to a stop. Many of them suffered cuts and bruises in the 10 foot drop from the cabin door to the ground. Others were burned, although none was reported in serious condition.

Mrs. Manuela Smith, wife of a sailor stationed at Norfolk, Va., escaped alive with her three-year-old daughter Betty Jane. But her infant daughter Brenda Joyce died in the wreckage. Among the dead, also, were Mrs. H. Marchiano and her infant son of Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

The other dead were identified by the airline as Mrs. N. B. Joynes, 58, Norfolk, Va.; Marion Carden, 28, Norfolk, Va., and a woman listed on the passenger manifest as Mrs. Hubian, New York City.

Shift Of NSRB Offices To DPA Is Expected

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Most of the offices now under the top level National Security Resources Board, of which W. Stuart Symington is chairman, are expected to be transferred shortly to William H. Harrison's new Defense Production Administration, informed persons said today.

These informants who did not wish to be named, said the shift is expected when Senate confirmation of Harrison's nomination clears the way for him to take over his new duties. That seems likely within the next two weeks.

30,000 Enemy Troops Sneak Behind Allies

2nd Division Gets New Commander

TOKYO, Monday, Jan. 15 (AP) — U. S. Second Division troops today stood fast near Wonju in Central Korea despite a threat by up to 30,000 infiltrating North Korean Reds to outflank the entire division.

Coincident with field operations on the critical Sobaek Mountain front were two other developments: (1) Replacement without explanation of the Second Division's commander; (2) conferences of the U. S. Army's chief of staff and other top generals from Washington with Gen. MacArthur in Tokyo.

Advance elements of the Second Division clung firmly to their tight perimeter one and a half to two miles south of Wonju, AP Correspondent William C. Barnard reported this morning from the front. Wonju is the control point for a highway network to Southeast Korea.

There was no new word on the menace posed by North Koreans who have infiltrated at points more than 50 miles below Wonju. But a division spokesman said today heavy enemy troop movements continued from West Korea toward the Wonju area.

The Wonju front was quiet Sunday night with no enemy contact.

In Korea, the Eighth Army announced without explanation that Maj. Gen. Robert B. McClure was being replaced as Second Division commander by Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner. McClure had been named to the command only Dec. 11 after the Second Division lost one-third of its men in holding back the Chinese Red offensive in North Korea to permit the Eighth Army to withdraw.

In the past week the division has staved off repeated Communist smashes in South Korea on the Wonju front, but today was confronted with a dire threat of being outflanked and cut off.

In detailing the Red maneuvers, a division spokesman in the field told AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw:

"There are growing indications that the enemy will not be content merely to drive us off the Korean peninsula. They want to separate us and cut us to pieces."

The U. S. Second Division, with battalions of French and Dutch infantry operating as part of its effective strength, was still holding fast to a wedge in Communist lines.

The wedge was 25 miles deep and 40 miles wide at its base.

For a week, this force with its northernmost tip just south of Wonju, has denied Communist forces access to an important network of mountain-pass roads leading directly south to the old Pusan defense lines of last summer.

Field dispatches Sunday said infiltrating Reds were sneaking down the snow-banked Soebak Mountain passes trying to link up with guerrillas, the Eighth Army said were operating as far as 100 miles below the 38th parallel.

Correspondent Tom Bradshaw with the Second Division south of Wonju said Communist forces had crept through U. N. positions in the sector between Chechon and Yongwol.

Dope Distributor Kingpin Nabbed

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14 (AP) — A Washington man described by federal agents as the "biggest marihuana distributor" in this area was under arrest today after being duped by an undercover worker for the narcotics bureau.

James Watkins, 28-year-old negro, was snared yesterday in a trap sprung by 15 federal, Baltimore, Washington and Maryland State Police.

Boyd M. Martin, district supervisor of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, said Watkins was arrested in his automobile after selling a pound of raw marihuana to the undercover agent who had worked himself into the dope distribution ring.

The district supervisor called Watkins the kingpin marihuana peddler of Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. He said the capture climaxed a two-year game of cat-and-mouse.

Flood Threatens Town

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 14 (AP) —Almost four and one-half inches of rain, which fell here in 18 hours, has sent Little River boiling over its banks and stopped travel in two main highways.

The American Red Cross reported tonight that eight or 10 families had been moved from their homes near the river.

$2,200 Will Build A-Bomb Shelter For Your Family

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—The atom bomb shelter man says that for $2,200 he can build a good safe place in which a family can hide.

The A.B.S. man is J. M. Woods of Baltimore, who has been running ads in Baltimore and Washington newspapers. The heading reads:

"Safeguard your family from the atom bomb."

Then follows a picture of a house, with bomb shelter attached, and the question:

"Have you considered 'A' bomb shelter of your own for your family . . . in your home?"

Naturally I hustled right around to see how business was. Surprisingly, in view of the headlines these days, the answer is not so good.

"I expect it to bust loose any moment, and we'll really get going," said Woods, who has spent 26 years in the construction business, with three years out for service in the Coast Guard.

"Right now about all I'm getting is feelers, mostly from women. On something like this, people hold back. They don't want to be the first."

They were picked at random from a list of Germany's former military leaders and asked a series of questions about European defense.

Manteuffel, one of Germany's top tank experts, was commander of Hitler's Fifth Panzer Army and participated in the Battle of the Bulge. Blumentritt was Field Marshal Gerd Von Rundstedt's chief of staff on the western front and was acquitted of war crimes charges. Zimmerman was a lieutenant general and operations officer on the western front and was convicted of Nazi Party affiliation. Hansen, after retiring from active duty as an admiral, was liaison officer between the German Navy and Air Force during the war.

Germany "Must Fight"

Blumentritt was the strongest advocate of German rearmament.

"Germany must help," he said flatly. "She must fight to avoid annihilation by Bolshevism. She must fight to regain the confidence of the Western World to which she belongs. Fighting is the only way that Germany can gain the support of the Western Allies in re-establishing her eastern frontier (regaining areas now occupied by Poland)."

President Truman Urged To Set Up FEPC

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. (AP)—President Truman today was urged to bypass Congress on a hotly disputed civil rights issue and create a Fair Employment Practices Commission by executive order.

This proposal by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) drew immediate fire from a southerner, Sen. Johnston (D-SC), who said Congress would not pay for it in peacetime and it would just mean trouble on Capitol Hill.

Polio Increasing, U. S. Told As Dimes Drive Is Opened

WYTHEVILLE, Va., Jan. 14 (AP)—Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, launched the 1951 March of Dimes campaign tonight with a warning that "poliomyelitis is on the increase in America."

Calling for $50,000,000 in new funds, O'Connor said the foundation had a $5,000,000 debt at the end of 1950 because of the epidemics of the past three years.

"It is an honorable debt acquired by helping the stricken," he added.

O'Connor's speech, prepared for delivery over the Columbia Broadcasting System's coast-to-coast network, originated in this small town because it was the scene of the nation's worst polio epidemic last year.

The March of Dimes campaign beginning tomorrow will last throughout January.

"Tomorrow Americans everywhere will begin the greatest march against the number one epidemic disease of this country—the disease which in the past three terrible epidemic years has stricken more than 100,000 men, women and children," O'Connor said.

Heroic Stewardess, 6 Others Perish In Crash Of Airliner

Seven Perish In Crash Of Airliner

Europe Arms Aid Backers Count Heavily On "Ike"

Two Key Questions Still Unanswered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Administration officials are counting heavily on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to help get the European arms aid program through Congress.

Eisenhower, named to command a new international army in Western Europe, is now studying defense problems there. Officials say he unquestionably will report to Congress on his return.

Truman Proposal Awaited

President Truman will propose to Congress Monday the appropriation of new billions for foreign military assistance, centering in Europe. This will press toward a climax some of the main issues posed by former President Hoover and Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) in their criticisms of the administration's aid-Europe policy.

The two key questions opened up by this discussion are:

(1) Can an adequate defense against Russia be established in Europe by the collective efforts of the North Atlantic treaty powers?

(2) Should the U. S. continue supplying its European allies with arms and funds and should it send several more divisions to Western Europe as President Truman plans.

Independent Evaluation

In testifying on these and related questions Eisenhower, administration officials point out, will speak as a professional military man who was not associated with the early stages of work on the European defense system and who therefore has an independent evaluation to offer Congress.

That Eisenhower will support the undertaking wholeheartedly appears to be beyond question. This belief is based on his public statements since his arrival in Europe a week ago and on official reports which have come back to Washington from members of his party.

Patient In Hospital Is Killed By Visitor

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14 (AP) — A man walked into the ward of Magee Hospital to visit a patient tonight, then slashed her to death with a butcher knife while nine other patients screamed in horror, police Sergeant Henry Stacklin reported.

Stacklin said the victim and her assailant were negroes. He identified the victim as Hattie Tucker, 26.

The officer said her assailant, Charles Faust, 26, was overcome by doctors and nurses and booked on a murder charge.

"Fattest" Man Dies

CLAYTON, N. M., Jan. 14 (AP) — Bill Wetsel, who claimed to be the world's fattest man, died today at the age of 57.

Relatives said the last time he was weighed — about a year ago — he tipped the scales at 675 pounds.

Nine Passengers Failed To Show Up For Ill-Fated Hop

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 14 (AP)—Nine passengers failed to show up for the National Airlines flight scheduled to leave Newark airport for points south today.

The plane crashed as it was landing at Philadelphia and seven persons died in the flaming wreckage.

"We don't know whether these nine people cancelled their flights or not," Assistant Station Agent Ward Daniels said at the NAL office here. "But for one reason or another they didn't take off with the rest of the scheduled passengers."

Martin Assails Plans For Huge Boost In Taxes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. (AP) — House Republican Leader Martin today accused President Truman's top economic advisers of planning a "completely socialist" America. He tied that in with a statement that the people face the prospect of paying up to 50 per cent of their earnings in taxes.

The Massachusetts lawmaker said the annual report of the President's Council of Economic Advisers is a "blueprint for socialism" worked out "in the name of the national crisis."

The "touchstone" of the blueprint is increased taxation, Martin said, adding:

"Already the average American is paying more than 25 per cent of his income to federal, state and local governments in the form of taxation.

"With the additional staggering increases proposed, American citizens will find themselves turning over to the government between one-third and one-half of all they earn so that the government may spend it for them. This can lead only to less independence for the individual and more dependence on government — exactly the socialist goal."

Martin let fly in a statement—as Congress made ready to receive Mr. Truman's budget message tomorrow. Capitol Hill expected it to call for about $70,000,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and for a new tax hike in the neighborhood of $16,000,000,000 to put defense spending on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Uninvited Guest Kills Himself At Home Party

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 14 (AP)—An uninvited guest walked into a home party near Indiana Central College last night and shot himself to death. A dozen adults and seven small children watched.

State Police Detective Lawrence Broderick said the victim was Joseph McKee, 57, Indianapolis, rejected suitor of a woman at the party.

Gen. MacArthur 'Blundered,' War Reporter Says

"Misinterpreted" Red Withdrawals

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur was accused of "unsound deployment of the United Nations forces and a momentous blunder" by an American war correspondent in this week's Look magazine.

Homer Bigart of the New York Herald-Tribune, who has been reporting the war in Korea, wrote that a blunder by the United Nations commander "helped insure the success of the enemy's strategy."

"It is a great tragedy that a man who served his country so nobly should be hounded and disparaged in the final hours of his career," the article said.

Criticized For One Decision

"But this is one of the occupational hazards of being a general. MacArthur grossly miscalculated the intentions, strength and capabilities of the forces against him.

"And no nation in the spot we are in can string along with a leader whose ill-considered decision to launch the offensive of November 24 precipitated and magnified the swift disaster."

Bigart said it was on that one decision that MacArthur must be criticized.

Red Tactics Not New

The writer said MacArthur misinterpreted mysterious Chinese withdrawals and thought they were the result of demoralization by air and artillery bombardment.

He said stealthy maneuvers by Communist forces in Korea were no more novel than tactics of American Minute Men against the British on the road back from Lexington in 1775.

Industrialist Dies

Plane Skids Past End Of Runway Into Ditch, Burns

21 Survive Tragedy At Philadelphia Port

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14 (AP) — A heroic airline stewardess, four other women and two babies died today in the flaming wreckage of a four-engine National Airlines plane that skidded past the end of a runway, crashed into a ditch and burned in landing at International Airport.

The stewardess, who aided many of the 19 other passengers to escape with minor injuries, lost her life in her effort to save all aboard.

Mary Frances Housley, 24, Jacksonville, Fla., a diminutive brunette who had been with the airline only since last August, was found dead in the wreckage, her arms around one of the two babies. Survivors of the crash told how she opened the cabin door, cautioned them to "take it easy," and made repeated trips into the burning plane to aid others.

Pilot, Co-Pilot Escape

The pilot and co-pilot of the DC-4 plane escaped injury as the huge craft came to a stop with the fuselage bridging the 10-foot ditch at the edge of the big airport. The plane had crashed through a heavy wire guard fence and hit a beacon light that clipped off part of the left wing like a match snapped in two. Almost immediately fire flashed through the wreckage.

It was alternately raining and snowing as the big plane, making its only stop on a Newark, N. J., to Norfolk, Va., flight, touched down for the landing at 2:13 p m. (EST). The 6,000-foot paved runway was coated with nearly an inch of slush and water, but was rated safe for operations. Visibility was 1½ miles.

A Civil Aeronautics Administration employe on duty in the airport control tower said the big plane was making an instrument landing because of clouds covering the airport. It was a "normal" landing he added, but the plane overran the runway, rammed through the fence and bumped across the ditch, coming to a stop with the after section of the fuselage bridging the 10-foot cut.

Drop 10 Feet To Safety

A National Airlines official said that the 21 persons who escaped alive jumped from the plane within 90 seconds after it came to a stop. Many of them suffered cuts and bruises in the 10 foot drop from the cabin door to the ground. Others were burned, although none was reported in serious condition.

Mrs. Manuela Smith, wife of a sailor stationed at Norfolk, Va., escaped alive with her three-year-old daughter Betty Jane. But her infant daughter Brenda Joyce died in the wreckage. Among the dead, also, were Mrs. H. Marchiano and her infant son of Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

The other dead were identified by the airline as Mrs. N. B. Joynes, 58, Norfolk, Va.; Marion Carden, 28, Norfolk, Va., and a woman listed on the passenger manifest as Mrs. Hubian, New York City.

Shift Of NSRB Offices To DPA Is Expected

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Most of the offices now under the top level National Security Resources Board, of which W. Stuart Symington is chairman, are expected to be transferred shortly to William H. Harrison's new Defense Production Administration, informed persons said today.

These informants who did not wish to be named, said the shift is expected when Senate confirmation of Harrison's nomination clears the way for him to take over his new duties. That seems likely within the next two weeks.

30,000 Enemy Troops Sneak Behind Allies

2nd Division Gets New Commander

TOKYO, Monday, Jan. 15 (AP) — U. S. Second Division troops today stood fast near Wonju in Central Korea despite a threat by up to 30,000 infiltrating North Korean Reds to outflank the entire division.

Coincident with field operations on the critical Sobaek Mountain front were two other developments: (1) Replacement without explanation of the Second Division's commander; (2) conferences of the U. S. Army's chief of staff and other top generals from Washington with Gen. MacArthur in Tokyo.

Advance elements of the Second Division clung firmly to their tight perimeter one and a half to two miles south of Wonju, AP Correspondent William C. Barnard reported this morning from the front. Wonju is the control point for a highway network to Southeast Korea.

There was no new word on the menace posed by North Koreans who have infiltrated at points more than 50 miles below Wonju. But a division spokesman said today heavy enemy troop movements continued from West Korea toward the Wonju area.

The Wonju front was quiet Sunday night with no enemy contact.

In Korea, the Eighth Army announced without explanation that Maj. Gen. Robert B. McClure was being replaced as Second Division commander by Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner. McClure had been named to the command only Dec. 11 after the Second Division lost one-third of its men in holding back the Chinese Red offensive in North Korea to permit the Eighth Army to withdraw.

In the past week the division has staved off repeated Communist smashes in South Korea on the Wonju front, but today was confronted with a dire threat of being outflanked and cut off.

In detailing the Red maneuvers, a division spokesman in the field told AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw:

"There are growing indications that the enemy will not be content merely to drive us off the Korean peninsula. They want to separate us and cut us to pieces."

The U. S. Second Division, with battalions of French and Dutch infantry operating as part of its effective strength, was still holding fast to a wedge in Communist lines.

The wedge was 25 miles deep and 40 miles wide at its base.

For a week, this force with its northernmost tip just south of Wonju, has denied Communist forces access to an important network of mountain-pass roads leading directly south to the old Pusan defense lines of last summer.

Field dispatches Sunday said infiltrating Reds were sneaking down the snow-banked Soebak Mountain passes trying to link up with guerrillas, the Eighth Army said were operating as far as 100 miles below the 38th parallel.

Correspondent Tom Bradshaw with the Second Division south of Wonju said Communist forces had crept through U. N. positions in the sector between Chechon and Yongwol.

Dope Distributor Kingpin Nabbed

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14 (AP) — A Washington man described by federal agents as the "biggest marihuana distributor" in this area was under arrest today after being duped by an undercover worker for the narcotics bureau.

James Watkins, 28-year-old negro, was snared yesterday in a trap sprung by 15 federal, Baltimore, Washington and Maryland State Police.

Boyd M. Martin, district supervisor of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, said Watkins was arrested in his automobile after selling a pound of raw marihuana to the undercover agent who had worked himself into the dope distribution ring.

The district supervisor called Watkins the kingpin marihuana peddler of Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. He said the capture climaxed a two-year game of cat-and-mouse.

Flood Threatens Town

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 14 (AP) —Almost four and one-half inches of rain, which fell here in 18 hours, has sent Little River boiling over its banks and stopped travel in two main highways.

The American Red Cross reported tonight that eight or 10 families had been moved from their homes near the river.

$2,200 Will Build A-Bomb Shelter For Your Family

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—The atom bomb shelter man says that for $2,200 he can build a good safe place in which a family can hide.

The A.B.S. man is J. M. Woods of Baltimore, who has been running ads in Baltimore and Washington newspapers. The heading reads:

"Safeguard your family from the atom bomb."

Then follows a picture of a house, with bomb shelter attached, and the question:

"Have you considered 'A' bomb shelter of your own for your family . . . in your home?"

Naturally I hustled right around to see how business was. Surprisingly, in view of the headlines these days, the answer is not so good.

"I expect it to bust loose any moment, and we'll really get going," said Woods, who has spent 26 years in the construction business, with three years out for service in the Coast Guard.

"Right now about all I'm getting is feelers, mostly from women. On something like this, people hold back. They don't want to be the first."

Paper Co. Has Heavy Expenses For Remodeling

Luke Plant Receives New Furnace, Boiler

The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company revealed yesterday in its annual report that heavy expenditures at its three mills were required to complete rebuilding and remodeling plans in 1950.

At the Luke plant the program involved a major change-over from old cook to a modern sulphate process, designed to permit more efficient use of the kinds of wood most readily available in this region. This involved installation of a new 250-ton recovery furnace and high-pressure boiler, plus an electrostatis precipitator.

The annual report also revealed the company's net profit for the fiscal year ended October 31 was $12,262,000, equal to $12.93 a common share. This compares with a net of $10,842,169, or $11.45 a share in the preceding year.

Sales during the latest fiscal year amounted to $95,464,000, against $88,441,000 a year ago.

Paper and paperboard production in 1950 rose to 685,400 tons compared with 642,700 tons in 1949. During the last year the company also produced, in sales value, $5,936,000 of chemicals, against $5,614,000 in 1949.

The annual report to stockholders also includes a series of photographs depicting the company's multiple activities. These photographs illustrate such subjects as harvesting, storage and shipment of wood, water and power sources used in papermaking, maintenance and rebuilding of machines, research, safety measures and finished products.

Some of the photographs were made at the Luke plant including pictures of Willis McCombs checking motors stored and dismantled for repairs and rebuilding at the Luke plant. Another photograph shows Dana Wescott, Christine Parker, Gean Davis and Lyman Aldrich of the Luke plant working in the research laboratory of the mill. The report is printed on paper produced at the Luke plant.

President David L. Luke, Jr., said when the report was released, the total of capital expenditures since the end of World War II amounted to nearly $50,000,000. To complete the expansion and improvement program at the three pulp plants owned by the company may require outside financing, he added.

The three plants are located at Charleston, S. C., Covington, Va., and Luke.

Husbands Given Bibles At Church

Two husbands were given New Testaments and Psalms last night at First Baptist Church as Rev. O. Afton Linger began his "Building Bible Homes For Christ" series with a sermon on "Who is The Boss at Your House?"

Jesse Sachs, 202 Decatur Street, who has been married to Mrs. Sachs 40 years, was presented a New Testament and Psalms in Great Primer type for having been married to the same woman longer than any other man in the congregation. Leo McGann, this city, who has been married only six months, was given a pocket Testament containing the New Testament and the Psalms, as the shortest-term husband.

Several men took places in the seats reserved for "Henpecked Husbands," but Rev. Linger announced that these men must not be very much hen-pecked or they would have been afraid to have sat there.

The quarterly business meeting of First Baptist Church will be held Wednesday immediately following the 7:30 p.m. worship. Refreshments will follow the meeting.

Boy, 8, Shot And Killed By Younger Brother

BERWYN, Md., Jan. 14 (AP) — An eight-year-old boy was accidentally shot and killed by his six-year-old brother today while their parents were away from the house.

Charles Norman Lose was killed instantly by a .22 caliber rifle bullet which struck him in the heart.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lose, were making the rounds of the husband's trash collection route when the shooting occurred.

Police said they learned that the boy was shot by his brother, David, after another three-year-old brother had found the rifle standing in the corner of their parents' bedroom.

Baltimore Transit Strike Date To Be Set

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14 (AP)—A date for the start of a strike against the Baltimore Transit Company will be set here Tuesday by the executive committee of the AFL union representing bus and streetcar operators and maintenance workers.

The union got the green light from the workers as they voted 2,975 to 170 in favor of the walkout in their contract dispute with the privately owned transit company that carries more than half a million Baltimoreans daily.

Police, Firemen Search Wreckage Of Crashed Plane

Police and firemen search the smoldering mass of a National Airlines plane that crashed on a snow-swept runway at Philadelphia yesterday, killing seven persons. At right, part of the plane lies suspended across a fence and gulley. The plane was en route from Newark, N. J., to Norfolk, Va., with 22 passengers and a crew of three aboard.

Johnson Against Permanent UMT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said today he will fight the administration's request for a permanent universal military service and training program "as un-American and undemocratic.".

"The proposal of Anna Rosenberg is the most brash and shocking ever made to the Congress in its 162 years of existence," the big, blunt-speaking westerner added.

He referred to Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense.

She and Secretary of Defense Marshall presented the Defense Department's program, including draft of 18-year-olds for 27 months service, as approved by President Truman and all administration agencies.

The hearings will continue daily this week.

The present draft act permits inductions of men from 19 through 25.

Sen. Johnson said he did not object to lowering the draft age "if this is necessary to build up our forces during an emergency but I think Congress ought to prohibit sending any 18-year-olds overseas or out of the United States."

Man's Body, Legs Burned, Is Found

MARTINS FERRY, O., Jan. 14. (AP) — A middle-aged, well-dressed man was found slain in a car on a lonely country lane today, his throat slit from ear to ear and his gasoline-splattered body partly burned.

Sheriff Cloyd Barricklow said he is working on the theory the victim may be wanted as a witness by Senate crime investigators who open a hearing in Cleveland Wednesday. But in Cleveland, a committee investigator who declined use of his name, said the committee was not interested in the case.

The body was found in a car 100 yards off state Route 7, two miles north of Martins Ferry. It was wrapped in a gasoline-soaked rug, and the legs had been burned off up to the hips.

The body still was smoldering at 7:10 a. m. (EST) when a Mr. Nevin, who lives in the sparsely-settled area, discovered smoke coming from the car. The sheriff said he found one license plate, which he said had been issued to a Columbus, O., man, a few feet away from the car. The death car bore no license plates.

At Columbus, Police Lt. Lester Bauman said, however, the license plate had been reported lost earlier.

Assembly Due To Get Redistricting Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 14 (AP)—A measure to redistrict the state to provide a constituency for a seventh Maryland congressman is almost certain to be introduced during this General Assembly session.

There may be several.

Because the 1950 census returns showed that Maryland has grown in population proportionally more than some other states, this state is entitled to seven—instead of the present six—members of the House of Representatives.

The new congressman will be named in the 1952 general election.

Unless the Legislature redistricts the state before then, the seventh congressman will be elected at-large.

Judge Harris Sentences Pair To Prison Terms

A local youth and a man were ordered confined in state institutions by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court Saturday.

John R. Parsons, 16, of Washington Street, who pleaded guilty to one count of statutory burglary and another for breaking and entering, was ordered placed in the Maryland Training School for Boys.

W. T. Berry, this city, was sent to the House of Correction for one year for breaking a one-year parole imposed on him in Circuit Court.

In another case, Arch Taylor, 61, of 106 North Mechanic Street, was given a suspended sentence for larceny and paroled for two years.

Welba Casteel, of Keyser, W. Va., pleaded guilty to two counts of false pretense and was given a suspended sentence of one year in the House of Correction and placed on parole for three years.

The Parsons youth was indicted for breaking into the warehouse of Gerald F. Butler, Virginia Avenue, and entering the garage of Norman F. Geatz, Smallwood Street.

Harris sentenced Parsons to the training school until authorities there feel that he has been rehabilitated sufficiently.

Berry was given the one-year term for breaking a one-year parole imposed on him just two weeks previously on a theft conviction.

He was apprehended January 4 by City Police. Berry admitted taking whisky from the Geatz warehouse.

Casteel pleaded guilty to two charges of passing bad checks to local merchants. He was ordered to make restitution, abstain from alcohol during the three-year probation period, and place a $100 peace bond.

Taylor was indicted on a charge of statutory burglary in connection with a $35 robbery at the home of Fort Cumberland Lodge No. 176, IBPOEW.

He was ordered to make restitution in full within three months and abstain from alcohol in addition to posting a $100 personal recognizance bond.

Today Samuel B. Lyons, 44, of Paw Paw, W. Va., will be tried before a jury on a charge of manslaughter, in the traffic death of the postmaster of Manns Choice, Pa., Asa Stuckey Sams.

County Group Urges Farmers To Buy Early

County farmers are being urged to buy their supplies of lime and fertilizer early to help ease the transportation problem which is developing because of national defense preparations, Albert O'Neal, chairman of the County Production and Marketing Administration, said.

O'Neal pointed out that many farmers secure their materials with the help of the Agricultural Conservation Program which is administered by the PMA. He suggested the farmers make their farm plans for the coming year known early so that orders for necessary materials can be placed in time.

Cumberlanders Are Top Winners In Honey Contest Held Here

The forty-second annual conclave of the Maryland State Beekeepers Association was held here Saturday afternoon in conjunction with the fourteenth annual Maryland Honey Sweetstakes, which resulted in two Cumberlanders winning top honors.

Approximately 50 representatives, including visitors from West Virginia and Pennsylvania, attended the meeting in the showroom of the St. George Motor Company, South George Street. Winners in the honey contest were:

John H. Lindner and his son, John V. Lindner, both of Shade's Lane, first and second prize, respectively; L. B. Shearman, Jr., and his father, L. B. Shearman, Sr., third and fourth, respectively.

Other awards went to Fern Wilson, this city; Walter Rheinheimer, Baltimore; F. D. Covell, Frederick; Edward O'Donnell, Cumberland; G. W. Marshall, Baldwin; W. C. Long and W. R. Schumann, Baltimore, and James Lindner, this city. Judges were James M. Marsh, Hyattsville, retired government employe, and George J. Abrams, state apiarist at the University of Maryland, College Park.

Speakers included Harold L. Kelley, Silver Spring, president, who reviewed activities of the association last year; B. A. Chandler, Washington, chairman of the bee forage improvement committee, who discussed the pollinating benefit of bees to clover seed growers, and Abrams. The latter reported on "Communication Among Honey Bees".

Abrams said the association went on record as favoring Baltimore as the 1952 site for the National Beekeepers Convention Plans were made to hold a "house-warming" during the early spring in the new agricultural building now being constructed on the University of Maryland campus. New officers are usually elected at the spring meeting in Towson.

Abrams said all six of the floral sources of honey in Maryland were represented among approximately 720 jars. They are tulip tree, basswood tree, sumac, lima bean, buckwheat and clover.

The forty-third annual meeting of the Maryland association will be held in Baltimore.

Paper Co. Has Heavy Expenses For Remodeling

Luke Plant Receives New Furnace, Boiler

The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company revealed yesterday in its annual report that heavy expenditures at its three mills were required to complete rebuilding and remodeling plans in 1950.

At the Luke plant the program involved a major change-over from old cook to a modern sulphate process, designed to permit more efficient use of the kinds of wood most readily available in this region. This involved installation of a new 250-ton recovery furnace and high-pressure boiler, plus an electrostatis precipitator.

The annual report also revealed the company's net profit for the fiscal year ended October 31 was $12,262,000, equal to $12.93 a common share. This compares with a net of $10,842,169, or $11.45 a share in the preceding year.

Sales during the latest fiscal year amounted to $95,464,000, against $88,441,000 a year ago.

Paper and paperboard production in 1950 rose to 685,400 tons compared with 642,700 tons in 1949. During the last year the company also produced, in sales value, $5,936,000 of chemicals, against $5,614,000 in 1949.

The annual report to stockholders also includes a series of photographs depicting the company's multiple activities. These photographs illustrate such subjects as harvesting, storage and shipment of wood, water and power sources used in papermaking, maintenance and rebuilding of machines, research, safety measures and finished products.

Some of the photographs were made at the Luke plant including pictures of Willis McCombs checking motors stored and dismantled for repairs and rebuilding at the Luke plant. Another photograph shows Dana Wescott, Christine Parker, Gean Davis and Lyman Aldrich of the Luke plant working in the research laboratory of the mill. The report is printed on paper produced at the Luke plant.

President David L. Luke, Jr., said when the report was released, the total of capital expenditures since the end of World War II amounted to nearly $50,000,000. To complete the expansion and improvement program at the three pulp plants owned by the company may require outside financing, he added.

The three plants are located at Charleston, S. C., Covington, Va., and Luke.

Husbands Given Bibles At Church

Two husbands were given New Testaments and Psalms last night at First Baptist Church as Rev. O. Afton Linger began his "Building Bible Homes For Christ" series with a sermon on "Who is The Boss at Your House?"

Jesse Sachs, 202 Decatur Street, who has been married to Mrs. Sachs 40 years, was presented a New Testament and Psalms in Great Primer type for having been married to the same woman longer than any other man in the congregation. Leo McGann, this city, who has been married only six months, was given a pocket Testament containing the New Testament and the Psalms, as the shortest-term husband.

Several men took places in the seats reserved for "Henpecked Husbands," but Rev. Linger announced that these men must not be very much hen-pecked or they would have been afraid to have sat there.

The quarterly business meeting of First Baptist Church will be held Wednesday immediately following the 7:30 p.m. worship. Refreshments will follow the meeting.

Boy, 8, Shot And Killed By Younger Brother

BERWYN, Md., Jan. 14 (AP) — An eight-year-old boy was accidentally shot and killed by his six-year-old brother today while their parents were away from the house.

Charles Norman Lose was killed instantly by a .22 caliber rifle bullet which struck him in the heart.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lose, were making the rounds of the husband's trash collection route when the shooting occurred.

Police said they learned that the boy was shot by his brother, David, after another three-year-old brother had found the rifle standing in the corner of their parents' bedroom.

Baltimore Transit Strike Date To Be Set

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14 (AP)—A date for the start of a strike against the Baltimore Transit Company will be set here Tuesday by the executive committee of the AFL union representing bus and streetcar operators and maintenance workers.

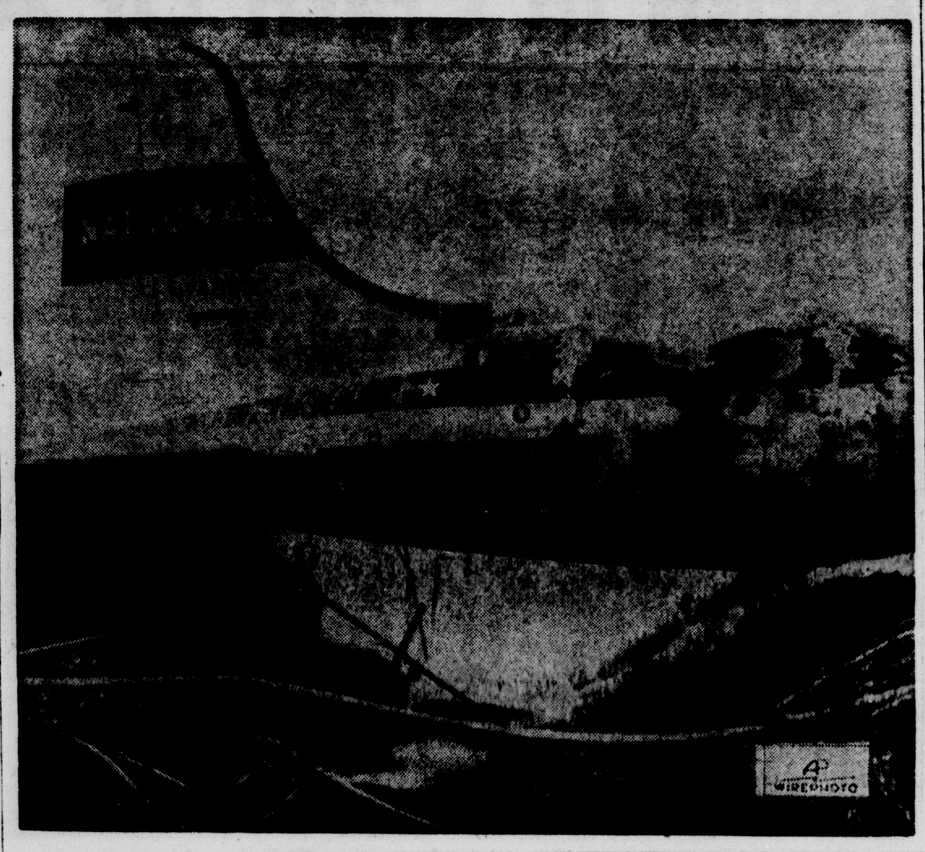
The union got the green light from the workers as they voted 2,975 to 170 in favor of the walkout in their contract dispute with the privately owned transit company that carries more than half a million Baltimoreans daily.

News In Brief

Theodore A. Blunk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Blunk, 818 Buckingham Road, has been appointed to membership in the Press Club of the Mercersburg Academy. He has also been named a member of the staff of The Karux, prize-winning yearbook of the Mercersburg Academy.

Police, Firemen Search Wreckage Of Crashed Plane

Police and firemen search the smoldering mass of a National Airlines plane that crashed on a snow-swept runway at Philadelphia yesterday, killing seven persons. At right, part of the plane lies suspended across a fence and gulley. The plane was en route from Newark, N. J., to Norfolk, Va., with 22 passengers and a crew of three aboard.



Johnson Against Permanent UMT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said today he will fight the administration's request for a permanent universal military service and training program "as un-American and undemocratic."

"The proposal of Anna Rosenberg is the most brash and shocking ever made to the Congress in its 162 years of existence," the big, blunt-speaking westerner added.

He referred to Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense.

She and Secretary of Defense Marshall presented the Defense Department's program, including draft of 18-year-olds for 27 months service, as approved by President Truman and all administration agencies.

The hearings will continue daily this week.

The present draft act permits inductions of men from 19 through 25.

Sen. Johnson said he did not object to lowering the draft age "if this is necessary to build up our forces during an emergency but I think Congress ought to prohibit sending any 18-year-olds overseas or out of the United States."

Man's Body, Legs Burned, Is Found

MARTINS FERRY, O., Jan. 14. (AP) — A middle-aged, well-dressed man was found slain in a car on a lonely country lane today, his throat slit from ear to ear and his gasoline-splattered body partly burned.

Sheriff Cloyd Barricklow said he is working on the theory the victim may be wanted as a witness by Senate crime investigators who open a hearing in Cleveland Wednesday. But in Cleveland, a committee investigator who declined use of his name, said the committee was not interested in the case.

The body was found in a car 100 yards off state Route 7, two miles north of Martins Ferry. It was wrapped in a gasoline-soaked rug, and the legs had been burned off up to the hips.

The body still was smoldering at 7:10 a. m. (EST) when a Mr. Nevin, who lives in the sparsely-settled area, discovered smoke coming from the car. The sheriff said he found one license plate, which he said had been issued to a Columbus, O., man, a few feet away from the car. The death car bore no license plates.

At Columbus, Police Lt. Lester Bauman said, however, the license plate had been reported lost earlier.

Assembly Due To Get Redistricting Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 14 (AP)—A measure to redistrict the state to provide a constituency for a seventh Maryland congressman is almost certain to be introduced during this General Assembly session.

There may be several.

Because the 1950 census returns showed that Maryland has grown in population proportionally more than some other states, this state is entitled to seven—instead of the present six—members of the House of Representatives.

The new congressman will be named in the 1952 general election.

Unless the Legislature redistricts the state before then, the seventh congressman will be elected at-large.

Mineral Grand Jury To Ponder Eight Charges

Short Term Seems Likely In Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va. — Only seven cases are prepared for presentation to the January Mineral County Circuit Court grand jury at the present time, but it is likely there will be an eighth case when the jurors meet Tuesday morning in the re-decorated court room.

Don Hott has been working on the cases and said the term should be a short one, perhaps shorter than the October term. There are fewer cases for grand jury action.

On the civil side, there is the Daskal group of cases, four remaining for action before juries, one having been added to the civil docket since the last term. One of the Daskal cases has been tried, resulting in a $5,000 verdict being returned by the jury for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Daskal Heinisch, a daughter of Thomas Daskal, who was fatally injured when the car, in which they were riding, and a truck owned by the Schriver Company, of Cumberland, collided on the Knobley Mountain Road last June.

Mrs. Heinisch was hospitalized for a long time and received treatment since leaving the hospital. She had asked for $15,000 damages. The other cases remaining on the docket for hearing are: Mrs. Thomas Daskal, widow of the deceased man, $15,000; James Daskal, nephew, $15,000, and Genevieve Ann Daskal, daughter, $2,900. Another suit, filed last month by Mrs. Daskal, the widow, asks for payment of $2,500, financial loss of the car that was totally wrecked and hospital and doctor expenses and funeral costs.

Another case that went to trial at the last term with the jury returning a guilty verdict, was the case of James William Mason, charged wih a second offense of driving a car while intoxicated. He claimed in his trial that past war services overseas caused him to black out, and claimed he was not drinking. The court was asked for a stay of execution of sentence in the case to give time to file on appeal to the West Virginia Supreme Court. The time granted will expire at this term of court. The case will automatically come up before the term is adjourned.

The case against Miss Ruth Iser Oates, brought as the result of nonpayment of insurance for loss of her home by fire, will again be brought up. It is understood that a new trial will be asked. If refused an appeal is expected to be taken to the Supreme Court.

SCRIBNER CRASHES — These pictures were taken at Miami, Fla., when Kim Scribner, native of Piedmont, W. Va., and well-known in the Tri-State area, was severely injured in a glider crash. In the upper picture Scribner, national sailplane champion, is shown hanging upside down from the crashed aircraft after an accident at the Miami Air Show. He was seriously injured but survived. The lower left picture shows the powerless craft which the ex-Piedmont man was flying upside down. The lower right picture was taken when its wing dropped, dug into ground and crashed. Speaker Boosts Community Business Support

Gruber Addresses Tri-Towns Lions

WESTERNPORT—J. D. Gruber, sales representative for McIntyre's Bakery here and in the Washington (Pa.) area, was the guest speaker at the recent dinner meeting of the Westernport and Luke Lions Club.

The theme of Gruber's talk was "Community Cooperation." He pointed out why people in the community should patronize their home industries and business places. How civic improvements could be obtained by the three towns here cooperating were also presented.

The club will hold a public "Hobo" dance at the home of Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, Wednesday, January 24, from 9 to 12 midnight. The music will be furnished by "Doc" Kenny's orchestra, of Mt. Savage.

Russell Keplinger and Harry Miller were received into the club as new members. Joseph Nelson, Heber Poland, James Dotson and Dwaine Stewart were appointed to make arrangements for a Ladies Night dinner to be held some time in March. Walter Woodson and Norman Baughman were selected to attend the meeting of the Boys Little Baseball League. The members of the club are collecting clothes for a needy family.

George M. Boyles and Alexander Hawkins, member of the Bruce High School faculty, were guests at the dinner.

Family Fetes Thomas Pair

PARSONS, W. Va.—Mr. and Mrs. David Swartz, of Thomas, were honored with a dinner and open house in observance of their golden wedding January 9, by their children and friends.

Mr. Swartz and his wife, the former Laura Hockman, were married in Cumberland, Md., January 9, 1901, with Rev. A. J. Gill, officiating. They resided in Davis for several years then moved to Thomas 32 years ago, where Mr. Swartz was an electrical engineer for the Davis Coal and Coke until his retirement a few years ago.

They are the parents of four children, John V. Swartz, Mrs. Marshall Billmyer, Mrs. Gilbert Rice, and Mrs. Alice Cocchiaro all of Washington, D. C. They also have 14 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren all of whom were present for the anniversary as well as a sister of Mr. Swartz, Mrs. Albert Dawson of Davis. Sixty eight guests called in the afternoon. The table was decorated with yellow rosebuds and gold colored candles. Mrs. John V. Swartz, presided at the punch bowl.

Mrs. Swartz was president of the Women's work of the Thomas Presbyterian church for 14 years and is also a member of the Walter Chapter No. 43, Order of Eastern Star of Davis and is a member of the Thomas Woman's club.

Club Will Assist In Organ Purchase

FROSTBURG — All funds of the Goodwill Club of the Shaft Methodist Church will be used toward purchase of an electric organ for the church.

This decision was reached at a recent meeting at the home of Elizabeth Laymon. At the same session, Arliss Chapman, Gladys Johnson and Elizabeth Laymon were named to a committee which will arrange a play for presentation by the club members. The February 8 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bessie McKenzie.

School Of Missions Set In Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—The annual "School of Missions," will begin tonight at the Duffey Memorial Methodist Church.

The text this year is the new advance book entitled, "Endless Line of Splendor." Louis Fatkin Will Head Tri-Towns March Of Dimes, Opening Tuesday

Staggers To Direct Piedmont Campaign

WESTERNPORT—Louis A. Fatkin, Westernport attorney, is chairman again this year for the March of Dimes for Westernport, Luke and McCole, which will open Tuesday, January 16.

Meanwhile, in Piedmont, W. Va., Vernon A. Staggers, Piedmont High School principal, and Postmaster Patrick J. Healy will be in charge of the March of Dimes fund raising. The campaign there begins today, with solicitations in theatres and places of business. They are stressing that last year 33,334 persons were stricken with polio.

Mrs. May Adams will be chairman of the Westernport section with J. Carr Getty as vice-chairman. At McCoole, Fred Sheeley, principal of the McCoole School, will be in charge and William G. Fatkin, principal of the Luke School and father of Chairman Fatkin, will head the campaign at Luke.

Miss Nellie Dowling, principal of the Hammond Street School will be in charge of solicitations there with John E. Grindle in charge at Bruce High School. Paul J. Welsh will direct solicitation of contributions at St. Peter's Parochial School and also at the Welsh Theatre.

Wayne Ritchie and Edmund Getty will have charge of the campaign at the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Fatkin will call upon P. J. O'Brien, Luke, who for many years directed the drive in the Westernport area, to act in an advisory capacity this year.

The annual dance at Jake's Place will be held the latter part of this month. The committee sponsoring the dance includes Fatkin, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. John Thomas, Mrs. Flo Clower and Mrs. Virgil Raines.

The national goal this year will be $50,000,000, the foundation epidemic fund having been wiped out entirely fighting infantile paralysis in 1950.

"This drive concerns all Americans as the fight against polio is everybody's fight. It is only because people everywhere have been willing to help their friends and neighbors when polio strikes that no victim stands alone," Fatkin said.

Legion Hears District Leader

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — W. I. "Chuck" Braithwaite of Berkeley Springs, commander of the Tenth District of West Virginia of the American Legion, addressed a joint meeting of Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, A. L. and the Auxiliary Unit of the post at the Legion Home.

Commander Braithwaite, who is employed as a physiotherapist at the Newton D. Baker Hospital, Martinsburg, discussed the rehabilitation program in general. Commander Braithwaite was introduced by Glenn Boyd of Kelly-Mansfield Post, the immediate past district commander.

Elmer May, commander of the local post presented Roland Tabler, commander of the Ridgeley Post, who spoke of some of the problems they encountered in building their new home there. They will hold open house on March 1. Moving pictures of naval combat taken during World War II in the South Pacific were shown.

Family Fetes Thomas Pair

PARSONS, W. Va.—Mr. and Mrs. David Swartz, of Thomas, were honored with a dinner and open house in observance of their golden wedding January 9, by their children and friends.

Mr. Swartz and his wife, the former Laura Hockman, were married in Cumberland, Md., January 9, 1901, with Rev. A. J. Gill, officiating. They resided in Davis for several years then moved to Thomas 32 years ago, where Mr. Swartz was an electrical engineer for the Davis Coal and Coke until his retirement a few years ago.

They are the parents of four children, John V. Swartz, Mrs. Marshall Billmyer, Mrs. Gilbert Rice, and Mrs. Alice Cocchiaro all of Washington, D. C. They also have 14 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren all of whom were present for the anniversary as well as a sister of Mr. Swartz, Mrs. Albert Dawson of Davis. Sixty eight guests called in the afternoon. The table was decorated with yellow rosebuds and gold colored candles. Mrs. John V. Swartz, presided at the punch bowl.

Mrs. Swartz was president of the Women's work of the Thomas Presbyterian church for 14 years and is also a member of the Walter Chapter No. 43, Order of Eastern Star of Davis and is a member of the Thomas Woman's club.

The directors are C. C. Wise, H. C. Welton, G. S. Mathias, Howard Williams, R. E. Fisher, Carl S Welton, Ralph J. Bean and W. D. McCauley. The directors entertained the stockholders with a banquet at Hotel McNeill. C. C. Wise, cashier of the bank, made a report to the stockholders of the condition of the bank and Dr. R. W. Love, a stockholder, expressed the appreciation of that group for the work of the directors and the employes of the bank.

Louis Fatkin Will Head Tri-Towns March Of Dimes, Opening Tuesday

Staggers To Direct Piedmont Campaign

WESTERNPORT—Louis A. Fatkin, Westernport attorney, is chairman again this year for the March of Dimes for Westernport, Luke and McCole, which will open Tuesday, January 16.

Meanwhile, in Piedmont, W. Va., Vernon A. Staggers, Piedmont High School principal, and Postmaster Patrick J. Healy will be in charge of the March of Dimes fund raising. The campaign there begins today, with solicitations in theatres and places of business. They are stressing that last year 33,334 persons were stricken with polio.

Mrs. May Adams will be chairman of the Westernport section with J. Carr Getty as vice-chairman. At McCoole, Fred Sheeley, principal of the McCoole School, will be in charge and William G. Fatkin, principal of the Luke School and father of Chairman Fatkin, will head the campaign at Luke.

Miss Nellie Dowling, principal of the Hammond Street School will be in charge of solicitations there with John E. Grindle in charge at Bruce High School. Paul J. Welsh will direct solicitation of contributions at St. Peter's Parochial School and also at the Welsh Theatre.

Wayne Ritchie and Edmund Getty will have charge of the campaign at the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Fatkin will call upon P. J. O'Brien, Luke, who for many years directed the drive in the Westernport area, to act in an advisory capacity this year.

The annual dance at Jake's Place will be held the latter part of this month. The committee sponsoring the dance includes Fatkin, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. John Thomas, Mrs. Flo Clower and Mrs. Virgil Raines.

The national goal this year will be $50,000,000, the foundation epidemic fund having been wiped out entirely fighting infantile paralysis in 1950.

"This drive concerns all Americans as the fight against polio is everybody's fight. It is only because people everywhere have been willing to help their friends and neighbors when polio strikes that no victim stands alone," Fatkin said.

Retiring Lodge Leader Honored

FROSTBURG — C. Grant Durst, retiring worshipful master of Mountain Lodge, No. 99, A. F., and A. M., was presented with a Masonic jewel Thursday evening in the Masonic Temple by Dr. Walter E. Jeffries, who expressed the appreciation of the lodge for the services Durst rendered.

The newly elected worshipful master, Harold Carter, of Eckhart, also received gifts from his wife and his parents. Presentation of these gifts was made by the retiring worshipful master.

The annual auditors' report on the condition of the lodge was read by William B. Yates. The other auditors were Joseph Cook and Fred W. Boettner.

Following the installation of officers, refreshments were served by the following members of the Eastern Star, Mesdames C. Grant Durst, Hilda Kroll, C. Paul Miller, Edgar McFarland, Charles McFarland, Harold Carter, Margaretha Yates and Cecil Myers.

Taxing Until It Hurts

"Present conditions are such now, however, that it is necessary to tax until it hurts." That is what President Truman said in a letter to Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. Senator Byrd has been saying for years that the Administration's profligate spending policy would result in disaster. No doubt he was surprised when he opened the letter from the White House and discovered that it threatened taxes, not mayhem.

Sharp disagreement is already developing over where to take the next tax bite. Those hit squarely by any new tax on top of present rates are sure to feel they are being discriminated against.

"Hurt"is a word of more than one meaning. In "Hurt" is a word of more than one meaning. In to give pain rather than to injure. With the federal government's current tax take more than $45,000,000,000 annually, there is no way of taxing painlessly.

The American people will be forced to pay higher taxes, but no one can make them seem palatable. So the real problem for Congress is to devise taxes that will not do injury—by disrupting the economy, unduly inhibiting enterprise, discouraging hard work, or damaging public morale.

If such methods of taxation can be found, they will still hurt. But higher taxes may avert injury from zooming national debt.

But what kind of tax would meet present needs best? There is growing sentiment in favor of a federal sales tax. A sales tax in normal times is "recessive"—it causes reduced buying and starts a cycle where lowered production follows, income drops, buying is further reduced, and so on ad infinitum.

Most objections to a sales tax now are likely to come from those who fear it will be hard to get rid of in the future. The history of other "temporary" taxes indicates that such fears are not unwarranted. Nor will income taxes and other levies, if boosted still higher, be reduced in the future. The government will always be able to find ways of spending—or giving away—the money.

New Job For Hutchins

A noted university career ended when Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago, accepted appointment as associate director of the Ford Fouadation. While there are many notable college presidents today, few have been as much in the public eye as Hutchins, who for 21 years was first the president and then the chancellor at Chicago.

His most spectacular achievement was the abolition of intercollegiate football for the university. While Chicago had not shone in this sport for a number of years before giving up the game, it had previously had some extremely successful seasons, especially when Alonzo A. Stagg coached the team. A college president takes his job in his hands when he attacks the vested interest of intercollegiate football. Hutchins dared to do so, and survived the outraged complaints of the alumni.

Another innovation was the Great Books discussion group, in which citizens of many communities under local leaders simultaneously studied famous books, from ancient times to the present, which have influenced the world. This gave many their first detailed acquaintance with Plato, Aristotle, St. Thomas Aquinas, John Locke and many other thinkers.

The core of Hutchins' policy was his belief that a university's chief purpose is to advance learning. He believed that many American institutions going by the name of university were really only super-high schools catering to alumni without special knowledge of higher education or interest in it. Chicago was not founded to be one more such when it began its existence under President William R. Harper. Hutchins, following in Harper's path, compelled other university heads to meet his challenge to the existing order.

His fertile brain has now a new field for usefulness. The new undertakings of the Ford Foundation will be largely pioneer work. Hutchins seems just the man for such a post.

Sinclair Lewis

Sinclair Lewis, who died in Rome, was one of the greatest American novelists, how great will be for the future to determine, of course. His name meant little to the younger generation because his output in in the last two decades lacked the popularity of the four volumes—"Main Street," "Arrowsmith," "Elmer Gantry" and "Dodsworth"—by which his reputation was established.

"Main Street" took the country by storm in 1920. It is a satirical work on small towns in novel form, and everyone in the small towns of the nation read it and compared characters in it to acquaintances.

Lewis received the Nobel Prize for literature in 1930 and several years previously had turned down a Pulitizer Prize award, with the tongue-in-cheek comment that others were more deserving of it.

If in recent years Lewis' work was not up to his former standard, the fault was not so much the author's as it was the public's, which fancied new styles in literature. Lewis could have continued turning out new "Main Streets" until the end, but he failed to find a new theme that would be accepted spontaneously by the reading public.

Few people know that Lewis wrote six novels prior to "Main Street," none of which sold more than a few thousand copies, the first of which was published in 1914. The title was "Our Mr. Wrenn." Some critics compared his recent work to those first efforts, and attributed greater reader acceptance solely to his established reputation.

Start Of Crime

Police of Brisbane, Australia, preparing a case against a crook who had fallen into their hands, compiled a detailed list of his crimes, which were many. There were juvenile deliquencies, too, and the record showed that the first brush with authorities was in grammar school, from which he was expelled for smoking.

There are some meaty questions here for the sociologists. Were his feet planted on the road to crime in this first childhood experience of wrong-doing and punishment? If so, was the germ of his criminal career to be found in his violation of a school rule, or in the cutting of his normal education?

Such questions can be answered only by detailed study of the individual. But they must be raised whenever it is supposed that anyone, especially a youngster, has become an incorrigible wrongdoer.

Citizens who expressed doubt early in November that this would be much of a winter now regret their brasnness.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Beating Cold Weather

MY neighbor to the left, Mr. Collins, missed one of his favorite football games because the temperature was 18 degrees above and a fierce northwest wind was blowing thru the stadium. Later he found that his friends, including myself, had survived by wearing all the clothing that could be put on and still breathe and move. This prompted him to ask for a discussion on the psychological effects of exposure to cold, especially when immobilized.

It is well known that man was built to live in a warm climate and the Garden of Eden must have been a pleasant spot. But necessity is the mother of invention and with the aid of warm clothing and proper shelter our ancestors soon learned they could beat the cold even in arctic regions.

• — • — •

Despite centuries of exposure, however, the body still finds it difficult to acclimate itself to freezing temperatures. Most of us can fairly tolerate low degrees without injury to health but the extremities are always vulnerable. Unless they are protected chilblains or frostbite may ensue. How much cold we can tolerate depends to a great extent upon exercise and the degree of insulation obtained from clothing. Shivering is a natural response to cold and represents a form of exercise. These movements increase metabolism and generate heat thru friction.

But even though we tremble and shake and wear the warmest type of clothing, the body succumbs to the cold ultimately if we do not keep moving. At 10 degrees F., for example, the endurance of an inactive person is reduced to less than six hours; at 10 degrees below zero, to about four hours; at 40 below, to one and one-half hours; and at 70 below, to 25 minutes. With physical activity, these limits are extended markedly. The football spectator rarely is confronted with such bitter weather. Furthermore, his exertion depends upon the game. When the home team is ahead, the old grad is likely to jump up and down, wave his arms, and slap his friends on the back. The loser is quiet, glum, and cold.

My neighbor also asked why the football spectator feels dopey for several hours after arriving home. He blamed lack of circulation to some internal organ such as the liver or spleen. That is not necessarily true because several factors produce fatigue. Rewarming, for example, is likely to be overdone and many individuals, on returning home, take a hot foot bath or sit on a radiator or in front of a fire place. This leads to overheating, which is associated with a feeling of exhaustion and sleepiness for several hours thereafter. Cold itself has an exhausting effect on the system. It takes a lot of energy to keep warm—energy that should be utilized for productive work. Moreover, with prolonged exposure the brain becomes numbed. This is one of the reasons why the person who is lost in a blizzard develops an overpowering deside to sleep. When found, he is curled up in the snow, usually frozen to death.

The best ways to stay warm are to keep moving, wear adequate clothing and eat properly. Our food intake is comparable to the coal we burn in a furnace. The more calories it can produce the more energy is derived therefrom. Many women would not feel nearly so uncomfortable on blustery January mornings if they ate more for breakfast than a roll and cup of coffee. It is here that calories really count. Fats are richest in this respect and, pound for pound, they manufacture twice as much heat as do sugar and proteins. It is no wonder the Eskimo consumes large amounts of blubber.

ENLARGING THRYOID

Mrs. N. writes: Could the menopause cause a slight swelling of the thyroid.

REPLY

This occurs now and then because in the change of life all the endocrine glands are undergoing changes. May I suggest that you visit your family physician to determine whether the enlargement represents a simple swelling or a more serious disturbance.

WHISTLING AIR

K. P. writes: Could whistling cause gas on the stomach? You said that swallowing air is a cause of flatulence and since I whistle a lot, I must swallow air.

REPLY

The whistling air comes from the lungs. In this respect it is somewhat similar to the air that sets the vocal cords into vibration when we talk.

BEVERAGES

M. B. writes: Can a person with high blood pressure safely drink tea and coffee?

REPLY

Yes, in moderation, provided they do not increase nervousness or cause insomnia.

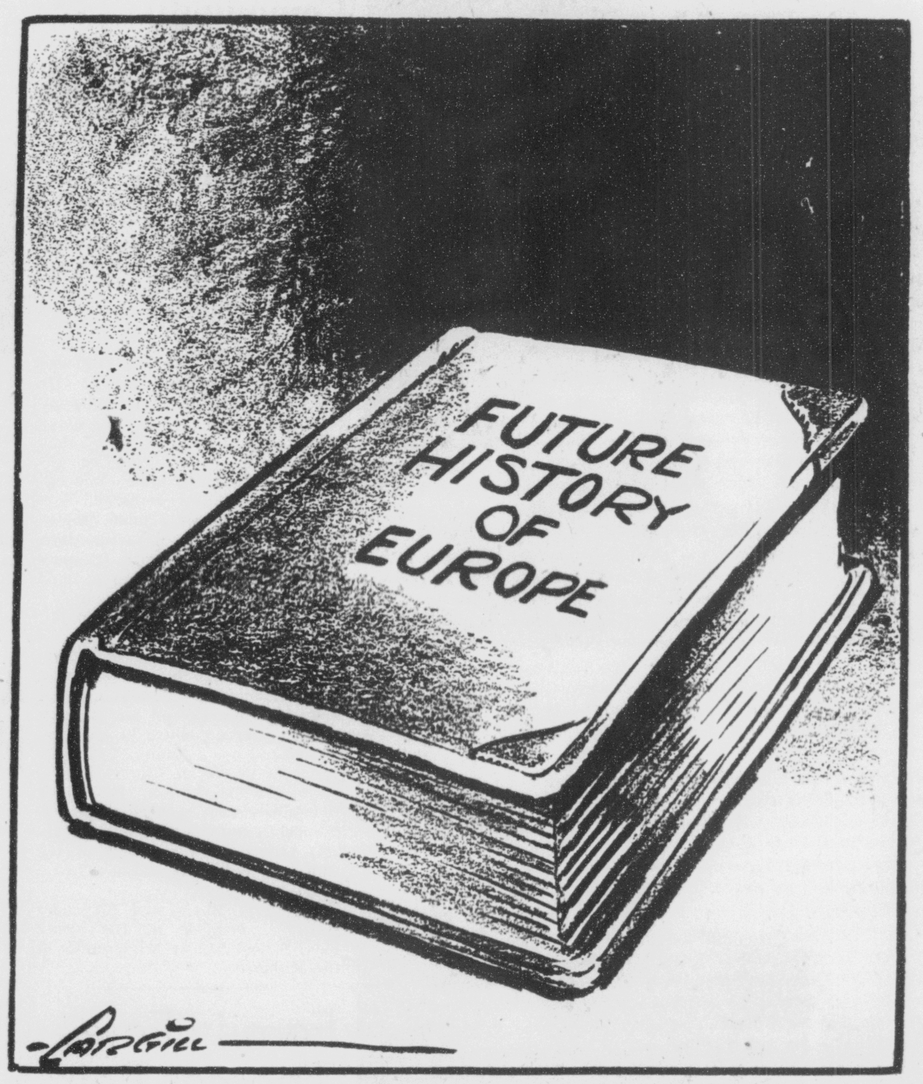
PULSATION

G. C. B. writes: What causes a vein under the eye to beat visibly?

REPLY

Examination would be required to determine the significance of this pulsation. It may be an artery or a muscle contraction such as occurs with a tic.

EISENHOWER "JACKET"



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

McCarthy Is Unwitting Dupe For German Communists; Wisconsin Senator Helps Spread Anti-American Resentment In Germany.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There is no part of the world where the United States has battled harder to prevent communism than in Germany, whose military-minded people and vast iron and steel resources can turn war into victory or defeat for Atlantic Pact nations.

Yet the biggest propaganda boost for communism and against the U. S. A. ever given the German people came from the man who sets himself up as the greatest enemy of communism — Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin.

Supporting this grave statement is evidence locked in the secret files of the Senate Armed Services Committee, evidence which a sub-committee went all the way to Germany to collect.

It shows that McCarthy allowed himself to become the mouthpiece of a German Communist agent — probably without realizing it. It shows that McCarthy charged the U. S. Army with torturing German prisoners in order to extract confessions. And finally it shows that McCarthy's speeches, made on the floor of the U. S. Senate, were later broadcast all over Germany in order to promote communism and inflame the German people against the U. S. A.

McCarthy's ill-advised propaganda speeches were in defense of the 12 Nazi SS men who lined up 80 unarmed American war prisoners and shot them in the Malmedy massacre during the Battle of the Bulge.

Nazis Go Unpunished

Of various atrocities committed during the war, this was by all odds the worst. It was more cold-blooded than any committed by the Japanese. Later the SS men who murdered the defenseless American prisoners were caught, tried, and 12 were found guilty. However, they have never been hanged and here is the reason.

After they were condemned to death, a German agent named Rudolf Aschenauer sent faked-up charged to Frederic Libby of the National Council for the Prevention of War, that U. S. Army prosecutors had tortured the Nazi SS men to obtain confessions.

Libby, not realizing he was being used, passed this on to McCarthy. He even passed it on in the same large brown envelopes he received from Munich, with Rudolf Aschenauer's name attached.

A high American intelligence officer later gave the Senate Armed Services Committee information linking Aschenauer with the Communist agitators who are trying to stir up German resentment against the U. S. A. Aschenauer, according to U. S. intelligence, was secretly affiliated with a Communist spy ring whose purpose was to keep the German people on Moscow's side.

Its job was to plant this dynamite-laden propaganda on McCarthy and then cable his inflammatory speeches back to Germany. There they were headlined in the press.

"I have seen documentary evidence that the (German war criminals) were subject to beatings and physical violence in such forms as could only be devised by warped minds," McCarthy stormed. "They were subjected to sham trials, to mock hangings; and families were deprived of rations—all of which the prosecution justified as being necessary to create the right psychological atmosphere in which to obtain confessions.

"It is an unquestioned fact," McCarthy shouted, "that an innocent man will scream just as loudly as a guilty man when being tortured, and, likewise, an innocent man will sign a confession just as quickly as a guilty man when being tortured."

Naturally this made headlines in Germany. Naturally these grave charges coming fro ma U. S. senator, were believed. And they turned thousands of Germans against the United States. Meanwhile, American taxpayers have been paying one billion dollars a year to feed the German people and keep them with us.

Republicans Investigate

McCarthy's charges were taken so seriously by Germans that to this day the army has not been able to execute the - convicted Nazi SS men. To hang them would cause extreme public reaction, possibly riots.

However, when the Senate subcommittee appointed to investigated his charges began to uncover the truth, McCarthy lashed out at his own colleagues. The subcommittee was controlled by Republicans and chairmanned by conscientious Sen. Ray Baldwin of Connecticut. Despite this, McCarthy raged: "This subcommittee not only has no desire to obtain the truth but is conducting a deliberate attempt to avoid the facts and effect a whitewash of the army officers involved."

During the committee hearings, McCarthy personally grilled U. S. Army officers, even demanding that they submit to lie-dector tests. This they agreed to do. However, McCarthy was not willing to have the German war criminals submit to the same lie detectors.

Senate Rebuffs McCarthy

And as his own GOP colleagues on the Senate committee dug deeper into the facts and got closer to exposing McCarthy, the Senator from Wisconsin staged a Vishinsky act and walked out of the hearings.

Nevertheless the Senate committee rebuffed its own colleague with an official report which came close to pinning the Communist label on McCarthy's sources.

"Through competent testimony submitted to the subcommittee," the report read, "it appeared that there are strong reasons to believe that groups within Germany are endeavoring....to discredit the American occupation forces in general. The subcommittee is convinced that there is an organized effort being made to revive the nationalistic spirit in Germany through every possible means. There is evidence that at least part of this effort is attempting to establish a close liaison with Communist Russia.

"Due to the manner in which the allegations in this case were being handled (by McCarthy) it was clear that no matter what the facts were in the case, in the minds of practically all Germans, the allegations were accepted as fact. This was certain to damage the American position in Germany....everything done to weaken the prestige of the United States and our occupation policies will play an important part in any emergency."

When McCarthy's wild charges were finally sifted down, the one billion dollars a year we spend in Germany was partly nullified, the Communist hand was strengthened, and the guilty SS men who shot 80 unarmed Americans in cold blood on a snowy day during the Battle of the Bulge still remained unpunished.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Value Of Tito

WASHINGTON

The problem of Yugoslavia sums up and represents all the immense range of problems, all involving peace, war and national survival, with which the American policy makers are now wrestling.

Here is a small, remote and rather backward country, ruled in a manner intensely distasteful to the American people, by men who not long ago were professed enemies of America. The national leader, Marshal Tito, expects an attack on Yugoslavia in the spring by the Soviet Union and/or its Hungarian, Rumanian and Bulgarian satellites. He may be right. He may be wrong. But at least his sincerity is proved by the fearful sacrifices he is making to the cause of preparedness, and he has at least had better opportunities to learn the ways of the Kremlin than almost anyone else.

The question therefore arises: "What do we do if Tito is right, and Yugoslavia is attacked in the spring?" The surface facts all point one way. There is nothing in the Yugoslav system that Americans feel bound to defend. Yugoslavia is not an ally. Our own rearmament is incomplete. The rearmament of our allies in Europe has hardly been begun. All these are weighty arguments for standing passively aside, while the Yugoslav nation is crushed by the weight of Soviet power. Beneath the surface, however, there is a whole new series of arguments, even more weighty, pointing in the opposite direction.

Points To Consider

First, the most important military force on the other side of the Atlantic today is the concentration at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, comprising the 30 Yugoslav divisions, the Turkish army of nearly 30 divisions, and the revivified army of Greece. These are troops whose fighting qualities are proven. Taken together, they actually constitute a larger force than any that can conceivably be organized in Western Europe before at least two years have elapsed. If the Yugoslav divisions are destroyed, the fate of Greece will be sealed; and Turkey, even if not invaded, will be wholly neutralized by the simple facts of geography.

Second, the Middle East is already a mush, politically and militarily. Particularly in Iran, the situation has deteriorated alarmingly in recent months. The capture of the Yugoslav position and the consequent neutralization of Turkey will expose the whole of the Middle East to the full force of Soviet pressure. The mere psychological impact of the unopposed conquest of Yugoslavia should be enough to induce a collapse or surrender in Iran, which will lead to other surrenders or political explosions in the other Middle Eastern countries. In short, all this vital area, with its immense strategic importance and its oil resources on which the economy of the whole Western alliance so directly depends, will soon be involved in Yugoslavia's fate.

Third, even these immediately forseeable consequences of the conquest of Yugoslavia will vastly reduce the usefulness of our most important strategic air bases—the advanced bases in Cyrenaica, Cyprus, and elsewhere in the eastern Mediterranean, from which the more remote Soviet targets beyond the Urals must be struck.

Could Lose Mediterranean

Fourth, it is also very probable that a Soviet triumph in Yugoslavia will have explosive political effects in France and Italy. If Yugoslavia falls, although we may hope for a different outcome, we must expect that so-called "neutraliste" regimes will soon be installed at Paris and Rome.

Fifth, a "neutraliste" government at Paris, committed to disarmament, with Communists in key posts, seeking to play a "third force" role, will certainly deny us French North Africa. Almost equally certainly, a similar government in Rome will at least allow the Soviets staging rights in the south Italian airfields. In this event, the whole Mediterranean will be lost to us. Meanwhile, the German problem will become utterly unmanageable, and the Western alliance will be fatally and finally ruptured.

It is hardly necessary to pursue any further the course of this fearful chain reaction, which we must anticipate if Yugoslavia is overrun and crushed without protest from the Western allies. The foregoing summary is not a private nightmare. It is a compressed statement of the best judgment of the men most qualified to form an opinion. It is quite enough to show that the consequences of losing Yugoslavia can quite easily add up to the equivalent of final defeat in a general war.

In other words, the Western alliance would be so hopelessly shattered, and so many vital strategic positions would be lost to us and gained by the Kremlin, that our own position would become irretrievable. And this is the right background against which the question must again be asked: "What do we do if Yugoslavia is attacked this spring?"

Factors That May Affect Decisions Are Discussed

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 14—I have been interested in a recent correspondence between President Truman and Representative Hebert, a Democrat of Louisiana, who wrote the President asking that a certain day be appointed for national prayer. He distinctly asked that God should "endow officials with the wisdom and courage to make the right decisions." The request was well worded as too many of us are not content to ask God to help us make the right decisions; but before praying we make the decisions for ourselves and ask God to see that they are carried out! It, however, is always sound to pray for wisdom and courage. If we would have such a prayer constantly on our mind in a spirit of thankfulness for such blessings as we have;without asking for definite things—we all might be much better off.

What Prayers Are Answered

Although President Truman's reply did not satisfy Mr. Herbert, yet the President's retort was very sound. It looks as if he were a better Bible student than Mr. Hebert as his reply was based on the Bible promises that "The prayers of the righteous availeth much." This means that in order to have our prayers answered, we must live a life that Jesus would approve; with kindness, unselfishness, and integrity. Jesus commanded that before we go to the altar to make our sacrifices and ask for blessings, we should first go to those whom we have wronged by act or word and secure their forgiveness, making restitution if possible. President Truman wisely hinted that this applies to most political leaders and to a large group of voters. We cannot expect an answer to our prayers while playing politics or talking unjustly about officials. Furthermore, these who have been too lazy or indifferent to vote, have a poor case when praying for better government. I, therefore, am 100 per cent for President Truman in his reply to this and similar requests.

Although the above discussion has ended, it has brought up a most interesting fact which the President and all others in authority must some day recognize. I have in mind how decisions of presidents, senators, congressmen, and other federal, state, and city officials affected by other factors. We know that our own decisions definitely affected by our hea and home relations, especially w we did the night before! Hea and habit have been responsible the enactment of much bad legis tion, the rendering of unjust co decisions, resulting even in send innocent men to prison or perh to the gallows. But let me this w discuss other causes in wh Washington is getting interested even found the Weather Bur looking up conditions on the c the President, through the Uni Nations, directed our troops to la in Korea. Based on the conditio of that day, I believe his decisi was sound, even though we m later pull out all our troops. It w worth all that it has cost to "smo out" the Russians and awaken o people. It would be a wonderf way to start off the New Year a the 82nd Congress.

Temperature And Humidity

Looking back over my life it very evident that the two simp words "Yes" and "No" are tremendous importance. My su cessesses were due to saying "Ye when I should say "Yes," or "N when I should say "No;" while m failures have been due to sayin "Yes" when I should have sa "No," or "No" when I should h have said "No." Of course, I al needed the courage to stick to th right decision! But what dete mined these decisions of mine, addition to the power of prayer, whether I was leading a life to b classified as "righteous."

The weather at the time of the decisions has definitely influence me. A hot and humid day will con tribute to the wrong decision (eve in an air-conditioned room); whi a clear, dry day with a west win will help me make a wise decisio But there must not be a stron enough wind to distract me. Th reading of the barometer is also factor, as we should make decision only on the rising barometer. W should avoid making decisions whe tired, ill or hurried. It is too ba that the officials and congressme here in Washington, upon whos decisions the nation's future de pends, must live in such a hurly-

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Twist

ONE OF the most important facts established in the Harry Gold case was that the Amtorg Trading Company was the center of Soviet espionage in this country. That has often appeared in testimony before Congressional committees during the past decade and has generally been ignored by our government.

Now, to return to Gold, the spy. From his testimony it appears that he had become acquainted with a chemist whose name is Mr. Black. I do not find a first name and Black was not called as a witness, so maybe he is dead or something.

Whatever became of Black, he was a Communist and he wanted Gold to be a member of the Communist Party. Gold had no wish to be a Communist. He was willing to be a spy but not a Communist. He apparently felt that it was immoral and indecent to be a Communist but not to be a spy. In this curious amoral world in which we live in a spiraling paganism, treason seems to a man not to be a crime.

This testimony is pertinent:

"The witness (Gold): The first (reason) was a debt of gratitude to Black because of the fact that he had gotten me a job in the worst years of the depression, the worst months of the depression, in February of 1933, just before the bank holiday. We were a family with a fierce sort of pride and we would have hated to go on relief—Black saved us from that. The second reason in addition to the one of a genuine desire to help the people of the Soviet Union, the second reason was that I got Black off my neck about joining the Communist Party. I didn't want to. I didn't like them."

Now, figure that one. He is grateful to Black; he wants to help the people of the Soviet Union and he becomes a spy, stealing the military secrets of the American people, but he will not be a Communist. Why?

Read this:

"Q You did not like the Communist Party?

A No; I thought they were a lot of wacked-up Bohemians.

Q I beg your pardon, what did you say?

A I thought they were a lot of wacked-up Bohemians."

This is hard to follow no matter how you read it and I wonder how Judge Irving Kaufman or the jury could follow Gold's logic. In a word, he disliked American Communists, preferring the Russian brand.

This bit of evidence shows how Russia worked in America:

"Q You told us that you were not a member of the Communist Party. Is that correct?

A I never was a member of the Communist Party.

Q You mean you were not a dues-paying member?

A I was not a member. I never wanted to, and I never became one, and I was told by the first Soviet superior I ever had to stay away from them, never to read the Daily Worker, never to go near them —

Q In 1944 —

The Court: Are you finished with your answer?

The Witness: Not quite. I was told never to read the Daily Worker, never to read any even liberal literature or even express liberal thoughts.

Q Did you read liberal literature, Mr. Gold?

A Very, very occasionally when it was forced on me by someone.

Q Did you express liberal thoughts?

A Very rarely."

Now, when someone talks about a dues-paying, card-carrying Communist, he might think of the self confessed, convicted spy, Harry Gold, who was not a Communist but who worked for Soviet Russia against the United States.

There are many such men and women in this country, some of whom are jumping on the bandwagon now, fearful lest they be discovered. Many who today say that they are anti-Communist but who have a record of service in the interest of Soviet Russia, say since 1938, need to do more than suggest that they have changed their minds — particularly as it is now a Communist policy to go underground. Lots of Americans did worse things than Gold did. In magazines, on the radio, in universities, they corrupted the minds of our people. Now, they are denying but they are not renouncing their past. They are fooling no one.

Gold has displayed a pattern of work which was quite successful for a time.

Taxing Until It Hurts

"Present conditions are such now, however, that it is necessary to tax until it hurts." That is what President Truman said in a letter to Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. Senator Byrd has been saying for years that the Administration's profligate spending policy would result in disaster. No doubt he was surprised when he opened the letter from the White House and discovered that it threatened taxes, not mayhem.

Sharp disagreement is already developing over where to take the next tax bite. Those hit squarely by any new tax on top of present rates are sure to feel they are being discriminated against.

"Hurt"is a word of more than one meaning. In

"Hurt" is a word of more than one meaning. In to give pain rather than to injure. With the federal government's current tax take more than $45,000,000,000 annually, there is no way of taxing painlessly.

The American people will be forced to pay higher taxes, but no one can make them seem palatable. So the real problem for Congress is to devise taxes that will not do injury—by disrupting the economy, unduly inhibiting enterprise, discouraging hard work, or damaging public morale.

If such methods of taxation can be found, they will still hurt. But higher taxes may avert injury from zooming national debt.

But what kind of tax would meet present needs best? There is growing sentiment in favor of a federal sales tax. A sales tax in normal times is "recessive"—it causes reduced buying and starts a cycle where lowered production follows, income drops, buying is further reduced, and so on ad infinitum.

Most objections to a sales tax now are likely to come from those who fear it will be hard to get rid of in the future. The history of other "temporary" taxes indicates that such fears are not unwarranted. Nor will income taxes and other levies, if boosted still higher, be reduced in the future. The government will always be able to find ways of spending—or giving away—the money.

New Job For Hutchins

A noted university career ended when Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago, accepted appointment as associate director of the Ford Fouadation. While there are many notable college presidents today, few have been as much in the public eye as Hutchins, who for 21 years was first the president and then the chancellor at Chicago.

His most spectacular achievement was the abolition of intercollegiate football for the university. While Chicago had not shone in this sport for a number of years before giving up the game, it had previously had some extremely successful seasons, especially when Alonzo A. Stagg coached the team. A college president takes his job in his hands when he attacks the vested interest of intercollegiate football. Hutchins dared to do so, and survived the outraged complaints of the alumni.

Another innovation was the Great Books discussion group, in which citizens of many communities under local leaders simultaneously studied famous books, from ancient times to the present, which have influenced the world. This gave many their first detailed acquaintance with Plato, Aristotle, St. Thomas Aquinas, John Locke and many other thinkers.

The core of Hutchins' policy was his belief that a university's chief purpose is to advance learning. He believed that many American institutions going by the name of university were really only super-high schools catering to alumni without special knowledge of higher education or interest in it. Chicago was not founded to be one more such when it began its existence under President William R. Harper. Hutchins, following in Harper's path, compelled other university heads to meet his challenge to the existing order.

His fertile brain has now a new field for usefulness. The new undertakings of the Ford Foundation will be largely pioneer work. Hutchins seems just the man for such a post.

Sinclair Lewis

Sinclair Lewis, who died in Rome, was one of the greatest American novelists, how great will be for the future to determine, of course. His name meant little to the younger generation because his output in in the last two decades lacked the popularity of the four volumes—"Main Street," "Arrowsmith," "Elmer Gantry" and "Dodsworth"—by which his reputation was established.

"Main Street" took the country by storm in 1920. It is a satirical work on small towns in novel form, and everyone in the small towns of the nation read it and compared characters in it to acquaintances.

Lewis received the Nobel Prize for literature in 1930 and several years previously had turned down a Pulitzer Prize award, with the tongue-in-cheek comment that others were more deserving of it.

If in recent years Lewis' work was not up to his former standard, the fault was not so much the author's as it was the public's, which fancied new styles in literature. Lewis could have continued turning out new "Main Streets" until the end, but he failed to find a new theme that would be accepted spontaneously by the reading public.

Few people know that Lewis wrote six novels prior to "Main Street," none of which sold more than a few thousand copies, the first of which was published in 1914. The title was "Our Mr. Wrenn." Some critics compared his recent work to those first efforts, and attributed greater reader acceptance solely to his established reputation.

Start Of Crime

Police of Brisbane, Australia, preparing a case against a crook who had fallen into their hands, compiled a detailed list of his crimes, which were many. There were juvenile deliquencies, too, and the record showed that the first brush with authorities was in grammar school, from which he was expelled for smoking.

There are some meaty questions here for the sociologists. Were his feet planted on the road to crime in this first childhood experience of wrong-doing and punishment? If so, was the germ of his criminal career to be found in his violation of a school rule, or in the cutting of his normal education?

Such questions can be answered only by detailed study of the individual. But they must be raised whenever it is supposed that anyone, especially a youngster, has become an incorrigible wrongdoer.

Citizens who expressed doubt early in November that this would be much of a winter now regret their brasnness.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Beating Cold Weather

MY neighbor to the left, Mr. Collins, missed one of his favorite football games because the temperature was 18 degrees above and a fierce northwest wind was blowing thru the stadium. Later he found that his friends, including myself, had survived by wearing all the clothing that could be put on and still breathe and move. This prompted him to ask for a discussion on the psychological effects of exposure to cold, especially when immobilized.

It is well known that man was built to live in a warm climate and the Garden of Eden must have been a pleasant spot. But necessity is the mother of invention and with the aid of warm clothing and proper shelter our ancestors soon learned they could beat the cold even in arctic regions.

Despite centuries of exposure, however, the body still finds it difficult to acclimate itself to freezing temperatures. Most of us can fairly tolerate low degrees without injury to health but the extremities are always vulnerable. Unless they are protected chilblains or frostbite may ensue. How much cold we can tolerate depends to a great extent upon exercise and the degree of insulation obtained from clothing. Shivering is a natural response to cold and represents a form of exercise. These movements increase metabolism and generate heat thru friction.

But even though we tremble and shake and wear the warmest type of clothing, the body succumbs to the cold ultimately if we do not keep moving. At 10 degrees F., for example, the endurance of an inactive person is reduced to less than six hours; at 10 degrees below zero, to about four hours; at 40 below, to one and one-half hours; and at 70 below, to 25 minutes. With physical activity, these limits are extended markedly. The football spectator rarely is confronted with such bitter weather. Furthermore, his exertion depends upon the game. When the home team is ahead, the old grad is likely to jump up and down, wave his arms, and slap his friends on the back. The loser is quiet, glum, and cold.

My neighbor also asked why the football spectator feels dopey for several hours after arriving home. He blamed lack of circulation to some internal organ such as the liver or spleen. That is not necessarily true because several factors produce fatigue. Rewarming, for example, is likely to be overdone and many individuals, on returning home, take a hot foot bath or sit on a radiator or in front of a fire place. This leads to overheating, which is associated with a feeling of exhaustion and sleepiness for several hours thereafter. Cold itself has an exhausting effect on the system. It takes a lot of energy to keep warm—energy that should be utilized for productive work. Moreover, with prolonged exposure the brain becomes numbed. This is one of the reasons why the person who is lost in a blizzard develops an overpowering deside to sleep. When found, he is curled up in the snow, usually frozen to death.

The best ways to stay warm are to keep moving, wear adequate clothing and eat properly. Our food intake is comparable to the coal we burn in a furnace. The more calories it can produce the more energy is derived therefrom. Many women would not feel nearly so uncomfortable on blustery January mornings if they ate more for breakfast than a roll and cup of coffee. It is here that calories really count. Fats are richest in this respect and, pound for pound, they manufacture twice as much heat as do sugar and proteins. It is no wonder the Eskimo consumes large amounts of blubber.

TOMORROW: Wringer injuries to the hands of children.

ENLARGING THRYOID

Mrs. N. writes: Could the menopause cause a slight swelling of the thyroid.

REPLY

This occurs now and then because in the change of life all the endocrine glands are undergoing changes. May I suggest that you visit your family physician to determine whether the enlargement represents a simple swelling or a more serious disturbance.

WHISTLING AIR

K. P. writes: Could whistling cause gas on the stomach? You said that swallowing air is a cause of flatulence and since I whistle a lot, I must swallow air.

REPLY

The whistling air comes from the lungs. In this respect it is somewhat similar to the air that sets the vocal cords into vibration when we talk.

BEVERAGES

M. B. writes: Can a person with high blood pressure safely drink tea and coffee?

REPLY

Yes, in moderation, provided they do not increase nervousness or cause insomnia.

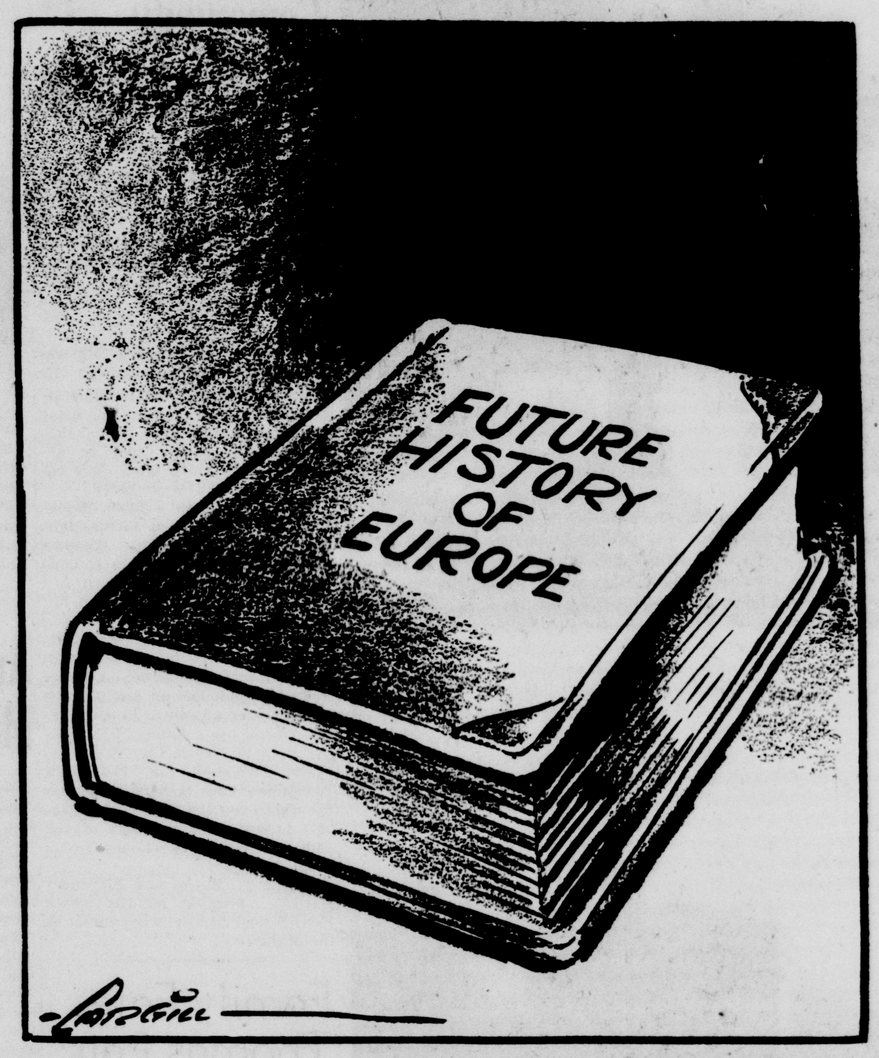
PULSATION

G. C. B. writes: What causes a vein under the eye to beat visibly?

REPLY

Examination would be required to determine the significance of this pulsation. It may be an artery or a muscle contraction such as occurs with a tic.

EISENHOWER "JACKET"



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There is no part of the world where the United States has battled harder to prevent communism than in Germany, whose military-minded people and vast iron and steel resources can turn war into victory or defeat for Atlantic Pact nations.

Yet the biggest propaganda boost for communism and against the U. S. A. ever given the German people came from the man who sets himself up as the greatest enemy of communism — Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin.

Supporting this grave statement is evidence locked in the secret files of the Senate Armed Services Committee, evidence which a sub-committee went all the way to Germany to collect.

It shows that McCarthy allowed himself to become the mouthpiece of a German Communist agent — probably without realizing it. It shows that McCarthy charged the U. S. Army with torturing German prisoners in order to extract confessions. And finally it shows that McCarthy's speeches, made on the floor of the U. S. Senate, were later broadcast all over Germany in order to promote communism and inflame the German people against the U. S. A.

McCarthy's ill-advised propaganda speeches were in defense of the 12 Nazi SS men who lined up 80 unarmed American war prisoners and shot them in the Malmedy massacre during the Battle of the Bulge.

Nazis Go Unpunished

Of various atrocities committed during the war, this was by all odds the worst. It was more cold-blooded than any committed by the Japanese. Later the SS men who murdered the defenseless American prisoners were caught, tried, and 12 were found guilty. However, they have never been hanged and here is the reason.

After they were condemned to death, a German agent named Rudolf Aschenauer sent faked-up charged to Frederic Libby of the National Council for the Prevention of War, that U. S. Army prosecutors had tortured the Nazi SS men to obtain confessions.

Libby, not realizing he was being used, passed this on to McCarthy. He even passed it on in the same large brown envelopes he received from Munich, with Rudolf Aschenauer's name attached.

A high American intelligence officer later gave the Senate Armed Services Committee information linking Aschenauer with the Communist agitators who are trying to stir up German resentment against the U. S. A. Aschenauer, according to U. S. intelligence, was secretly affiliated with a Communist spy ring whose purpose was to keep the German people on Moscow's side.

Its job was to plant this dynamite-laden propaganda on McCarthy and then cable his inflammatory speeches back to Germany. There they were headlined in the press.

"I have seen documentary evidence that the (German war criminals) were subject to beatings and physical violence in such forms as could only be devised by warped minds," McCarthy stormed. "They were subjected to sham trials, to mock hangings; and families were deprived of rations—all of which the prosecution justified as being necessary to create the right psychological atmosphere in which to obtain confessions.

"It is an unquestioned fact," McCarthy shouted, "that an innocent man will scream just as loudly as a guilty man when being tortured, and, likewise, an innocent man will sign a confession just as quickly as a guilty man when being tortured."

Naturally this made headlines in Germany. Naturally these grave charges coming fro ma U. S. senator, were believed. And they turned thousands of Germans against the United States. Meanwhile, American taxpayers have been paying one billion dollars a year to feed the German people and keep them with us.

Republicans Investigate

McCarthy's charges were taken so seriously by Germans that to this day the army has not been able to execute the - convicted Nazi SS men. To hang them would cause extreme public reaction, possibly riots.

However, when the Senate subcommittee appointed to investigated his charges began to uncover the truth, McCarthy lashed out at his own colleagues. The subcommittee was controlled by Republicans and chairmanned by conscientious Sen. Ray Baldwin of Connecticut. Despite this, McCarthy raged: "This subcommittee not only has no desire to obtain the truth but is conducting a deliberate attempt to avoid the facts and effect a whitewash of the army officers involved."

During the committee hearings, McCarthy personally grilled U. S. Army officers, even demanding that they submit to lie-dector tests. This they agreed to do. However, McCarthy was not willing to have the German war criminals submit to the same lie detectors.

Senate Rebuffs McCarthy

And as his own GOP colleagues on the Senate committee dug deeper into the facts and got closer to exposing McCarthy, the Senator from Wisconsin staged a Vishinsky act and walked out of the hearings.

Nevertheless the Senate committee rebuffed its own colleague with an official report which came close to pinning the Communist label on McCarthy's sources.

"Through competent testimony submitted to the subcommittee," the report read, "it appeared that there are strong reasons to believe that groups within Germany are endeavoring....to discredit the American occupation forces in general. The subcommittee is convinced that there is an organized effort being made to revive the nationalistic spirit in Germany through every possible means. There is evidence that at least part of this effort is attempting to establish a close liaison with Communist Russia.

"Due to the manner in which the allegations in this case were being handled (by McCarthy) it was clear that no matter what the facts were in the case, in the minds of practically all Germans, the allegations were accepted as fact. This was certain to damage the American position in Germany....everything done to weaken the prestige of the United States and our occupation policies will play an important part in any emergency."

When McCarthy's wild charges were finally sifted down, the one billion dollars a year we spend in Germany was partly nullified, the Communist hand was strengthened, and the guilty SS men who shot 80 unarmed Americans in cold blood on a snowy day during the Battle of the Bulge still remained unpunished.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Value Of Tito

WASHINGTON

The problem of Yugoslavia sums up and represents all the immense range of problems, all involving peace, war and national survival, with which the American policy makers are now wrestling.

Here is a small, remote and rather backward country, ruled in a manner intensely distasteful to the American people, by men who not long ago were professed enemies of America. The national leader, Marshal Tito, expects an attack on Yugoslavia in the spring by the Soviet Union and/or its Hungarian, Rumanian and Bulgarian satellites. He may be right. He may be wrong. But at least his sincerity is proved by the fearful sacrifices he is making to the cause of preparedness, and he has at least had better opportunities to learn the ways of the Kremlin than almost anyone else.

The question therefore arises: "What do we do if Tito is right, and Yugoslavia is attacked in the spring?" The surface facts all point one way. There is nothing in the Yugoslav system that Americans feel bound to defend. Yugoslavia is not an ally. Our own rearmament is incomplete. The rearmament of our allies in Europe has hardly been begun. All these are weighty arguments for standing passively aside, while the Yugoslav nation is crushed by the weight of Soviet power. Beneath the surface, however, there is a whole new series of arguments, even more weighty, pointing in the opposite direction.

Points To Consider

First, the most important military force on the other side of the Atlantic today is the concentration at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, comprising the 30 Yugoslav divisions, the Turkish army of nearly 30 divisions, and the revivified army of Greece. These are troops whose fighting qualities are proven. Taken together, they actually constitute a larger force than any that can conceivably be organized in Western Europe before at least two years have elapsed. If the Yugoslav divisions are destroyed, the fate of Greece will be sealed; and Turkey, even if not invaded, will be wholly neutralized by the simple facts of geography.

Second, the Middle East is already a mush, politically and militarily. Particularly in Iran, the situation has deteriorated alarmingly in recent months. The capture of the Yugoslav position and the consequent neutralization of Turkey will expose the whole of the Middle East to the full force of Soviet pressure. The mere psychological impact of the unopposed conquest of Yugoslavia should be enough to induce a collapse or surrender in Iran, which will lead to other surrenders or political explosions in the other Middle Eastern countries. In short, all this vital area, with its immense strategic importance and its oil resources on which the economy of the whole Western alliance so directly depends, will soon be involved in Yugoslavia's fate.

Third, even these immediately forseeable consequences of the conquest of Yugoslavia will vastly reduce the usefulness of our most important strategic air bases—the advanced bases in Cyrenaica, Cyprus, and elsewhere in the eastern Mediterranean, from which the more remote Soviet targets beyond the Urals must be struck.

Could Lose Mediterranean

Fourth, it is also very probable that a Soviet triumph in Yugoslavia will have explosive political effects in France and Italy. If Yugoslavia falls, although we may hope for a different outcome, we must expect that so-called "neutraliste" regimes will soon be installed at Paris and Rome.

Fifth, a "neutraliste" government at Paris, committed to disarmament, with Communists in key posts, seeking to play a "third force" role, will certainly deny us French North Africa. Almost equally certainly, a similar government in Rome will at least allow the Soviets staging rights in the south Italian airfields. In this event, the whole Mediterranean will be lost to us. Meanwhile, the German problem will become utterly unmanageable, and the Western alliance will be fatally and finally ruptured.

It is hardly necessary to pursue any further the course of this fearful chain reaction, which we must anticipate if Yugoslavia is overrun and crushed without protest from the Western allies. The foregoing summary is not a private nightmare. It is a compressed statement of the best judgment of the men most qualified to form an opinion. It is quite enough to show that the consequences of losing Yugoslavia can quite easily add up to the equivalent of final defeat in a general war.

In other words, the Western alliance would be so hopelessly shattered, and so many vital strategic positions would be lost to us and gained by the Kremlin, that our own position would become irretrievable. And this is the right background against which the question must again be asked: "What do we do if Yugoslavia is attacked this spring?"

Factors That May Affect Decisions Are Discussed

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 14—I have been interested in a recent correspondence between President Truman and Representative Hebert, a Democrat of Louisiana, who wrote the President asking that a certain day be appointed for national prayer. He distinctly asked that God should "endow officials with the wisdom and courage to make the right decisions." The request was well worded as too many of us are not content to ask God to help us make the right decisions; but before praying we make the decisions for ourselves and ask God to see that they are carried out! It, however, is always sound to pray for wisdom and courage. If we would have such a prayer constantly on our mind in a spirit of thankfulness for such blessings as we have;without asking for definite things—we all might be much better off.

What Prayers Are Answered

Although President Truman's reply did not satisfy Mr. Herbert, yet the President's retort was very sound. It looks as if he were a better Bible student than Mr. Hebert as his reply was based on the Bible promises that "The prayers of the righteous availeth much." This means that in order to have our prayers answered, we must live a life that Jesus would approve; with kindness, unselfishness, and integrity. Jesus commanded that before we go to the altar to make our sacrifices and ask for blessings, we should first go to those whom we have wronged by act or word and secure their forgiveness, making restitution if possible. President Truman wisely hinted that this applies to most political leaders and to a large group of voters. We cannot expect an answer to our prayers while playing politics or talking unjustly about officials. Furthermore, these who have been too lazy or indifferent to vote, have a poor case when praying for better government. I, therefore, am 100 per cent for President Truman in his reply to this and similar requests.

Although the above discussion has ended, it has brought up a most interesting fact which the President and all others in authority must some day recognize. I have in mind how decisions of presidents, senators, congressmen, and other federal, state, and city officials are affected by other factors. We all know that our own decisions are definitely affected by our health and home relations, especially what we did the night before! Health and habit have been responsible for the enactment of much bad legislation, the rendering of unjust court decisions, resulting even in sending innocent men to prison or perhaps to the gallows. But let me this week discuss other causes in which Washington is getting interested. I even found the Weather Bureau looking up conditions on the day the President, through the United Nations, directed our troops to land in Korea. Based on the conditions of that day, I believe his decision was sound, even though we may later pull out all our troops. It was worth all that it has cost to "smoke out" the Russians and awaken our people. It would be a wonderful way to start off the New Year and the 82nd Congress.

Temperature And Humidity

Looking back over my life it is very evident that the two simple words "Yes" and "No" are of tremendous importance. My successesses were due to saying "Yes" when I should say "Yes," or "No" when I should say "No;" while my failures have been due to saying "Yes" when I should have said "No," or "No" when I should not have said "No." Of course, I also needed the courage to stick to the right decision! But what determined these decisions of mine, in addition to the power of prayer, is whether I was leading a life to be classified as "righteous."

The weather at the time of these decisions has definitely influenced me. A hot and humid day will contribute to the wrong decision (even in an air-conditioned room); while a clear, dry day with a west wind will help me make a wise decision. But there must not be a strong enough wind to distract me. The reading of the barometer is also a factor, as we should make decisions only on the rising barometer. We should avoid making decisions when tired, ill or hurried. It is too bad that the officials and congressmen here in Washington, upon whose decisions the nation's future depends, must live in such a hurly-

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Twist

ONE OF the most important facts established in the Harry Gold case was that the Amtorg Trading Company was the center of Soviet espionage in this country. That has often appeared in testimony before Congressional committees during the past decade and has generally been ignored by our government.

Now, to return to Gold, the spy. From his testimony it appears that he had become acquainted with a chemist whose name is Mr. Black. I do not find a first name and Black was not called as a witness, so maybe he is dead or something.

Whatever became of Black, he was a Communist and he wanted Gold to be a member of the Communist Party. Gold had no wish to be a Communist. He was willing to be a spy but not a Communist. He apparently felt that it was immoral and indecent to be a Communist but not to be a spy. In this curious amoral world in which we live in a spiraling paganism, treason seems to a man not to be a crime.

This testimony is pertinent:

"The witness (Gold): The first (reason) was a debt of gratitude to Black because of the fact that he had gotten me a job in the worst years of the depression, the worst months of the depression, in February of 1933, just before the bank holiday. We were a family with a fierce sort of pride and we would have hated to go on relief—Black saved us from that. The second reason in addition to the one of a genuine desire to help the people of the Soviet Union, the second reason was that I got Black off my neck about joining the Communist Party. I didn't want to. I didn't like them."

Now, figure that one. He is grateful to Black; he wants to help the people of the Soviet Union and he becomes a spy, stealing the military secrets of the American people, but he will not be a Communist. Why?

Read this:

"Q You did not like the Communist Party?

A No; I thought they were a lot of wacked-up Bohemians.

Q I beg your pardon, what did you say?

A I thought they were a lot of wacked-up Bohemians."

This is hard to follow no matter how you read it and I wonder how Judge Irving Kaufman or the jury could follow Gold's logic. In a word, he disliked American Communists, preferring the Russian brand.

This bit of evidence shows how Russia worked in America:

"Q You told us that you were not a member of the Communist Party. Is that correct?

A I never was a member of the Communist Party.

Q You mean you were not a dues-paying member?

A I was not a member. I never wanted to, and I never became one, and I was told by the first Soviet superior I ever had to stay away from them, never to read the Daily Worker, never to go near them —

Q In 1944 —

The Court: Are you finished with your answer?

The Witness: Not quite. I was told never to read the Daily Worker, never to read any even liberal literature or even express liberal thoughts.

Q Did you read liberal literature, Mr. Gold?

A Very, very occasionally when it was forced on me by someone.

Q Did you express liberal thoughts?

A Very rarely."

Now, when someone talks about a dues-paying, card-carrying Communist, he might think of the self confessed, convicted spy, Harry Gold, who was not a Communist but who worked for Soviet Russia against the United States.

There are many such men and women in this country, some of whom are jumping on the bandwagon now, fearful lest they be discovered. Many who today say that they are anti-Communist but who have a record of service in the interest of Soviet Russia, say since 1938, need to do more than suggest that they have changed their minds — particularly as it is now a Communist policy to go underground. Lots of Americans did worse things than Gold did. In magazines, on the radio, in universities, they corrupted the minds of our people. Now, they are denying but they are not renouncing their past. They are fooling no one.

Gold has displayed a pattern of work which was quite successful for a time.

Civic Symphony Begins Planned Expansion

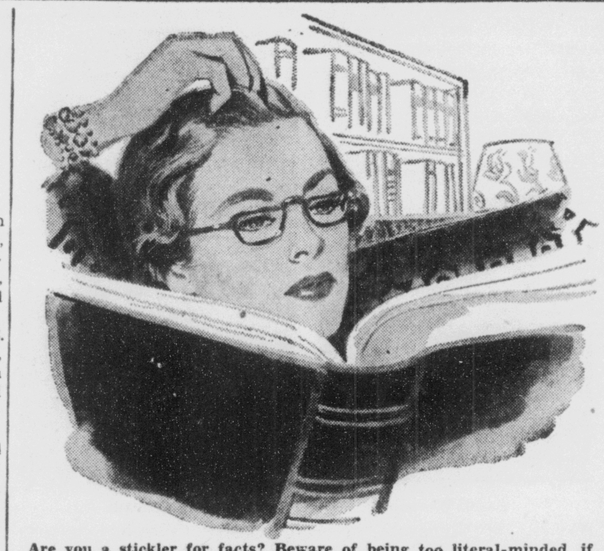
In line with the expansion plan outlined recently by S. Lua Sykes, founder and conductor of the Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra, officers were elected last week and active committees appointed.

President is Dr. William E. Capaldi, Ph. T.; vice president, Harry Griggs; secretary, Kathleen Pepple; treasurer, Eleanor Rice, and librarians, Dave Harvey and Richard Moyer.

Committee chairmen are Lloyd Rawlings, ways and means; Harry Griggs, membership; Joe Feldstein, publicity; Eleanor Rice, social; A. Florian Wilson, program; soloists, Dorothy Wilson, and staging, S. Lua Sykes. Wilton Sykes is concertmaster.

Rehearsals are now held every Tuesday at 8 p. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Hall, Fayette street, and musicians interested in joining the orchestra may come to these rehearsals. Particularly wanted are string instrument players, French horn and oboe. Mr. Sykes will be glad to discuss membership with applicants. He explained that the Civic Symphony is in existence to enable high school musicians to continue ensemble playing and to advance the cause of instrumental music in Cumberland.

The next concert open to the public will be early in March at Allegany High School auditorium. Now a 40 piece ensemble, it is hoped to raise the membership to 60 during this season.



Are you a stickler for facts? Beware of being too literal-minded, if you want to keep your friends!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Is there any greater bore to have around than the too literal-minded?

Such sticklers for detail can't tell you that they drove downtown without also telling you that they got into the car. It takes them ten or fifteen minutes to relate something that is not worth half the time. The listener gets so sidetracked by the welter of unessential facts that the point is lost.

Not only do the long-winded muddle their own conversation with picayune triviliaties, but that of others as well. They insist on master-minding what others say with interruptions of unimportant detail and inconsequential corrections.

Distracting Interruptions

"We left there about fifteen minutes ago," says the person telling the story.

"No dear, ten minutes," interrupts the self-appointed recorder of facts.

Of course, when you are following a recipe or testifying before a jury, you can't be too literal-minded. But in the average conversation, even a person who is otherwise attractive becomes a pill if he or she gets involved with minutiae instead of the sense and meaning of what is being discussed.

While a free and easy relating of fact is a social asset, it nevertheless gives no one license to wildly ignore actuality. A too-free play of imagination is as dangerous as driving through traffic with no regard for signals. Truth is something that can never be handled lightly.

Preferred People

If your initiative, sense of humor, imagination and regard for truth function normally, you'll never be thrown into a tizzy by omission or slight embellishment of unimportant trifles. If you can follow and give general directions as well as explicit ones, you needn't worry about having either a deficiency or an overabundance of literal-mindedness.

The pleasant person to be with is the one who keeps exaggeration and color in bounds—yet is never so literal-minded as to clutter conversation with irrelevant detail.

Importance Of Goal Stressed By Speaker

The importance of having a goal and working towards it were stressed by Miss Lillian Compton, president of State Teachers College, Frostburg, in speaking on "The Occupational Outlook for Young Men," at the meeting of the LaSalle Mothers Club, Monday night in the social center. She was introduced by Mrs. John Santelli, Program chairman.

Plans were completed at the business session for the public card party to be held at 8 o'clock, January 16 in the Knights of Columbus home. Mrs. Leo Darr presided and Mrs. John Brinker is party chairman.

Mrs. DeSales Glick accompanied the group singing, after which the Sophomore mothers were hostesses and served refreshments. Approximately 55 attended.

Marriages

Beckmeyer-Mousette

The marriage of Miss Lucille Anita Mousette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donat Mousette, Lewiston, Me., to Richard Baxter Beckmeyer, son of Theodore Beckmeyer, 765 Maryland Avenue, and the late Mrs. Beckmeyer, has been announced. The ceremony was performed November 23 in the Naval Communications Chapel, Washington by Rev. John Ecker. Miss Marguerite Belleau, Lewiston and Charles A. Marton, Philadelphia, were the attendants.

An ensign in the Naval Reserve, the bride is a graduate of Edward Little High School, Lewiston, Bates College and Auburn, Me., School of Commerce.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Allegany High School and former employe of the Celanese, served as a chief petty officer in World War II. Both he and his bride are employed as research analysists for the Department of Defense, and are members of the N. O. R.

Barker-Raley

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra J. Raley, Route 5 have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Maxine Raley, to Virgil Leon Barker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Barker, Goodrich, Mich. The ceremony was performed December 28 in North Cumberland Assembly of God Church by Rev. F. J. Fratto. Miss Elaine Raley and Wilbur Bell, Jr., were their attendants.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School, attended Peniel Bible Institute, Stanton, Ky., and now is a student at North Central Bible Institute, Minneapolis, Minn.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Goodrich High School, attended Peniel Bible Institute and is a senior at North Central Bible Institute.

Deremer-Streett

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Norma Streett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Streett, Route 3, Bedford, to Glenn Stoner Deremer, son of Mrs. Lewis Oliver, Route 3, Bedford. The ceremony was performed December 30 in Bortz Lutheran Church, Bedford Valley by Rev. Meroyn Ross. Mrs. Oleta Mickey and Glentis Streett were the attendants.

The bride is a graduate of Bedford High School and is employed at the Liberty Trust Company. The bridegroom, a veteran of World War II is employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Circles Will Meet

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The Circles of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Duffey Memorial Methodist Church will meet Thursday night as follows: Circle No. 1 at 8 p. m. with Mrs. James Sherman; No. 2 with Mrs. Robert Powers; No. 3 in the church basement; No. 4 with Mrs. R. M. Merold. Most of the circles will complete the study book, "Introduction to Islam," at this meeting. Plans will be made to begin the studybook, "We Seek Him Together," in the February meeting in most of the circles.

Slykhuis Irked, Leaves For Home

AAU Refuses Dutch Runner More Money

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—Willy Slykhuis, Europe's 1,500 meter running champion, left for his Holland home today, expressing indignation at the treatment he said was accorded him by the AAU.

The Dutch track star said he would never run in the United States under financial arrangements proposed by Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the U. S. amateur body.

He said his request for hotel room expenses and $10 a day extra had been turned down by the AAU and that he couldn't stay in this country and compete for less.

Ferris said he had offered Slykhuis the "normal" allowance given all visiting athletes—$8.50 a day, to take care of both hotel and meals, and $2 for incidental expenses.

WIN OR ELSE?—These six coaches of top-flight college teams are out of jobs, either forced out because of losing teams or retiring because of the pressure. Another coach, Lynn Waldorf of California, is deeply concerned over the future of the coaching profession because, he says, coaching is imperiled by the "win or else" edict. "In all my years in the game," said Waldorf recently, "I have never seen a year when such fine men as Cherry of Texas, Fesler of Ohio State, Bierman of Minnesota, Myers of Boston College, Schwartz of Stanford and Cravath of Southern California have quit our profession." Fesler, Cherry and Schwartz are planning to go into business. (International)

The top girls' basketball teams in the South Branch Valley are scheduled to clash in Franklin on Tuesday, Jan. 23 when Franklin plays host to Petersburg.

Petersburg, coached by Clem Clower, has won six consecutive games and has averaged 48 points per game while holding the opposition to an average of 27. The Vikings sextet has defeated Wardensville and Mathias each twice, Circleville and Romney.

Each year this game usually decides the unofficial girls' champions of the area. Last year Franklin won. Petersburg was the 1949 winner.

A newcomer has stepped into the baseball picture for the 1951 season.

He's Harry McGowan, president of the Westvaco Club of the Bi-State League. It's the custom for the president of the C.I.O. Local at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company to head the ball team. McGowan succeeds Wayne Ritchie.

The new prexy attended the league meeting here last week.

During the dedication ceremonies at the Baseball Hall of Fame, Cooperstown, N. Y., last year a youngster in his teens approached "Cy" Young, the one-time pitching great and asked:

"What was your favorite pitch when you had the bases full?"

Young never batted an eye.

"Son," he replied, "I just don't seem to remember ever having the bases full."

QUESTIONS

1—What was the late Tex Rickard's first big fight promotion?

2—How many men make up a lacrosse team?

HOOHEE?

AFTER pitching for Swarthmore college I joined the Baltimore Orioles in 1924. After four Balto seasons I was purchased by the Philadelphia Athletics and enjoyed considerable success there. It was my luck to be with three champion Athletics teams. Can you name me?

ANSWERS

1—The Joe Gans-Battling Nelson (purse, $34,000) at Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 3, 1906. Gans won bout and lightweight title.

2—Ten.

3—No race.

New Englander Wins U. S. Duckpin Classic

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 14 (AP)—Andy Friar, Fall River, Mass., alley operator forgot his aches and pains long enough early today to capture the 21st United States Duck Pin Bowling Classic. Friar's 15-game total of 1,981 rewarded him with $1,000 top prize and a diamond medal.

Bill Brozey of Baltimore, ranked No. 1 by the National Duck Pin Bowling Congress, was runnerup with 1978, closely followed by Bill King of Washington, 1972 and Herman Ferri of New Haven, 1971.

This quartet staged a thrilling finish in this rich classic which attracted a near record entry list of 129 of the nation's leading small pinners.

Friar, who complained of sore fingers and a stiff back, rolled steadily.

England has more than 60,000 lakes.

Slykhuis Irked, Leaves For Home

AAU Refuses Dutch Runner More Money

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—Willy Slykhuis, Europe's 1,500 meter running champion, left for his Holland home today, expressing indignation at the treatment he said was accorded him by the AAU.

The Dutch track star said he would never run in the United States under financial arrangements proposed by Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the U. S. amateur body.

He said his request for hotel room expenses and $10 a day extra had been turned down by the AAU and that he couldn't stay in this country and compete for less.

Ferris said he had offered Slykhuis the "normal" allowance given all visiting athletes—$8.50 a day, to take care of both hotel and meals, and $2 for incidental expenses.

WIN OR ELSE?—These six coaches of top-flight college teams are out of jobs, either forced out because of losing teams or retiring because of the pressure. Another coach, Lynn Waldorf of California, is deeply concerned over the future of the coaching profession because, he says, coaching is imperiled by the "win or else" edict. "In all my years in the game," said Waldorf recently, "I have never seen a year when such fine men as Cherry of Texas, Fesler of Ohio State, Bierman of Minnesota, Myers of Boston College, Schwartz of Stanford and Cravath of Southern California have quit our profession." Fesler, Cherry and Schwartz are planning to go into business. (International)

The top girls' basketball teams in the South Branch Valley are scheduled to clash in Franklin on Tuesday, Jan. 23 when Franklin plays host to Petersburg.

Petersburg, coached by Clem Clower, has won six consecutive games and has averaged 48 points per game while holding the opposition to an average of 27. The Vikings sextet has defeated Wardensville and Mathias each twice, Circleville and Romney.

Each year this game usually decides the unofficial girls' champions of the area. Last year Franklin won. Petersburg was the 1949 winner.

A newcomer has stepped into the baseball picture for the 1951 season.

He's Harry McGowan, president of the Westvaco Club of the Bi-State League. It's the custom for the president of the C.I.O. Local at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company to head the ball team. McGowan succeeds Wayne Ritchie.

The new prexy attended the league meeting here last week.

During the dedication ceremonies at the Baseball Hall of Fame, Cooperstown, N. Y., last year a youngster in his teens approached "Cy" Young, the one-time pitching great and asked:

"What was your favorite pitch when you had the bases full?"

Young never batted an eye.

"Son," he replied, "I just don't seem to remember ever having the bases full."

QUESTIONS

1—What was the late Tex Rickard's first big fight promotion?

2—How many men make up a lacrosse team?

HOOHEE?

AFTER pitching for Swarthmore college I joined the Baltimore Orioles in 1924. After four Balto seasons I was purchased by the Philadelphia Athletics and enjoyed considerable success there. It was my luck to be with three champion Athletics teams. Can you name me?

ANSWERS

1—The Joe Gans-Battling Nelson (purse, $34,000) at Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 3, 1906. Gans won bout and lightweight title.

2—Ten.

3—No race.

New Englander Wins U. S. Duckpin Classic

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 14 (AP)—Andy Friar, Fall River, Mass., alley operator forgot his aches and pains long enough early today to capture the 21st United States Duck Pin Bowling Classic. Friar's 15-game total of 1,981 rewarded him with $1,000 top prize and a diamond medal.

Bill Brozey of Baltimore, ranked No. 1 by the National Duck Pin Bowling Congress, was runnerup with 1978, closely followed by Bill King of Washington, 1972 and Herman Ferri of New Haven, 1971.

This quartet staged a thrilling finish in this rich classic which attracted a near record entry list of 129 of the nation's leading small pinners.

Friar, who complained of sore fingers and a stiff back, rolled steadily.

England has more than 60,000 lakes.

Four Unbeaten Major College Teams Survive

Oklahoma's Aggies Top List With 15-0, Long Island Is 2nd

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—College basketball waded out of the most tumultuous week of the season today, clinging to a couple of big question marks.

They were:

1. Who's going to grab off the No. 1 ranking now that Bradley has been so convincingly chopped down by St. John's of Brooklyn?

2. How long will it be until there's not a single perfect record left among major teams?

Bradley's 68-59 setback at the hands of a sharp St. John's team was the major development of the topsy-turvy last seven days. But seven other teams had unbeaten records snapped, leaving only four in the unspoiled class.

Four In Unspoiled Class

The thin unbeaten list today includes Oklahoma A. and M. (15-0), Long Island University (11-0), Columbia (10-0) and St. Bonaventure (9-0).

The Oklahoma Aggies and LIU Blackbirds are among the country's top ranking quintets and are in the thick of the wide open fight for No. 1 place in this week's Associated Press poll.

Kentucky, beaten only by St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl, and Bradley, with an impressive 16-1 record, still are leading contenders for national honors.

Casualties in the unbeaten ranks, besides Bradley, last week included Murray (Ky) State, beaten twice, Hamline, Washington, Princeton, Washington & Jefferson, Wyoming and Duquesne.

The four teams that survived this general upheaval among the mighty might do well to readjust their safety belts because the storm that looms ahead this week looks anything but comforting.

St. Louis Plays Aggies

The precision-playing Aggies, who now have the season's longest winning streak at 15 games, play host Wednesday to the St. Louis Billikens, fifth ranked nationally and conquerors of Kentucky.

The Billikens won their 12th game in 15 starts Saturday by humbling Detroit, 58-52. The Aggies, ranked second behind Bradley in the last standings, barely edged out Drake, 72-70. It was the second close squeak for the week for the Aggies, who barely beat Tulsa, 40-38.

Long Island University, meanwhile, gets perhaps its severest test to date when it plays Duquesne Tuesday at Madison Square Garden. The Dukes have an 11-1 record, their only defeat an 86-74 loss to Cincinnati last Monday.

The Blackbirds established themselves as one of the nation's real powers by humbling St. Louis, 74-62, in a Tuesday game at the Garden. They have one of the sport's most potent weapons in big, agile Sherman White.

Columbia, with a 19-game winning streak carried over from last year, will play two Ivy League games—Penn Wednesday and Dartmouth Saturday. Penn, unbeaten in the league, is capable of snipping the string of the eighth-ranked Lions, 90-48 conquerors of Yale last night.

St. Bonaventure's big test also comes Wednesday against Niagara, a team that is given to extremely low and high performances.

Third-ranked Kentucky, bounding back strong from its only setback, will play Notre Dame tomorrow and Tennessee Saturday. The Wildcats rolled over Alabama last night, 65-48, for their tenth victory.

Indiana, sixth in the national list, will play Illinois tomorrow in the game that may lead to the Big Ten championship. The Hoosiers have a 9-1 overall record but, like Illinois, are undefeated in the conference. Indiana trimmed Michigan State, 47-37, while Illinois rolled over Michigan, 68-47.

North Carolina State, which lost to Villanova 66-64 for its second reversal in 17 games, will go against Wake Forest Tuesday and LaSalle Saturday. N. C. State is No. 7 in the rankings.

The ninth-placed team, Kansas State, has a major encounter tomorrow against its old rival, Kansas. The K-Staters won their 11th victory against two defeats by beating Iowa State, 98-58.

Wyoming's Cowboys, No. 10, play Utah tomorrow and have a double date with Brigham Young Friday and Saturday. Wyoming raised its record to 14-1 by beating Colorado A. and M., 77-58.

After ten straight victories, Washington bowed last night to Oregon State, 46-41.

Here's how the other unbeaten teams got their comeuppance during the week:

Wyoming—lost to Brigham Young, 61-57.

Murray State — lost to Eastern Kentucky, 60-59, and Western Kentucky, 65-56.

Hamline—lost to Phillips, 64-61.

Princeton—lost to Columbia, 53-52.

Washington & Jefferson—lost to Waynesburg, 73-65.

One of the longest winning streaks in the non-major class came to an end when Seattle's 17-game skein was broken by Gonzaga Friday, 72-71. Seattle came back to win last night, 77-71.

Harold Bradley's Duke Cagers Are Surprise Quint

Blue Devils Have Won Ten Under New Mentor

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 14 (AP) — The Southern Conference had to take its hat off today to Harold Bradley, Duke University's new basketball mentor.

The reason was obvious. Bradley arrived on the Duke campus a few days before the season opened. He called together a bunch of players he'd never seen before. And he has them winning.

Duke's record today includes 10 victories and five defeats. Some of the wins have been close ones, but they say that's the kind a team has to win to be a champion.

Of course, Bradley has one advantage. The guy is used to winning. He coached at Hartwick College at Oneonta, N. Y. before Duke hired him. Bradley's team the last three years won 50 out of 68 games and played such clubs as Long Island University, Buffalo University, Muhlenberg, Massachusetts, Scranton and the powerful Quantico Marines.

Twice last week Duke demonstrated its ability to come out on top in close contests. Last night, the Dukes outscored West Virginia's Mountaineers, 77-73. It was the first conference loss for the Mountaineers. Earlier in the week, the Blue Devils edged South Carolina, 60-58.

Behind four points at halftime against West Virginia, Duke roared back in the second half. As usual, Dick Groat, regarded by some as the greatest cage star in Duke history, led his mates with 28 points.

The victory made Duke's conference record 5-1. It elevated the Blue Devils into third place behind front-running North Carolina State (7-0) and runnerup Maryland (4-0). Before the campaign ends, Duke very easily could be the team which does most to threaten the circuit cage supremacy of State, conference champion four straight years. In an early January meeting, Duke forced State into overtime before bowing.

After Duke's appearance tomorrow night at William and Mary, Bradley's boys call time out until January 27 for semester examinations.

Maryland, the league's biggest surprise to date, could find rough going this week. The Old Liners will run up against Virginia Tech's well balanced and high-scoring quintet tomorrow night at College Park, Md. They entertain North Carolina Saturday night.

State, undoubtedly smarting from last night's second setback of the year to Villanova, has a conference test Tuesday night at Wake Forest. State steps outside the loop again Saturday night, playing host to LaSalle.

Graham Is Voted Outstanding Player

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14 (AP) — Quarterback Otto Graham, who led the American Conference All-Stars to a 28-27 triumph over the National Division All-Stars today, was unanimously voted the "outstanding player" of the game by football writers covering the contest.

Graham who guided the Cleveland Browns to the National Football League championship over Los Angeles Dec. 24, turned from the air to the ground to score two important touchdowns. The second one tied the score and set the stage for the winning conversion.

The many friends of Walter E. Whitfield will be sorry to hear of the veteran gunner's death on Saturday afternoon at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

Mr. Whitfield, 69, was a retired engineer of the Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroad, secretary of the Upper Potomac Rod and Gun and was a prominent trapshooter for the past 25 years.

In recent years Mr. Whitfield participated in numerous registered trapshooting tournaments at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club.

That story out of Clarksburg the other day to the effect that Coach "Horse" Lough told the Kiwanis Club that Billy Gannon and Walt Devlin were "farmed out" to Potomac State's basketball team by George Washington University, is untrue, according to the Catamounts' mentor.

The item appeared in a paragraph of the story concerning the Potomac State-West Virginia U. freshman game.

Lough says what he told the Kiwanians was that "there were a couple of boys on our basketball team who were recommended to me by my old friend, Bill Reinhart, G. W. U. cage mentor."

"Reinhart recommended Potomac State, they came to Keyser, liked the looks of the school and enrolled here.

"There is no agreement or understanding of any kind that they will transfer into G. W. U. when they get through at Potomac State."

Lough added that West Virginia U. always got first call on any lads who were ready to transfer out of junior college to a degree-granting institution.

It is Potomac State School of West Virginia University and its first allegiance is to the Mountaineers.

Ken Murray of the Baltimore Bullets tossed in the longest field goal ever scored at the Baltimore Coliseum last week when the home team lost to Rochester, 80-78.

The former St. Bonaventure ace nabbed the ball off the Royals' backboard and when a glance at the clock revealed that time was just about to elapse, Murray lined a two-handed set shot from some 70 feet away. The ball hit the back of the hoop and dropped right through as 1,450 fans roared in disbelief but approvel.

The longest field goal we've ever seen was credited to one of the Philadelphia Spas in a game here against the Dukes several years ago. That shot had eyes and didn't hit the board or rim.

Watrous Is Winner Of Senior Golf Title

DUNEDIN, Fla., Jan. 14 (AP) — Al Watrous today won the playoff for the National Senior PGA golf championship, defeating Jock Hutchison by six strokes.

Watrous, who was no slouch of a player in his prime playing days, shot a 37-38—75 on the 6,425-yard par-72 PGA winter course here. He is the defending titlist and now plays out of Birmingham, Mich.

Hutchison, who is 68 and spotted his opponent 16 years, blew up on the final eight and came in with a 37-44—81.

Your Host Is Injured

Racing Career Ends, May Do Stud Duty

ARCADIA, Cal., Jan. 14 (INS) — It was certain today that the racing days of William Goetz' Your Host, greatest of the California-bred turf stars, are over.

The only question now is whether the four-year-old son of Alibhai can be saved for stud duty.

Veterinarians said they would not know for at least three weeks.

Your Host fell during yesterday's running of the $50,000 San Pasqual handicap at Santa Anita and broke his right foreleg.

The shaft of his elbow, or ulna, was shattered in four places.

There is little that veterinarians can do for the injury. Nature will have to do most of the healing.

As for the stakes winner's chances of recovery, Dr. H. J. Peters said:

"All depends on whether complications set in. If he had to break a leg it's a good thing it happened so high up near the shoulder. A lower break would have been more difficult to mend."

Another veterinarian, Dr. L. E. McGee, said that in a similar case in his experience it took the horse six months to regain his soundness.

It was a foregone conclusion that the injured horse would not be ready for stud duty before the end of the breeding season in May.

The accident happened on the back stretch as Jockey Eric Guerin began to move Your Host up. Pictures of the race showed that he had plenty of room until Renown veered over. Then Your Host tripped on Renown's heels and went down. Guerin escaped injury.

Your Host was the solid choice in the race. When he fell longshots went on to take the first three places. Moonrush won and Manyunk and Repeluz were second and third.

The spill stopped Your Host at the very peak of his career. He had a record of 10 stakes wins and earnings of $384,975.

He was in such excellent condition that Trainer Harry Daniels thought that he could both win the Santa Anita Maturity and be a solid contender for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

$18,000 Is Asked By Wife Of Oma

Also Wants Custody Of 2-Year-Old Son

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—Counsel for Mrs. Lee Oma said today she had started separation proceedings against her estranged fighter husband, asking $18,000 in cash and custody of the couple's two-year-old son, Lee Jr.

The lawyer, Bernard R. Lieberman said the suit was filed Thursday in Supreme Court here. He said it also asked $200 weekly alimony.

Lieberman said a writ of attachment was served yesterday on the heavyweight boxer, charging abandonment and non-support.

Oma suffered a technical knockout at the hands of heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles in a fight at Madison Square Garden Friday night. His share of the purse was $9,465.

Lieberman said Mrs. Oma is seeking $10,000 she supposedly spent to support herself and the child during 1950 and $8,000 from Oma's Friday night winnings: The latter sum is due her, the lawyer said, under an oral agreement the fighter made to share the purse from his first Garden fight.

Mrs. Oma, pretty 26-year-old brunette, claims her husband left her in December, 1949, moving from Newark, N. J. to Buffalo, N. Y.

Oma could not be reached for comment.

Cumberland's Spas snapped a six-game losing streak last night by defeating the Altoona Flyers in an All-American Basketball League game before 296 paying patrons at SS. Peter and Paul gym. The score was 81 to 70.

In amassing 81 points, Coach William "Bill" Keegan's outfit attained its high total in 15 league and independent contests this season.

Clevenger Turns Tide

It was anybody's ball game until midway in the third period when Altoona cracked after the count had been deadlocked for the 6th time in the game at 46-46. Jim Clevenger's field goal unknotted the count and the Spas were never headed.

The score was 18-17 at the quarter and 33-32 at intermission in Cumberland's favor and when the third period ended the locals held an eight-point edge at 62-54. At one time in the final stanza the Spas were out in front by 13 points at 68-55.

Hoop 28 of 37 Fouls

Cumberland outscored the Pennsylvanians 32 to 21 in field goals but Coach Bobby Artman's outfit stayed in the ball game through its superb work at the foul line where they meshed 28 of 37 free throws while the home team was sinking 17 of 26.

The officials, Siegel and Rabner, slapped 31 personal fouls on the home club and 21 on the Flyers and ejected Jack Murphy with the score 73-63 and Lou Bell with the count 75-66 in the final period via the six-and-out route.

Cumberland took 97 shoots at the hoops and connected 32 times while Altoona tossed in 21 of 79 tries.

Cumberland's outstanding players were Jim Clevenger and Lou Bell while Jim Mewhirter, former Bethany player, and Ed Stickel, ex-Syracuse cager, were Altoona's best bets.

Jim Clevenger of the Spas and Walt Miller, one-time Duquesne ace and center of the Flyers, paced the scorers with 17 points each. Bob Pence and Ed "Whitey" Mathewson had 16 tallies each for the home club and Jim Mewhirter garnered 15 for Altoona. Six of Clevenger's eight field goals came in the second half during which time Pence and Mathewson racked up five apiece.

George Geatz was slightly injured in the second quarter of yesterday's game and spent the rest of the time on the bench.

Erie-Wheeling Postponed

The Wheeling-Erie game scheduled yesterday at Erie was postponed when the Blues, attempting to make the trip by plane from Pittsburgh, were grounded on account of stormy weather.

The Spas lost an overtime thriller in Altoona on Saturday night by the score of 68 to 64.

The Spas will be represented at the funeral of George "Chuck" Karmarkovich, at Franklin Borough, Johnstown, Pa. Karmarkovich, Johnstown Clippers center, was fatally injured last week in an auto collision while returning from a game at Wheeling.

Wheeling is scheduled to play the Spas here next Sunday. Yesterday's lineups:

Byron Nelson Wins Crosby Golf Tournament With 209

Middlecoff Finishes In No. 2 Slot With 212

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 14 (AP)—Texas Rancher Byron Nelson, once the Mr. Big of golf, thrilled more than 15,000 fans today when he won the $10,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament with a 54-hole score of 209. He put together rounds of 71-67-71 to front a powerful field.

The victory meant $2,000 to Nelson, but to the par-cracking ace who once spread-eagled the golfing world the money was only incidental.

He was the boss-man once more, if only for this tournament.

Lord Byron, as he was known when he held the U. S. Open and PGA crowns, retired from active competition in 1946. Since then, his appearances have been few and far between.

Crooner Crosby's links derby, bringing together the celebrites of stage, screen, radio and other sports, aside from golf itself, has been one of Nelson's yearly visits. The Masters tournament in Augusta is another.

Fromer National Open Title-Holder Cary Middlecoff of Memphis closed with a classy 69 today to take second money of $1,250 with a 54-hole score of 212. He opened the tournament like a novice, with a bad 76, but came back the second day with a crackling 67.

Three players tied for third with scores of 213. They were Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., George Fazio of Washington, D. C., and Tournament Newcomer Julius Boros of Midpines, N. C.

Joe Kirkwood, Jr., the Hollywood movie character actor, followed with 214. Grouped at 215 were Pete Cooper of Ponta Verda, Fla., Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, and Smiley Quick, of Culver City, Calif.

Americans Rally In Last Half To Win Pro Bowl Game, 28-27

Graham, Waterfield Stage Passing Duel Before 53,676 Fans

By CHARLES A. PANAMA

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14 (INS) — Otto Graham and his American Conference All-Stars, completely outplayed in the first half, rallied for 14 points in the third quarter today to nip the National Conference all-stars, 28 to 27, in the first annual pro bowl football game.

The brilliant grid spectacle, attended by 53,676 fans at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, was a bitter pill for national coach Joe Stydahar and his ace quarterback, Bob Waterfield, both of the Los Angeles Rams.

Just as in the championship game between the Rams and Cleveland Browns last Dec. 24, today's battle resolved into a passing duel between Waterfield and Graham. The final score then was 30 to 28, Cleveland.

Today Waterfield and Graham both were superb. Waterfield threw two touchdown passes, kicked field goals from the 29 and 27-yard lines and converted after all three National touchdowns.

But Graham and his coach, the fabulous Paul Brown, had the last word again. Graham picked the sagging Americans from a 27 to 14 deficit and in just three minutes scored two touchdowns himself, each on a quarterback sneak.

Nationals Draw First Blood

The Nationals drew first blood the first time they got the ball. The Los Angeles Rams' pass and catch combination of Waterfield to Tom Fears paid off with a 22-yard aerial with just four minutes gone in the game.

The Americans tied it up just before the quarter ended when Billy Grimes of the Green Bay Packers took Frankie Albert's punt on his own 27-yard line, reversed his field and behind a convoy of red-shirted blockers, skipped 53 yards for a touchdown. Lou Groza of Cleveland converted.

Waterfield put the Nationals ahead, 10 to 7, in the first four minutes of the second period when he booted a 29-yard field goal, after a National drive that had originated on the American 37 bogged down.

But it took "Automatic Otto" just 60 seconds to pass the Americans back into the lead again. With three plays he moved 59 yards, the payoff coming on a 20-yard pass to end Bob Shaw of the Chicago Cardinals. Groza again converted.

Norm Van Brocklin took over at the quarterback slot and guided the Nationals deep into enemy territory. There the drive stalled and Waterfield was called back in to kick his second field goal, this one from the 27. It sliced the American lead to 13 to 14.

Davis Recovers Fumble

The Nationals got a break just before the half-time gun when Fred Davis of the Chicago Bears recovered a fumble on the American 22-yard line. Van Brocklin hit Fears in the end zone on the second play and after Waterfield's extra point the Nationals led, 20 to 14, at the half.

The second half began the same way the first half ended — with the Nationals on the move. It was Waterfield again, this time leading his blue-jerseyed mates 76 yards in four plays. The tally came on a 65-yard pass play from Waterfield to Dan Edwards of the New York Yanks.

A few minutes later the Americans advanced from the Nationals' 43 to the six. Graham then took it over on a quarterback sneak. Pat Harder of the Chicago Cardinals converted.

Chuck Bednarik of Philadelphia set up the winning score when he intercepted a Johnny Lujack pass on the 50 and returned it to the National 19. Graham again quarterback sneaked it over, this time from the nine, and Harder's kick gave the American' their one-point win.

Satterfield To Meet Brothers, Bob Murphy Tests Henry Brimm

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—Rex Layne, promising heavyweight from Lewiston, Utah, takes on Billy Roberts of Indianapolis in Salt Lake City Tuesday night in one of the top bouts of the week.

Layne projected himself into the heavyweight picture with a unanimous 10-round decision over veteran Jersey Joe Walcott in Madison Square Garden last November. Layne follows up by meeting Cesar Brion of Argentina in Madison Square Garden, Feb. 9.

Other top bouts on a skimpy card include a match between former lightweight champion Beau Jack and Del Flanagan, at Minneapolis Thursday night. Flanagan beat featherweight king Sandy Saddler in a non-title bout Dec. 6. In a heavyweight scrap, Elkins Brothers, takes on Bob Satterfield at New York's St. Nicholas Arena, Friday night.

On Wednesday night, knockout artist Irish Bob Murphy from San Diego, Calif., takes on Henry Brimm of Buffalo in Detroit. Brimm recently battled welterweight champ Sugar Ray Robinson to a draw. The bout will be broadcast and telecast by CBS.

The Satterfield-Brothers match in New York Friday night will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by CBS. Brothers recently outpointed Omelio Agramonte in a tough battle while Satterfield knocked out Lee Oma and then dropped a ten-round decision to Oma who was stopped by heavyweight king Ezzard Charles Friday night in Madison Square Garden.

Four Unbeaten Major College Teams Survive

Oklahoma's Aggies Top List With 15-0, Long Island Is 2nd

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—College basketball waded out of the most tumultuous week of the season today, clinging to a couple of big question marks.

They were:

1. Who's going to grab off the No. 1 ranking now that Bradley has been so convincingly chopped down by St. John's of Brooklyn?

2. How long will it be until there's not a single perfect record left among major teams?

Bradley's 68-59 setback at the hands of a sharp St. John's team was the major development of the topsy-turvy last seven days. But seven other teams had unbeaten records snapped, leaving only four in the unspoiled class.

Four In Unspoiled Class

The thin unbeaten list today includes Oklahoma A. and M. (15-0), Long Island University (11-0), Columbia (10-0) and St. Bonaventure (9-0).

The Oklahoma Aggies and LIU Blackbirds are among the country's top ranking quintets and are in the thick of the wide open fight for No. 1 place in this week's Associated Press poll.

Kentucky, beaten only by St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl, and Bradley, with an impressive 16-1 record, still are leading contenders for national honors.

Casualties in the unbeaten ranks, besides Bradley, last week included Murray (Ky) State, beaten twice, Hamline, Washington, Princeton, Washington & Jefferson, Wyoming and Duquesne.

The four teams that survived this general upheaval among the mighty might do well to readjust their safety belts because the storm that looms ahead this week looks anything but comforting.

St. Louis Plays Aggies

The precision-playing Aggies, who now have the season's longest winning streak at 15 games, play host Wednesday to the St. Louis Billikens, fifth ranked nationally and conquerors of Kentucky.

The Billikens won their 12th game in 15 starts Saturday by humbling Detroit, 58-52. The Aggies, ranked second behind Bradley in the last standings, barely edged out Drake, 72-70. It was the second close squeak for the week for the Aggies, who barely beat Tulsa, 40-38.

Long Island University, meanwhile, gets perhaps its severest test to date when it plays Duquesne Tuesday at Madison Square Garden. The Dukes have an 11-1 record, their only defeat an 86-74 loss to Cincinnati last Monday.

The Blackbirds established themselves as one of the nation's real powers by humbling St. Louis, 74-62, in a Tuesday game at the Garden. They have one of the sport's most potent weapons in big, agile Sherman White.

Columbia, with a 19-game winning streak carried over from last year, will play two Ivy League games—Penn Wednesday and Dartmouth Saturday. Penn, unbeaten in the league, is capable of snipping the string of the eighth-ranked Lions, 90-48 conquerors of Yale last night.

St. Bonaventure's big test also comes Wednesday against Niagara, a team that is given to extremely low and high performances.

Third-ranked Kentucky, bounding back strong from its only setback, will play Notre Dame tomorrow and Tennessee Saturday. The Wildcats rolled over Alabama last night, 65-48, for their tenth victory.

Indiana, sixth in the national list, will play Illinois tomorrow in the game that may lead to the Big Ten championship. The Hoosiers have a 9-1 overall record but, like Illinois, are undefeated in the conference. Indiana trimmed Michigan State, 47-37, while Illinois rolled over Michigan, 68-47.

North Carolina State, which lost to Villanova 66-64 for its second reversal in 17 games, will go against Wake Forest Tuesday and LaSalle Saturday. N. C. State is No. 7 in the rankings.

The ninth-placed team, Kansas State, has a major encounter tomorrow against its old rival, Kansas. The K-Staters won their 11th victory against two defeats by beating Iowa State, 98-58.

Wyoming's Cowboys, No. 10, play Utah tomorrow and have a double date with Brigham Young Friday and Saturday. Wyoming raised its record to 14-1 by beating Colorado A. and M., 77-58.

After ten straight victories, Washington bowed last night to Oregon State, 46-41.

Here's how the other unbeaten teams got their comeuppance during the week:

Wyoming—lost to Brigham Young, 61-57.

Murray State — lost to Eastern Kentucky, 60-59, and Western Kentucky, 65-56.

Hamline—lost to Phillips, 64-61.

Princeton—lost to Columbia, 53-52.

Washington & Jefferson—lost to Waynesburg, 73-65.

One of the longest winning streaks in the non-major class came to an end when Seattle's 17-game skein was broken by Gonzaga Friday, 72-71. Seattle came back to win last night, 77-71.

The native-born residents of Guam, in the Marianas, although American citizens, are not entitled to trial by jury.

Harold Bradley's Duke Cagers Are Surprise Quint

Blue Devils Have Won Ten Under New Mentor

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 14 (AP) — The Southern Conference had to take its hat off today to Harold Bradley, Duke University's new basketball mentor.

The reason was obvious. Bradley arrived on the Duke campus a few days before the season opened. He called together a bunch of players he'd never seen before. And he has them winning.

Duke's record today includes 10 victories and five defeats. Some of the wins have been close ones, but they say that's the kind a team has to win to be a champion.

Of course, Bradley has one advantage. The guy is used to winning. He coached at Hartwick College at Oneonta, N. Y. before Duke hired him. Bradley's team the last three years won 50 out of 68 games and played such clubs as Long Island University, Buffalo University, Muhlenberg, Massachusetts, Scranton and the powerful Quantico Marines.

Twice last week Duke demonstrated its ability to come out on top in close contests. Last night, the Dukes outscored West Virginia's Mountaineers, 77-73. It was the first conference loss for the Mountaineers. Earlier in the week, the Blue Devils edged South Carolina, 60-58.

Behind four points at halftime against West Virginia, Duke roared back in the second half. As usual, Dick Groat, regarded by some as the greatest cage star in Duke history, led his mates with 28 points.

The victory made Duke's conference record 5-1. It elevated the Blue Devils into third place behind front-running North Carolina State (7-0) and runnerup Maryland (4-0). Before the campaign ends, Duke very easily could be the team which does most to threaten the circuit cage supremacy of State, conference champion four straight years. In an early January meeting, Duke forced State into overtime before bowing.

After Duke's appearance tomorrow night at William and Mary, Bradley's boys call time out until January 27 for semester examinations.

Maryland, the league's biggest surprise to date, could find rough going this week. The Old Liners will run up against Virginia Tech's well balanced and high-scoring quintet tomorrow night at College Park, Md. They entertain North Carolina Saturday night.

State, undoubtedly smarting from last night's second setback of the year to Villanova, has a conference test Tuesday night at Wake Forest. State steps outside the loop again Saturday night, playing host to LaSalle.

By C. V. BURNS

The many friends of Walter E. Whitfield will be sorry to hear of the veteran gunner's death on Saturday afternoon at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

Mr. Whitfield, 69, was a retired engineer of the Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroad, secretary of the Upper Potomac Rod and Gun and was a prominent trapshooter for the past 25 years.

In recent years Mr. Whitfield participated in numerous registered trapshooting tournaments at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club.

That story out of Clarksburg the other day to the effect that Coach "Horse" Lough told the Kiwanis Club that Billy Gannon and Walt Devlin were "farmed out" to Potomac State's basketball team by George Washington University, is untrue, according to the Catamounts' mentor.

The item appeared in a paragraph of the story concerning the Potomac State-West Virginia U. freshman game.

Lough says what he told the Kiwanians was that "there were a couple of boys on our basketball team who were recommended to me by my old friend, Bill Reinhart, G. W. U. cage mentor."

"Reinhart recommended Potomac State, they came to Keyser, liked the looks of the school and enrolled here.

"There is no agreement or understanding of any kind that they will transfer into G. W. U. when they get through at Potomac State."

Lough added that West Virginia U. always got first call on any lads who were ready to transfer out of junior college to a degree-granting institution.

It is Potomac State School of West Virginia University and its first allegiance is to the Mountaineers.

Ken Murray of the Baltimore Bullets tossed in the longest field goal ever scored at the Baltimore Coliseum last week when the home team lost to Rochester, 80-78.

The former St. Bonaventure ace nabbed the ball off the Royals' backboard and when a glance at the clock revealed that time was just about to elapse, Murray lined a two-handed set shot from some 70 feet away. The ball hit the back of the hoop and dropped right through as 1,450 fans roared in disbelief but approvel.

The longest field goal we've ever seen was credited to one of the Philadelphia Spas in a game here against the Dukes several years ago. That shot had eyes and didn't hit the board or rim.

A recheck of the Petersburg-Wardensville game on Friday shows that Petersburg won by the score of 78-57 and not 74-57.

Carroll Michael racked up 19 field goals and 7-7 fouls for 45 points which is the season's high in the 17-team circuit. Michael's league average is 24.8 points per game. He has 149 points in six PVC contests.

Carl Hartman of Ridgeley has registered 124 points in six games for Ridgeley High—an average of 20.7.

Your Host Is Injured

Racing Career Ends, May Do Stud Duty

ARCADIA, Cal., Jan. 14 (INS) — It was certain today that the racing days of William Goetz' Your Host, greatest of the California-bred turf stars, are over.

The only question now is whether the four-year-old son of Alibhai can be saved for stud duty.

Veterinarians said they would not know for at least three weeks.

Your Host fell during yesterday's running of the $50,000 San Pasqual handicap at Santa Anita and broke his right foreleg.

The shaft of his elbow, or ulna, was shattered in four places.

There is little that veterinarians can do for the injury. Nature will have to do most of the healing.

As for the stakes winner's chances of recovery, Dr. H. J. Peters said:

"All depends on whether complications set in. If he had to break a leg it's a good thing it happened so high up near the shoulder. A lower break would have been more difficult to mend."

Another veterinarian, Dr. L. E. McGee, said that in a similar case in his experience it took the horse six months to regain his soundness.

It was a foregone conclusion that the injured horse would not be ready for stud duty before the end of the breeding season in May.

The accident happened on the back stretch as Jockey Eric Guerin began to move Your Host up. Pictures of the race showed that he had plenty of room until Renown veered over. Then Your Host tripped on Renown's heels and went down. Guerin escaped injury.

Your Host was the solid choice in the race. When he fell longshots went on to take the first three places. Moonrush won and Manyunk and Repeluz were second and third.

The spill stopped Your Host at the very peak of his career. He had a record of 10 stakes wins and earnings of $384,975.

He was in such excellent condition that Trainer Harry Daniels thought that he could both win the Santa Anita Maturity and be a solid contender for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

$18,000 Is Asked By Wife Of Oma

Also Wants Custody Of 2-Year-Old Son

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—Counsel for Mrs. Lee Oma said today she had started separation proceedings against her estranged fighter husband, asking $18,000 in cash and custody of the couple's two-year-old son, Lee Jr.

The lawyer, Bernard R. Lieberman said the suit was filed Thursday in Supreme Court here. He said it also asked $200 weekly alimony.

Lieberman said a writ of attachment was served yesterday on the heavyweight boxer, charging abandonment and non-support.

Oma suffered a technical knockout at the hands of heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles in a fight at Madison Square Garden Friday night. His share of the purse was $9,465.

Lieberman said Mrs. Oma is seeking $10,000 she supposedly spent to support herself and the child during 1950 and $8,000 from Oma's Friday night winnings: The latter sum is due her, the lawyer said, under an oral agreement the fighter made to share the purse from his first Garden fight.

Mrs. Oma, pretty 26-year-old brunette, claims her husband left her in December, 1949, moving from Newark, N. J. to Buffalo, N. Y.

Oma could not be reached for comment.

Cumberland's Spas snapped a six-game losing streak last night by defeating the Altoona Flyers in an All-American Basketball League game before 296 paying patrons at SS. Peter and Paul gym. The score was 81 to 70.

In amassing 81 points, Coach William "Bill" Keegan's outfit attained its high total in 15 league and independent contests this season.

Clevenger Turns Tide

It was anybody's ball game until midway in the third period when Altoona cracked after the count had been deadlocked for the 6th time in the game at 46-46. Jim Clevenger's field goal unknotted the count and the Spas were never headed.

The score was 18-17 at the quarter and 33-32 at intermission in Cumberland's favor and when the third period ended the locals held an eight-point edge at 62-54. At one time in the final stanza the Spas were out in front by 13 points at 68-55.

Hoop 28 of 37 Fouls

Cumberland outscored the Pennsylvanians 32 to 21 in field goals but Coach Bobby Artman's outfit stayed in the ball game through its superb work at the foul line where they meshed 28 of 37 free throws while the home team was sinking 17 of 26.

The officials, Siegel and Rabner, slapped 31 personal fouls on the home club and 21 on the Flyers and ejected Jack Murphy with the score 73-63 and Lou Bell with the count 75-66 in the final period via the six-and-out route.

Cumberland took 97 shoots at the hoops and connected 32 times while Altoona tossed in 21 of 79 tries.

Cumberland's outstanding players were Jim Clevenger and Lou Bell while Jim Mewhirter, former Bethany player, and Ed Stickel, ex-Syracuse cager, were Altoona's best bets.

Jim Clevenger of the Spas and Walt Miller, one-time Duquesne ace and center of the Flyers, paced the scorers with 17 points each. Bob Pence and Ed "Whitey" Mathewson had 16 tallies each for the home club and Jim Mewhirter garnered 15 for Altoona. Six of Clevenger's eight field goals came in the second half during which time Pence and Mathewson racked up five apiece.

George Geatz was slightly injured in the second quarter of yesterday's game and spent the rest of the time on the bench.

Erie-Wheeling Postponed

The Wheeling-Erie game scheduled yesterday at Erie was postponed when the Blues, attempting to make the trip by plane from Pittsburgh, were grounded on account of stormy weather.

The Spas lost an overtime thriller in Altoona on Saturday night by the score of 68 to 64.

The Spas will be represented at the funeral of George "Chuck" Karmarkovich, at Franklin Borough, Johnstown, Pa. Karmarkovich, Johnstown Clippers center, was fatally injured last week in an auto collision while returning from a game at Wheeling.

Wheeling is scheduled to play the Spas here next Sunday. Yesterday's lineups:

Americans Rally In Last Half To Win Pro Bowl Game, 28-27

Graham, Waterfield Stage Passing Duel Before 53,676 Fans

By CHARLES A. PANAMA

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14 (INS) — Otto Graham and his American Conference All-Stars, completely outplayed in the first half, rallied for 14 points in the third quarter today to nip the National Conference all-stars, 28 to 27, in the first annual pro bowl football game.

The brilliant grid spectacle, attended by 53,676 fans at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, was a bitter pill for national coach Joe Stydahar and his ace quarterback, Bob Waterfield, both of the Los Angeles Rams.

Just as in the championship game between the Rams and Cleveland Browns last Dec. 24, today's battle resolved into a passing duel between Waterfield and Graham. The final score then was 30 to 28, Cleveland.

Today Waterfield and Graham both were superb. Waterfield threw two touchdown passes, kicked field goals from the 29 and 27-yard lines and converted after all three National touchdowns.

But Graham and his coach, the fabulous Paul Brown, had the last word again. Graham picked the sagging Americans from a 27 to 14 deficit and in just three minutes scored two touchdowns himself, each on a quarterback sneak.

Nationals Draw First Blood

The Nationals drew first blood the first time they got the ball. The Los Angeles Rams' pass and catch combination of Waterfield to Tom Fears paid off with a 22-yard aerial with just four minutes gone in the game.

The Americans tied it up just before the quarter ended when Billy Grimes of the Green Bay Packers took Frankie Albert's punt on his own 27-yard line, reversed his field and behind a convoy of red-shirted blockers, skipped 53 yards for a touchdown. Lou Groza of Cleveland converted.

Waterfield put the Nationals ahead, 10 to 7, in the first four minutes of the second period when he booted a 29-yard field goal, after a National drive that had originated on the American 37 bogged down.

But it took "Automatic Otto" just 60 seconds to pass the Americans back into the lead again. With three plays he moved 59 yards, the payoff coming on a 20-yard pass to end Bob Shaw of the Chicago Cardinals. Groza again converted.

Norm Van Brocklin took over at the quarterback slot and guided the Nationals deep into enemy territory. There the drive stalled and Waterfield was called back in to kick his second field goal, this one from the 27. It sliced the American lead to 13 to 14.

Davis Recovers Fumble

The Nationals got a break just before the half-time gun when Fred Davis of the Chicago Bears recovered a fumble on the American 22-yard line. Van Brocklin hit Fears in the end zone on the second play and after Waterfield's extra point the Nationals led, 20 to 14, at the half.

The second half began the same way the first half ended — with the Nationals on the move. It was Waterfield again, this time leading his blue-jerseyed mates 76 yards in four plays. The tally came on a 65-yard pass play from Waterfield to Dan Edwards of the New York Yanks.

A few minutes later the Americans advanced from the Nationals' 43 to the six. Graham then took it over on a quarterback sneak. Pat Harder of the Chicago Cardinals converted.

Chuck Bednarik of Philadelphia set up the winning score when he intercepted a Johnny Lujack pass on the 50 and returned it to the National 19. Graham again quarterback sneaked it over, this time from the nine, and Harder's kick gave the American' their one-point win.

Satterfield To Meet Brothers, Bob Murphy Tests Henry Brimm

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—Rex Layne, promising heavyweight from Lewiston, Utah, takes on Billy Roberts of Indianapolis in Salt Lake City Tuesday night in one of the top bouts of the week.

Layne projected himself into the heavyweight picture with a unanimous 10-round decision over veteran Jersey Joe Walcott in Madison Square Garden last November. Layne follows up by meeting Cesar Brion of Argentina in Madison Square Garden, Feb. 9.

Other top bouts on a skimpy card include a match between former lightweight champion Beau Jack and Del Flanagan, at Minneapolis Thursday night. Flanagan beat featherweight king Sandy Saddler in a non-title bout Dec. 6. In a heavyweight scrap, Elkins Brothers, takes on Bob Satterfield at New York's St. Nicholas Arena, Friday night.

On Wednesday night, knockout artist Irish Bob Murphy from San Diego, Calif., takes on Henry Brimm of Buffalo in Detroit. Brimm recently battled welterweight champ Sugar Ray Robinson to a draw. The bout will be broadcast and telecast by CBS.

The Satterfield-Brothers match in New York Friday night will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by CBS. Brothers recently outpointed Omelio Agramonte in a tough battle while Satterfield knocked out Lee Oma and then dropped a ten-round decision to Oma who was stopped by heavyweight king Ezzard Charles Friday night in Madison Square Garden.

Graham Is Voted Outstanding Player

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14 (AP) — Quarterback Otto Graham, who led the American Conference All-Stars to a 28-27 triumph over the National Division All-Stars today, was unanimously voted the "outstanding player" of the game by football writers covering the contest.

Graham who guided the Cleveland Browns to the National Football League championship over Los Angeles Dec. 24, turned from the air to the ground to score two important touchdowns. The second one tied the score and set the stage for the winning conversion.

Watrous Is Winner Of Senior Golf Title

DUNEDIN, Fla., Jan. 14 (AP) — Al Watrous today won the playoff for the National Senior PGA golf championship, defeating Jock Hutchison by six strokes.

Watrous, who was no slouch of a player in his prime playing days, shot a 37-38—75 on the 6,425-yard par-72 PGA winter course here. He is the defending titlist and now plays out of Birmingham, Mich.

Hutchison, who is 68 and spotted his opponent 16 years, blew up on the final eight and came in with a 37-44—81.

Golf

DUNEDIN, Fla. — Sixty eight-year-old Jock Hutchinson of Chicago, shot a three-under par 69 to tie Al Watrous, Birmingham, Mich., for the lead in the National Senior PGA Golf championship with a 36 hole card of 142.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. — Byron Nelson shot a five under par 67 to take a three stroke lead in the Bing Crosby Tournament.

Racing

ARCADIA, Calif. — Favorite Your Host breaks four bones in right front leg, probably ending his racing career in $50,000 San Pasqual handicap won by Moonrush ($32.80) who stepped mile and sixteenth in 1:42 2/5.

Byron Nelson Wins Crosby Golf Tournament With 209

Middlecoff Finishes In No. 2 Slot With 212

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 14 (AP)—Texas Rancher Byron Nelson, once the Mr. Big of golf, thrilled more than 15,000 fans today when he won the $10,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament with a 54-hole score of 209. He put together rounds of 71-67-71 to front a powerful field.

The victory meant $2,000 to Nelson, but to the par-cracking ace who once spread-eagled the golfing world the money was only incidental.

He was the boss-man once more, if only for this tournament.

Lord Byron, as he was known when he held the U. S. Open and PGA crowns, retired from active competition in 1946. Since then, his appearances have been few and far between.

Crooner Crosby's links derby, bringing together the celebrites of stage, screen, radio and other sports, aside from golf itself, has been one of Nelson's yearly visits. The Masters tournament in Augusta is another.

Fromer National Open Title-Holder Cary Middlecoff of Memphis closed with a classy 69 today to take second money of $1,250 with a 54-hole score of 212. He opened the tournament like a novice, with a bad 76, but came back the second day with a crackling 67.

Three players tied for third with scores of 213. They were Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., George Fazio of Washington, D. C., and Tournament Newcomer Julius Boros of Midpines, N. C.

Joe Kirkwood, Jr., the Hollywood movie character actor, followed with 214. Grouped at 215 were Pete Cooper of Ponta Verda, Fla., Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, and Smiley Quick, of Culver City, Calif.

Camper Club To Hold Annual Awards Dinner

The Allegany High School Camper Club will sponsor its second annual athletic award dinner March 28 at 6 p. m. at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Awards will be made to the school's outstanding athletes at the dinner and all sports participants, cheerleaders, student managers and others will be guests at the affair.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14—(INS)—The biggest fight the Johnston office has had in months is again revived in refusal to permit "Oliver Twist" to be shown to American audiences. The Motion Picture Producers Association has a code which states that no race may be misrepresented. That doesn't mean that an Irishman, an Englishman, a Jew or a Mexican cannot be pictured as a heavy, but he cannot be unfairly caricatured.

The fight about "Oliver Twist" is over Alec Guinness' makeup as Fagin, the Jew. Although Guinness gives a great performance, his nose is bigger than Jose Ferrer's in "Cyrano."

Joseph Breen, who was called into the fracas, refused a permit for the famous Dickens story on the grounds that the Jewish race is unfairly pictured. Eagle-Lion appealed the case to the board of directors of the Motion Picture Producers Association. Breen's decision was upheld.

An interesting sidelight is that J. Arthur Rank is making no battle whatsoever to have "Oliver Twist" released in this country, but Eagle-Lion and the Robert Young crowd are insistent it be shown.

Bob O'Donnell and Karl Hoblitzelle have sold their share of the Interstate (Texas) Theatres for an estimated $12,500,000. Bob and his first wife, Lovey, own 20 per cent of the Texas chain and Lovey gets half of Bob's take, which isn't bad. She has gone to Texas to collect it.

The Paramount Theatres, which now take full control of the Interstate Theatre chain, have retained Bob and Hoblitzelle as operators of the chain. This is one of the biggest theatre deals in some years.

Chit chat:

Jean Wallace has been doing the town with Robert Hagiag, the Italian producer of "Thief Of Venice." (They are usually at Ciro's). It's wonderful that Hagiag is trying to talk Jean into going to Italy to make a picture for him.

She would be interested except for one thing—it would mean leaving her children for too long. It's true that her ex-Franchot Tone, won the custody of the two boys in their sensational court battle. But Jean can see them when she wants to.

She took off Friday evening with the children for Lage Tahoe where they will all get in some skiing.

Famed Negro Actor Canada Lee is undergoing a serious operation for arthritis, and is in a London hospital. So severe is his pain, although he only had a few more days of shooting in "Cry The Beloved Country," he had to step out of the cast.

The surgery, which will sever the nerves in Lee's back, will hospitalize him for at least eight weeks. So, Korda has postponed the finish of the story until Lee is well enough to return to work. It's a big expense, but it would be bigger were Lee to be replaced.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Herbie Klotz flew to Arizona to see Barbara Hutton while she was visiting her son. But what Herbie may not know is that Prince Henri D'Auvergne, mentioned so often with the Woolworth heiress, is now in New York waiting to see the lady.

Reason Merlene Dietrich is not worried about New York Publisher Iva Patcevich's devotion to a lovely Brazilian, is that she is no longer interested in the gentleman. Marlene's attentions are all for Michael Wilding.

Telephoned Edward Arnold to ask if he planned to marry Frances Fleischman. He said no, he was carrying the crusade for freedom, but that he had taken the lovely Frances to several parties in Washington.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are boys losing their "supremacy"?

Answer: The younger teenagers are, at any rate, says Dr. Sylvia Allen in the Quarterly Journal of Child Behavior. Among youngsters of this age the trend toward feminine "supremacy" in boy-and-girl relationships has become a serious psychiatric problem, with boys tending to surrender all initiative and let themselves be bossed around and "mothered." One thing that the boys need is more contact with their fathers so as to learn to escape petticoat government and find courage to assume a normal male role.

Is pretending to be ignorant "democratic"?

Answer: Refusing to speak correctly when you know how, for example, may make certain people feel more "at home" with you, and of course you should not flaunt your education by needlessly correcting your friend's mistakes. But democracy means trying to give everyone an equal chance, not holding everyone to the same level. And the fact that this goal may never be fully attained—since all children can't have "equal" parents—does not mean that if you've been more fortunate than others, trying to hide the fact will help them.

Are most of us "physically handicapped"?

Answer: Yes, says personnel consultant Bert Hanman in "Comeback," the magazine of the Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation, West Orange, N. J. Even though your doctor tells you there is nothing wrong with you, there are still jobs for which you are not physically fitted. An examination of 1700 workers at a plant in Sweden found only sixteen who were judged physically fitted for all kinds of work. But conversely, there is almost no one who is totally disabled. "There exist jobs, even for the bedridden."

Trolley Operator In Hero's Role

BESSEMER, Ala., (AP) — A heroic conductor was badly hurt when he leaped back into his stalled trolley to help its pasengers escape before a train sliced it apart.

The streetcar operator was William A. Murphree, 64. Laura Adams, 61, and S. M. McDonald, 65, were injured less seriously. Murphree and the woman was caught on the car and McDonald fell into the ditch in jumping to safety.

Police Chief Lacey Alexander said the trolley pole became dislodged from an overhead power line as the streetcar started across the Southern railway tracks.

Murphree left the car to replace it. When he saw a freight train approaching through the early-morning darkness and fog, he first yelled to the passengers to get off, then climbed back into his compartment and opened the rear door.

The train cut the trolley into two parts.

Chief Alexander said only the fact that the car was lightly occupied on the early morning run averted a more serious accident.

It is estimated that seven million men in the United States are duck hunters.

Food, Food Everywhere And Not A Bite To Eat

THE OTHER NIGHT on the Stork Club show (CBS-TV 7:45 p. m. EST Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays), Sarah Churchill, Winston's daughter, was observed munching a stalk of celery. This is a clear violation of tradition on that show and the camera hurriedly turned its back as if it had caught Miss Churchill shoplifting. Every night on that program, clams, shrimps, soups, oysters, grapefruit — all swathed in ice and silverware and expensive crockery—are laid before 30 or 40 people who look over it or around it or through it and never, never touch it. I don't know what the penalty Miss Churchill can expect for molesting the celery. Deportation, I expect.

John Crosby

The greatest star on television these days, if anyone should ask you, is not Milton Berle or Hopalong Cassidy or Howdy Doody. It is food. The food programs start very early in the morning with Kitchen Kapers and go on all day long—Dione Lucas' cooking course, WNBT's Cooking Show, Betty Crocker, Susan Adams Kitchen, Shop, Look and Cook, and about a million others scattered from New York to San Francisco. When the homemakers aren't preparing Turtles A La Rimbaud for the benefit of a lot of owl-eyed housewives who wouldn't cook a turtle if it committed suicide in their own frying pans, then we all move over to the restaurants for Luncheon At Sardi's, Dinner At Sardi's, the Stork Club and the other high class joints.

But no one ever eats anything. The homemakers occasionally taste a truffle; they don't eat it. At Luncheon or Dinner At Sardi's, they dispense with the silly stuff entirely; they don't even set the table at Sardi's. On television, food is something to be purchased, cooked, admired and displayed in the most elaborate settings. It is only eating that has been dispensed with as a waste of time.

Eating has been eschewed — Eschewed your food thoroughly, junior—in favor of conversation. Or what passes for conversation. The best eschewing, for my money, is done at the Stork Club where Sherman Billingsley, "the world's most fabulous host," has already acquired renown as the world's most fabulous interviewer. Mr. Billingsley's equipment as an interviewer consists of great ignorance of most of the subjects he's talking about, an immense thirst for knowledge—especially on how much everyone earns—and a surprising lack of tact for so noted a restaurant-keeper.

Since a man's income is generally considered a private matter, most of the victims squirm as if they were on the witness stand when Mr. Billingsley gets prying into their affairs. He has at various times asked a couple of models how much money they earned in a good week, a magazine editor the highest price he paid for a story and a very social lady how much the debutants paid to get into a charity ball for the New York Infirmary. It's difficult to determine which of these was the most reluctant to divulge the financial information. My nod goes to the magazine editor who will now have to explain to all his other magazine writers why they don't get paid equally well.

The art of interviewing people has been unskillfully practiced on television from the very first, the emphasis being on the looks rather than the brains of the interviewer. Mr. Billingsley appears to be innocent of all knowledge of the people he talks to. Talking to Celeste Holm one night, he asked her when "Affairs of State" could be expected to open. "It's been running for six weeks," Miss Holm informed him. Miss Holm then fell to discussing her long-running vehicle, "Oklahoma," exclaimed Mr. B. "I came from there, too." Miss Holm told him she was talking about a musical comedy. I'm afraid Mr. Billingsley doesn't listen very carefully to the answers to his own questions. And, if he doesn't care, why should you and I?

• — • — •

If this is the best conversation that can be wrung from the glittering array of writers, prizefighters, politicians and actresses that pass through the Stork Club, then I'm for turning the whole idea upside down. Let's cut out all the talk and fall to. There might be a good deal of entertainment value in watching Virginia Mayo tackle a stonecrab. I'd like to observe her technique with those animals and see if she gets as wet as I do. I'd like to see Jim Farley wrestle with a squab and Gladys Swarthout up to her elbows in an artichoke.

Let's, in short, restore eating to restaurant life. I thought that was the reason for going into them in the first place.

City's Engineers' Club To Meet At Kelly Plant

The Engineers' Club of Cumberland has made arrangements to hold its first meeting of the new year at the Kelly-Springfield Tire and Rubber Company plant on Wednesday evening.

Dinner for members and guests will be served in the plant cafeteria at 6:30 p. m., following which, a choice of two plant inspection trips has been arranged by the Kelly management. One tour, of general interest to all members, covers the manufacture of tires from raw material to finished product with a short side trip to inspect power facilities. The alternate tour, of particular interest to those members who specialize in power production consists of a detailed inspection of the power plant and a brief inspection of the plant facilities.

Club officers elected for the year 1951 include: Douglas Smith, president; John A. Jones, vice-president, J. V. MacDonald, secretary, and Elmer P. Buchtell, Jr., treasurer.

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L Q W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Z P J Z X J Z X Q U W A M W K K Q P K P M L P K U W A M W G U — H S X M F P K.

City's Engineers' Club To Meet At Kelly Plant

The Engineers' Club of Cumberland has made arrangements to hold its first meeting of the new year at the Kelly-Springfield Tire and Rubber Company plant on Wednesday evening.

Dinner for members and guests will be served in the plant cafeteria at 6:30 p. m., following which, a choice of two plant inspection trips has been arranged by the Kelly management. One tour, of general interest to all members, covers the manufacture of tires from raw material to finished product with a short side trip to inspect power facilities. The alternate tour, of particular interest to those members who specialize in power production consists of a detailed inspection of the power plant and a brief inspection of the plant facilities.

Club officers elected for the year 1951 include: Douglas Smith, president; John A. Jones, vice-president, J. V. MacDonald, secretary, and Elmer P. Buchtell, Jr., treasurer.

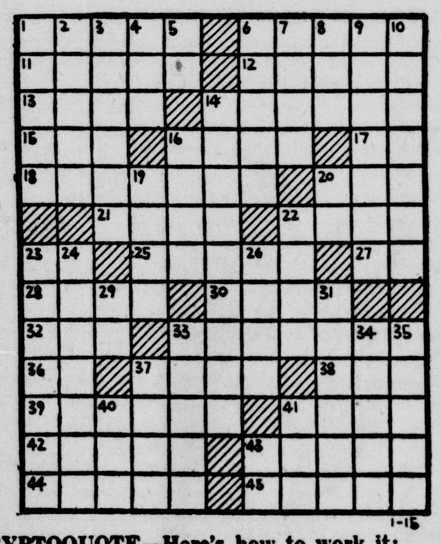
Saturday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L Q W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Z P J Z X J Z X Q U W A M W K K Q P K P M L P K U W A M W G U — H S X M F P K.

Saturday's Cryptoquote: THOUGH DROP BY DROP THE MINUTES FAINT, LIKE HOURS AT MIDNIGHT PASSED—KING.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Sgt. Carl E. Royce, who was killed in action in Belgium six years ago, January 13, 1945.
A precious one from us has gone
A voice we loved is still.
A place is vacant in our hearts
Which never can be filled.
Although your soul is now at rest
And free from care and pain,
This world would seem like heaven
If we had you back again.
Keep him Jesus in thy keeping
Until we reach the heavenly shore
And then, Dear Master, let us see him,
Love and have him as before.
Sadly missed by his Parents, Sister and Niece

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Sgt. Carl E. Royce, who was killed in action in Belgium six years ago, January 13, 1945.
A precious one from us has gone
A voice we loved is still.
A place is vacant in our hearts
Which never can be filled.
Although your soul is now at rest
And free from care and pain,
This world would seem like heaven
If we had you back again.
Keep him Jesus in thy keeping
Until we reach the heavenly shore
And then, Dear Master, let us see him,
Love and have him as before.
Sadly missed by his Parents,
Sister and Niece

What About Gravity?

Any well-known physicist will tell you that your state of mind is related to the circulation of your blood, which is affected by the pull of gravity. This is one reason for the importance of correct posture whether walking, sitting, or lying down. Swollen ankles, throbbing heads, and many other physical handicaps are lessened by changing our position so as to correct the gravity pull. This gravity pull applies to overweight, diet, lack of rest, and other factors. I am not superstitious, but the diary which I have kept for many years demonstrates that most of my good ideas came during the "no-moon" periods; furthermore, most of my foolish ideas came to me during the "full-moon" periods.

I wish to avoid any dogmatic statements or to ask for any impractical things; but I do wish that the President would ask some qualified person, already on the payroll, to make a thorough study of the above and learn whether or not I am justified in these conclusions. But I am not content to let only one man think on these things; but would like to get everyone in authority to consider them. A concrete suggestion would be to have these daily statistics on temperature, humidity, wind, barometer, and moon-phase printed on the front page of the Congressional Record each day. This would be no additional expense and could not be criticized by anyone.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Jean E. Grimes vs. James J. Grimes, No. 22,016 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the Plaintiff from the Defendant, A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The Bill of Complaint states that the parties were married on 27th day of March 1945, in Winchester, Virginia, and the defendant deserted your oratrix on the 10th day of June 1947, and that the desertion was deliberate and that the abandonment has continued and uninterrupted since that date and is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of any reconciliation and that the defendant is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and that his last known address was Roswell, New Mexico.

It is thereupon ordered upon this 6th day of January 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 7th day of February 1951, give notice to the said non resident defendant, the object of this suit, warning him to appear in this court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 24th day of February 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Dry Cleaners To Hike Prices

Several dry cleaning establishments in Cumberland have reported they will increase their prices starting today due to the general increases in the cost of materials used in their work.

One large dry cleaner said he is forced to hike prices 10 cents for suits and dresses and five cents for trousers and similar garments.

This informant said the costs of soaps, bags, spotting materials and taxes is the reason for the increased prices. He indicated that labor costs are not a determining factor at this time. The last pay increase for his workers was last May.

Prices at the various cleaners have varied from 85 cents to $1 for suits and dresses.

The price increase will probably be reflected at the small cleaners and tailoring establishments which have their dry cleaning done at one or other of the several large plants which do wholesale work.

Order Of Naval Reserve Calls Is Outlined Here

The Navy has increased by 32,000 its quota of enlisted Naval Reserves who will be ordered to active military service during April, May and June, 1951, Lt. Cmdr. F. A. Lewis, local Naval Reserve inspector-instructor, announced.

A previous announcement, made in early December, had set the quota for the three-month period at 15,000. The increase ordered this week will bring the total to 47,000. Men in this area desiring additional information on the Naval Reserve may contact the local Naval recruiters on the third floor of the Cumberland Post Office, Commander Lewis at the Naval Reserve Training Center, Cumberland (Phone 5273), or Chief Petty Officer Charles Z. Kalbaugh, USNR, at 103 Wood St., Frostburg, (Phone Frostburg 421-R).

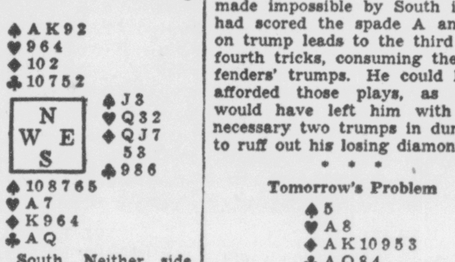
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

"UPPERCUT" A NICE PLAY

"THE UPPERCUT" is a name which has been applied increasingly in recent years to a type of defensive play that had hitherto been nameless, though known to and used by advanced players since the days of Whist. It consists of ruffing a trick with an inadequately guarded honor, such as a singleton king, doubleton queen or jack or a trebleton jack. When that obliges the declarer to use a still higher honor to overruff it, the net result may be that a previously inadequately guarded honor in your partner's hand is promoted to a winning position.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

That tenuously-bid contract would have been brought safely into port if South had not taken an unnecessary risk. But, when he failed to take out the defenders' trumps at his first opportunity, he gave them a chance to use "the uppercut" to beat him.

Following the diamond A lead, West, disliking a pitch away from his other honors, repeated the suit with the 8, so that the J pushed out the K. South now unsoundly decided he had better get rid of his other diamonds as early as possible. So he led the 6, intending to ruff it low in the dummy. West spoiled that plan by ruffing first with the spade Q, which forced the K as an overruff. You will notice that West's play, "the uppercut," had promoted East's spade J into a winner. The spade A was called from dummy, but its use left the high J still out. South also was doomed to lose a trick each in hearts and clubs, so he was down one.

"The uppercut" could have been made impossible by South if he had scored the spade A and K on trump leads to the third and fourth tricks, consuming the defenders' trumps. He could have afforded those plays, as they would have left him with the necessary two trumps in dummy to ruff out his losing diamonds.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

If West had bid spades and North got into 5-Diamonds without his side ever bidding any other suit, what should East lead?

Cumberland's First Lady To Be Elected Again Soon

Marking the beginning of the eleventh year of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority in Cumberland, the Betas will sponsor the "First Lady of the Year" contest for the fifth time.

During these years Beta Sigma Phi has grown from the organization of Lambda Chapter in October 1940 with ten members, followed by Omicron, Alpha Alpha, and the "baby Sisters" Nu Phi Mu and the highest degree Xi Beta Exemplar Chapter in December 1948, to 120 members.

Three judges will count ballots and the winner will be honored by all Betas at a banquet in March. She will receive a certificate of recognition for her work, a personal gift and will receive the "silver plate" which lists the names of the "First Ladies" of the previous years. Miss Jeannette Bonig first presented the silver plate to Miss Mary G. Walsh, First Lady 1948. Other First Ladies are Mrs. Lee W. Witherup and Miss Maude Bean.

The "First Lady" contest was inaugurated by International office Beta Sigma Phi, Kansas City, Mo., and discontinued in 1945. The Cumberland Betas were so well pleased with the cooperation of the people of Cumberland and with results that they resumed the contest in 1947, and have had continued success and have received high praise from the International Offices for efforts in making the "First Lady" of Cumberland an annual affair of interest.

Burned Victim Is Improving

Miss Edna Bullett, 306 Magruder Street, remained in "satisfactory" condition last night at Allegany Hospital where she was admitted Friday with second and third degree burns of the face, hands and body.

Attaches said the woman's clothing ignited after she fell against a stove in her second floor apartment.

Warren Washington, who resides on the first floor, said he heard a thump and ran upstairs to investigate. He found Miss Bullett ablaze from head to foot.

According to Washington, his first action was to cover her head with his sweater so she would not breathe flames. Then he wrapped her in a blanket to put out the fire.

Washington's quick thinking was credited with saving the woman's life.

What About Gravity?

Any well-known physicist will tell you that your state of mind is related to the circulation of your blood, which is affected by the pull of gravity. This is one reason for the importance of correct posture whether walking, sitting, or lying down. Swollen ankles, throbbing heads, and many other physical handicaps are lessened by changing our position so as to correct the gravity pull. This gravity pull applies to overweight, diet, lack of rest, and other factors. I am not superstitious, but the diary which I have kept for many years demonstrates that most of my good ideas came during the "no-moon" periods; furthermore, most of my foolish ideas came to me during the "full-moon" periods.

I wish to avoid any dogmatic statements or to ask for any impractical things; but I do wish that the President would ask some qualified person, already on the payroll, to make a thorough study of the above and learn whether or not I am justified in these conclusions. But I am not content to let only one man think on these things; but would like to get everyone in authority to consider them. A concrete suggestion would be to have these daily statistics on temperature, humidity, wind, barometer, and moon-phase printed on the front page of the Congressional Record each day. This would be no additional expense and could not be criticized by anyone.

Chili con carne seldom is eaten in Mexico, although it is known as a Mexican dish.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Jean E. Grimes vs. James J. Grimes, No. 22,016 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the Plaintiff from the Defendant, A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The Bill of Complaint states that the parties were married on 27th day of March 1945, in Winchester, Virginia, and the defendant deserted your oratrix on the 10th day of June 1947, and that the desertion was deliberate and that the abandonment has continued and uninterrupted since that date and is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of any reconciliation and that the defendant is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and that his last known address was Roswell, New Mexico.

It is thereupon ordered upon this 6th day of January 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 7th day of February 1951, give notice to the said non resident defendant, the object of this suit, warning him to appear in this court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 24th day of February 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Dry Cleaners To Hike Prices

Several dry cleaning establishments in Cumberland have reported they will increase their prices starting today due to the general increases in the cost of materials used in their work.

One large dry cleaner said he is forced to hike prices 10 cents for suits and dresses and five cents for trousers and similar garments.

This informant said the costs of soaps, bags, spotting materials and taxes is the reason for the increased prices. He indicated that labor costs are not a determining factor at this time. The last pay increase for his workers was last May.

Prices at the various cleaners have varied from 85 cents to $1 for suits and dresses.

The price increase will probably be reflected at the small cleaners and tailoring establishments which have their dry cleaning done at one or other of the several large plants which do wholesale work.

Order Of Naval Reserve Calls Is Outlined Here

The Navy has increased by 32,000 its quota of enlisted Naval Reserves who will be ordered to active military service during April, May and June, 1951, Lt. Cmdr. F. A. Lewis, local Naval Reserve inspector-instructor, announced.

A previous announcement, made in early December, had set the quota for the three-month period at 15,000. The increase ordered this week will bring the total to 47,000. Men in this area desiring additional information on the Naval Reserve may contact the local Naval recruiters on the third floor of the Cumberland Post Office, Commander Lewis at the Naval Reserve Training Center, Cumberland (Phone 5273), or Chief Petty Officer Charles Z. Kalbaugh, USNR, at 103 Wood St., Frostburg, (Phone Frostburg 421-R).

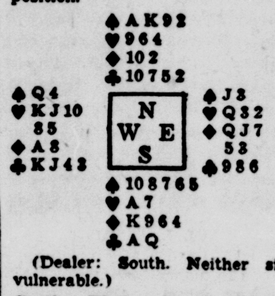
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

"UPPERCUT" A NICE PLAY

"THE UPPERCUT" is a name which has been applied increasingly in recent years to a type of defensive play that had hitherto been nameless, though known to and used by advanced players since the days of Whist. It consists of ruffing a trick with an inadequately guarded honor, such as a singleton king, doubleton queen or jack or a trebleton jack. When that obliges the declarer to use a still higher honor to overruff it, the net result may be that a previously inadequately guarded honor in your partner's hand is promoted to a winning position.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

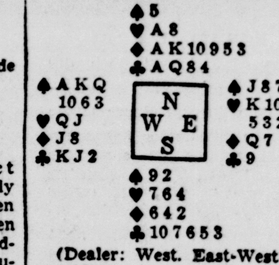
That tenuously-bid contract would have been brought safely into port if South had not taken an unnecessary risk. But, when he failed to take out the defenders' trumps at his first opportunity, he gave them a chance to use "the uppercut" to beat him.

Following the diamond A lead, West, disliking a pitch away from his other honors, repeated the suit with the 8, so that the J pushed out the K. South now unsoundly decided he had better get rid of his other diamonds as early as possible. So he led the 6, intending to ruff it low in the dummy. West spoiled that plan by ruffing first with the spade Q, which forced the K as an overruff. You will notice that West's play, "the uppercut," had promoted East's spade J into a winner. The spade A was called from dummy, but its use left the high J still out. South also was doomed to lose a trick each in hearts and clubs, so he was down one.

"The uppercut" could have been made impossible by South if he had scored the spade A and K on trump leads to the third and fourth tricks, consuming the defenders' trumps. He could have afforded those plays, as they would have left him with the necessary two trumps in dummy to ruff out his losing diamonds.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

If West had bid spades and North got into 5-Diamonds without his side ever bidding any other suit, what should East lead?

Cumberland's First Lady To Be Elected Again Soon

Marking the beginning of the eleventh year of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority in Cumberland, the Betas will sponsor the "First Lady of the Year" contest for the fifth time.

During these years Beta Sigma Phi has grown from the organization of Lambda Chapter in October 1940 with ten members, followed by Omicron, Alpha Alpha, and the "baby Sisters" Nu Phi Mu and the highest degree Xi Beta Exemplar Chapter in December 1948, to 120 members.

Three judges will count ballots and the winner will be honored by all Betas at a banquet in March. She will receive a certificate of recognition for her work, a personal gift and will receive the "silver plate" which lists the names of the "First Ladies" of the previous years. Miss Jeannette Bonig first presented the silver plate to Miss Mary G. Walsh, First Lady 1948. Other First Ladies are Mrs. Lee W. Witherup and Miss Maude Bean.

The "First Lady" contest was inaugurated by International office Beta Sigma Phi, Kansas City, Mo., and discontinued in 1945. The Cumberland Betas were so well pleased with the cooperation of the people of Cumberland and with results that they resumed the contest in 1947, and have had continued success and have received high praise from the International Offices for efforts in making the "First Lady" of Cumberland an annual affair of interest.

Burned Victim Is Improving

Miss Edna Bullett, 306 Magruder Street, remained in "satisfactory" condition last night at Allegany Hospital where she was admitted Friday with second and third degree burns of the face, hands and body.

Attaches said the woman's clothing ignited after she fell against a stove in her second floor apartment.

Warren Washington, who resides on the first floor, said he heard a thump and ran upstairs to investigate. He found Miss Bullett ablaze from head to foot.

According to Washington, his first action was to cover her head with his sweater so she would not breathe flames. Then he wrapped her in a blanket to put out the fire.

Washington's quick thinking was credited with saving the woman's life.

Ex-Miner's Body Discovered Near Bloomington

Believed He Fell From B & O Bridge

The body of Stephen J. Flynn, Bloomington, 64-year-old former coal miner, was discovered yesterday morning on a cinder bank along the edge of the Potomac River and beneath a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bridge some 1,000 feet west of Bloomington.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, Oakland, Garrett county deputy medical examiner, said that both of Flynn's legs had been fractured, his jaw also was fractured and his skull probably also had been fractured.

The examiner, who investigated the case along with State Trooper Robert Henline, is almost certain that Flynn died in a plunge from the bridge, which is between 50 and 60 feet above the river bank.

Doubting that Flynn met with foul play or committed suicide, Dr. Baumgartner has concluded that while walking across the railroad bridge from West Virginia Junction, Flynn probably met a B&O train and was crowded so that he fell off the bridge, or that he lost his footing.

One reason for this assumption is that Flynn was last seen alive by Gilbert Males about 11:45 p. m. Saturday in a tavern on the West Virginia side of the river. The body was discovered by two boy bicyclists, Freddie Rebar and Curdy Fullback, both of Beryl, W. Va.

Born October 6, 1886, Flynn had lived in the Bloomington area all of his life, with the exception of five years when he was in the Army. This period was immediately before and during World War I. At the time of his discharge he held the rank of sergeant.

Flynn last worked as a coal miner last winter for the Campbell Coal Company at Barton.

Unmarried, he lived in Bloomington with three other unmarried brothers, Dominick, Frank and Charles. He also is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Stine, Keyser, W. Va., and Mrs. Annie Beeman, Beryl, W. Va.

Educators View Youth Problems

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 14 (AP) — A group of Western Marylanders studying the needs of the state's young folk has heard a recommendation for educating children from a universal angle.

The suggestion was one of many made here yesterday at a regional meeting of the Maryland Commission for Youth. About 150 youngsters and adults attended to represent their units in Allegany, Garrett, Carroll, Frederick, Montgomery and Washington counties.

The commission was set up by former Governor Lane as a sort of study and planning group to determine the greatest needs of the counties and how they can be met.

Yesterday's discussion covered six phases of planning for youth improvement.

The suggestion for instilling a more worldly viewpoint among students came during the discussion of education. Along this same line the meeting produced suggestions that sex education be started in elementary school, domestic relations courses be offered in later grades and work groups in religion be organized in the classrooms.

Also discussed were the possibilities of a survey to outline employment facilities for young people, community protection services for neglected children, greater attention to the rehabilitation of mentally retarded children, and wider community sponsorship of youth recreation programs.

Louis Weber, Founder Of South Cumberland Planing Mill Dies

Succumbs At Home In His 90th Year

Louis Weber, 89, founder of the South Cumberland Planing Mill Company, died at 8:30 a.m. yesterday at his home, 502 East Oldtown Road, following a lingering illness of four years.

Born in Mt. Savage, August 31, 1861, he was the son of the late John and Dora Pollack Weber. His family moved to Baltimore when Mr. Weber was very young and his father died when he was six years old.

Working as a farm hand near Baltimore, he and his mother came to Cumberland when he was 20 years old. In 1880, he started his independent business career as a florist in partnership with his brother-in-law, John A. Bopp, who later became one of the most successful florists in Cumberland.

In 1896, Mr. Weber started the present business of the South Cumberland Planing Mill Company. In the beginning, his two sons, Albert L., then 15 years of age, and Arthur J., then 11 years of age, helped him to get the business started and have been actively engaged in it from then until the present time. Albert L. is president and Arthur is secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Weber had been president of the company from its incorporation in 1912 until recently when he became chairman of the board. In addition to his activities with the company, he helped to organize and has been a director of the Cumberland Savings Bank since its organization nearly 50 years ago.

He has been well-known in fraternal circles as a member of the Modern Woodmen of America; Ohr Lodge, No. 131, A. F. and A. M.; Chapel Hill Lodge No. 53, IOOF, and Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O., Elks; Cumberland Rotary Club; past vice president and director of Central YMCA; director of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; former chairman of the Civil Service Commission of Cumberland; president and director of the Odd Fellows' Temple in the South End and was a very active member of St. John's Lutheran Church for many years.

He was married to the former Miss Anna Catherine Bopp, who died in 1929. He remarried the former Miss Mamie Peebles Richards.

Survivors include two sons, Albert

LOUIS WEBER

L. Weber, this city, and Arthur J. Weber, this city; one half brother, Fred M. Ruppert, this city; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Carscaden, this city, and Mrs. Fannie Harvey, Baltimore.

The body is at the Scarpelli Funeral Home, where it will remain until Tuesday at 11 a.m. when it will be taken to St. John's Lutheran Church to lie in state until 2:30 p.m. when a funeral service will be held with Rev. Donald F. Brake, pastor, officiating.

Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Local 26 Elects Seven Division Chairmen For '51

They Will Serve On Bargaining Unit

Seven division chairmen, only three of them holdovers from 1950, were elected for one-year terms yesterday afternoon by Local No. 26, United Rubber Workers of America, at a special meeting held at the union's headquarters, 12 South Mechanic Street.

Vice-President Ralph C. Beard, who presided at the half-hour meeting, said that about 150 members attended the session.

The division chairmen are D. L. Snyder, Division I; K. W. Stonebreaker, Division II; Elmer Smith, Division III; I. S. Muir, Division IV; W. E. Plummer, Division V; Lester Fatkin, Division VI, and Leo Barkman, Division VII. Snyder, Muir and Fatkin were reelected and the others succeed men who held chairmanships last year.

These chairmen, coupled with the union officers, who will be elected in May, make up the bargaining committee at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Each division includes various departments in the tire manufacturing plant. They are Division I, Departments 02E, 02K, 05C, 20, 21 and 32; Division II, Departments 33, 35, 37A and 43; Division III, Departments 56, 62A, 62D and 95; Division IV, Departments 08D, 41, 42, 44A and 85; Division V, Departments 51A, 52, 91A and 91D; Division VI, Departments 11D, 11F, 11G, 11K, 12A, 12B, 13, 14, 16, 17 and 91D.

Local 26 will elect delegates to the District I Council, to be held in Pittsburgh, Pa., March 2, 3 and 4, at its regular business meeting at the headquarters at 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

Two Hospitalized As Car Plunges Down Steep Bank

Washington Pair Hurt Near Parsons

A Washington, D. C. man and wife were confined to Tucker County Hospital, Parsons, W. Va., last night as a result of a spectacular automobile accident in which the car skidded on an icy road and plummeted down a 100-foot embankment.

They were listed by Tucker County Sheriff D. E. Crosten as Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Dumirg. Mrs. Dumirg, 35-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ball, of Parsons, was most seriously injured. She sustained a compound fracture of her right arm, just below the shoulder, and a forehead laceration which required six stitches to close. Her 40-year old husband was released from the hospital after receiving emergency treatment yesterday morning but was readmitted last night. He sustained a sprained left ankle, a laceration above his right eye, a bump on his head and a possible concussion. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dumrig also were suffering from shock.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. McGhee, Takoma Park, in whose automobile the Dumirgs were riding, escaped serious injury or possibly death by leaping from the car as it went down the bank. He jumped out as the automobile left Route 72, some eight miles north of Parsons, about 9:30 a. m. yesterday and escaped injury.

Mrs. McGhee, who jumped from the car about half way down the steep embankment, sustained only a bruised hip.

Dumirg was thrown from the car as it neared the foot of the embankment while Mrs. Dumirg still was in the vehicle when it came to a stop.

The two couples, who had spent Saturday night with Mrs. Dumirg's parents in Parsons, were en route to the Dumirgs' farm near Limestone when the accident occurred. The scene was on a hill approaching St. George at the George Phillips farm. The ruined car came to rest in a field on the Phillips farm.

Heavy Rainfall Swells Streams

Heavy rainfall through most of yesterday in the Wills Creek and Potomac River water sheds caused area stream observers to look warily at the rising waterways but last night it appeared that a flood was not imminent.

In Cumberland both Wills Creek and the Potomac River rose about a foot yesterday and were still rising slowly last night. At Luke, river-gauge readers of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company reported that the Potomac River there was rising at a rate of slightly more than an inch an hour. Normal depth there is 22 inches. Yesterday morning it was about 22¾ inches and by 10:45 o'clock last night had deepened to 28 inches. Flood stage is regarded in the neighborhood of 50 to 54 inches at Luke.

The high-water danger was heightened by the above-freezing temperature. As a result all of the rain water was running off the frozen ground to the streams.

Touchy State Bonus Proposal To Be Renewed

Phoebus To Advance Bill In Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 14—(AP)—The touchy topic of a bonus for Maryland veterans of World War II is going to be brought up again in this session of the Legislature.

Senator Phoebus (R-Somerset) says he plans to introduce a bill calling for a referendum on a $90,000,000 bonus.

Bonus legislation has been brought up and killed in the last two sessions of the Legislature.

"I feel confident this time," said Phoebus who was co-sponsor of a similar measure last year with Senator Goldstein (D-Calvert), now majority leader.

Phoebus didn't say where the money would come from to provide the bonus for the estimated 215,000 Maryland veterans of the last war.

The Phoebus-Goldstein bill last year called for an $89,998,000 bond issue to be paid off by the sales tax receipts in excess of $20,000,000 and, if necessary, an increase in the real estate tax. It was amended later to embrace veterans of World War I at a total estimated cost of $125,000,000. The bill would have authorized payments of from $10 to $500 depending upon length of service and time spent abroad.

Besides the two sponsors, nine of the senators who favored the bill are back for new terms in Annapolis. Of the opponents, only Senator Turnbull (D-Baltimore County) was reelected. Turnbull said today he is still opposed to the bonus proposal and will vote against it again.

A bonus referendum was endorsed by the Republican party in its platform for the State election last fall.

VFW Refers Bonus To Posts In State

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14—(AP)—State officials of the Veterans of Foreign Wars voted today to send the question of a state veterans bonus back to the individual posts for their reaction.

The move was made at a meeting of the Council of Administration.

Last June at the annual department convention in Cumberland, the VFW membership voted to ask for the bonus at the 1951 session of the General Assembly.

"Normally," explained Francis J. Valle, past department commander, "This would be a mandate to our legislative committee to seek passage of a bonus bill.

"However, in view of the national emergency which has developed, with the increased tax burden, the council decided today to send the issue back to the posts."

The results, he said, should be available by February 10, so there will still be ample time to introduce a bonus bill if the majority still wants it.

Sen. Louis Goldstein (D-Calvert), majority leader in the state senate and a member of the VFW legislative committee, concurred in the council's action. He has indicated he is sympathetic to introducing a bonus measure in the legislature.

The council also agreed to seek a repeal of a resolution passed by the 1947 General Assembly putting the state on record as favoring the organization of a world government.

"We are all for the United Nations," Valle said. "But we don't want the United States to surrender sovereignty under a world government."

An effort to have the resolution repealed failed at the last session of the legislature.

Ex-Miner's Body Discovered Near Bloomington

Believed He Fell From B & O Bridge

The body of Stephen J. Flynn, Bloomington, 64-year-old former coal miner, was discovered yesterday morning on a cinder bank along the edge of the Potomac River and beneath a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bridge some 1,000 feet west of Bloomington.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, Oakland, Garrett county deputy medical examiner, said that both of Flynn's legs had been fractured, his jaw also was fractured and his skull probably also had been fractured.

Succumbs At Home In His 90th Year

Louis Weber, 89, founder of the South Cumberland Planing Mill Company, died at 8:30 a.m. yesterday at his home, 502 East Oldtown Road, following a lingering illness of four years.

Born in Mt. Savage, August 31, 1861, he was the son of the late John and Dora Pollack Weber. His family moved to Baltimore when Mr. Weber was very young and his father died when he was six years old.

Working as a farm hand near Baltimore, he and his mother came to Cumberland when he was 20 years old. In 1880, he started his independent business career as a florist in partnership with his brother-in-law, John A. Bopp, who later became one of the most successful florists in Cumberland.

In 1896, Mr. Weber started the present business of the South Cumberland Planing Mill Company. In the beginning, his two sons, Albert L., then 15 years of age, and Arthur J., then 11 years of age, helped him to get the business started and have been actively engaged in it from then until the present time. Albert L. is president and Arthur is secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Weber had been president of the company from its incorporation in 1912 until recently when he became chairman of the board. In addition to his activities with the company, he helped to organize and has been a director of the Cumberland Savings Bank since its organization nearly 50 years ago.

He has been well-known in fraternal circles as a member of the Modern Woodmen of America; Ohr Lodge, No. 131, A. F. and A. M.; Chapel Hill Lodge No. 53, IOOF, and Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O., Elks; Cumberland Rotary Club; past vice president and director of Central YMCA; director of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; former chairman of the Civil Service Commission of Cumberland; president and director of the Odd Fellows' Temple in the South End and was a very active member of St. John's Lutheran Church for many years.

He was married to the former Miss Anna Catherine Bopp, who died in 1929. He remarried the former Miss Mamie Peebles Richards.

Survivors include two sons, Albert

LOUIS WEBER

L. Weber, this city, and Arthur J. Weber, this city; one half brother, Fred M. Ruppert, this city; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Carscaden, this city, and Mrs. Fannie Harvey, Baltimore.

Local 26 Elects Seven Division Chairmen For '51

They Will Serve On Bargaining Unit

Seven division chairmen, only three of them holdovers from 1950, were elected for one-year terms yesterday afternoon by Local No. 26, United Rubber Workers of America, at a special meeting held at the union's headquarters, 12 South Mechanic Street.

Vice-President Ralph C. Beard, who presided at the half-hour meeting, said that about 150 members attended the session.

The division chairmen are D. L. Snyder, Division I; K. W. Stonebreaker, Division II; Elmer Smith, Division III; I. S. Muir, Division IV; W. E. Plummer, Division V; Lester Fatkin, Division VI, and Leo Barkman, Division VII. Snyder, Muir and Fatkin were reelected and the others succeed men who held chairmanships last year.

These chairmen, coupled with the union officers, who will be elected in May, make up the bargaining committee at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Each division includes various departments in the tire manufacturing plant. They are Division I, Departments 02E, 02K, 05C, 20, 21 and 32; Division II, Departments 33, 35, 37A and 43; Division III, Departments 56, 62A, 62D and 95; Division IV, Departments 08D, 41, 42, 44A and 85; Division V, Departments 51A, 52, 91A and 91D; Division VI, Departments 11D, 11F, 11G, 11K, 12A, 12B, 13, 14, 16, 17 and 91D.

Local 26 will elect delegates to the District I Council, to be held in Pittsburgh, Pa., March 2, 3 and 4, at its regular business meeting at the headquarters at 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

Two Hospitalized As Car Plunges Down Steep Bank

Washington Pair Hurt Near Parsons

A Washington, D. C. man and wife were confined to Tucker County Hospital, Parsons, W. Va., last night as a result of a spectacular automobile accident in which the car skidded on an icy road and plummeted down a 100-foot embankment.

They were listed by Tucker County Sheriff D. E. Crosten as Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Dumirg. Mrs. Dumirg, 35-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ball, of Parsons, was most seriously injured. She sustained a compound fracture of her right arm, just below the shoulder, and a forehead laceration which required six stitches to close. Her 40-year old husband was released from the hospital after receiving emergency treatment yesterday morning but was readmitted last night. He sustained a sprained left ankle, a laceration above his right eye, a bump on his head and a possible concussion. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dumrig also were suffering from shock.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. McGhee, Takoma Park, in whose automobile the Dumirgs were riding, escaped serious injury or possibly death by leaping from the car as it went down the bank. He jumped out as the automobile left Route 72, some eight miles north of Parsons, about 9:30 a. m. yesterday and escaped injury.

Mrs. McGhee, who jumped from the car about half way down the steep embankment, sustained only a bruised hip.

Dumirg was thrown from the car as it neared the foot of the embankment while Mrs. Dumirg still was in the vehicle when it came to a stop.

The two couples, who had spent Saturday night with Mrs. Dumirg's parents in Parsons, were en route to the Dumirgs' farm near Limestone when the accident occurred. The scene was on a hill approaching St. George at the George Phillips farm. The ruined car came to rest in a field on the Phillips farm.

Loan Association Pays Dividend

The Board of Directors of the Home Building and Loan Association, Inc., has declared a dividend of four per cent per annum on all Savings Shares for the last half of 1950.

In the annual report of the association to its stockholders at the close of business December 31, 1950, it was indicated the first mortgage loans increased by 10 per cent and savings shares went up about 3½ per cent. The reserve was increased 26 per cent during the year, the report stated.

The organization which was formed about 10 years ago has declared a four per cent dividend every year since.

Assets of the corporation last year included $198,433.30 in first mortgage loans, $3,000 in U. S. Savings Bonds, and miscellaneous items $699.63. A total of $16,124.08 is held in the reserve fund and assets amount to $202,132.93.

Pair Injured In Auto Crash

Two persons were slightly injured yesterday about 2:30 p. m. when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a fire plug on Main Street, Westernport.

The injured were Mrs. Leah Orndorff, 29, wife of the driver of the car, who suffered a right ankle injury and was treated at Reeves' Clinic in Westernport, and Gibson Combs, 42, Franklin, W. Va., owner of the automobile and a passenger at the time of the accident. Combs suffered lacerations of the head and was also treated at the clinic.

Trooper A. M. Spioch, Maryland State Police, said the car was driven by William Orndorff, 23, Main Street, Westernport and crashed into the fire plug on Main Street causing an estimated $300 damage to the car and $25 damage to the fire plug.

Orndorff and his 10-months-old daughter, Deana, who was riding in the back seat with her mother, were uninjured, Spioch said. Combs was riding in the front seat next to the driver.

Orndorff is being held in city jail at Westernport on charges of drunken and reckless driving and operating without a driver's permit, Spioch said. He will appear at a hearing today at 8 p. m. before Magistrate John Laughlin in Westernport.

Heavy Rainfall Swells Streams

Heavy rainfall through most of yesterday in the Wills Creek and Potomac River water sheds caused area stream observers to look warily at the rising waterways but last night it appeared that a flood was not imminent.

In Cumberland both Wills Creek and the Potomac River rose about a foot yesterday and were still rising slowly last night. At Luke, river-gauge readers of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company reported that the Potomac River there was rising at a rate of slightly more than an inch an hour. Normal depth there is 22 inches. Yesterday morning it was about 22¾ inches and by 10:45 o'clock last night had deepened to 28 inches. Flood stage is regarded in the neighborhood of 50 to 54 inches at Luke.

The high-water danger was heightened by the above-freezing temperature. As a result all of the rain water was running off the frozen ground to the streams.

Touchy State Bonus Proposal To Be Renewed

Phoebus To Advance Bill In Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 14—(AP)—The touchy topic of a bonus for Maryland veterans of World War II is going to be brought up again in this session of the Legislature.

Senator Phoebus (R-Somerset) says he plans to introduce a bill calling for a referendum on a $90,000,000 bonus.

Bonus legislation has been brought up and killed in the last two sessions of the Legislature.

"I feel confident this time," said Phoebus who was co-sponsor of a similar measure last year with Senator Goldstein (D-Calvert), now majority leader.

Phoebus didn't say where the money would come from to provide the bonus for the estimated 215,000 Maryland veterans of the last war.

The Phoebus-Goldstein bill last year called for an $89,998,000 bond issue to be paid off by the sales tax receipts in excess of $20,000,000 and, if necessary, an increase in the real estate tax. It was amended later to embrace veterans of World War I at a total estimated cost of $125,000,000. The bill would have authorized payments of from $10 to $500 depending upon length of service and time spent abroad.

Besides the two sponsors, nine of the senators who favored the bill are back for new terms in Annapolis. Of the opponents, only Senator Turnbull (D-Baltimore County) was reelected. Turnbull said today he is still opposed to the bonus proposal and will vote against it again.

A bonus referendum was endorsed by the Republican party in its platform for the State election last fall.

VFW Refers Bonus To Posts In State

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14—(AP)—State officials of the Veterans of Foreign Wars voted today to send the question of a state veterans bonus back to the individual posts for their reaction.

The move was made at a meeting of the Council of Administration.

Last June at the annual department convention in Cumberland, the VFW membership voted to ask for the bonus at the 1951 session of the General Assembly.

"Normally," explained Francis J. Valle, past department commander, "This would be a mandate to our legislative committee to seek passage of a bonus bill.

"However, in view of the national emergency which has developed, with the increased tax burden, the council decided today to send the issue back to the posts."

The results, he said, should be available by February 10, so there will still be ample time to introduce a bonus bill if the majority still wants it.

Sen. Louis Goldstein (D-Calvert), majority leader in the state senate and a member of the VFW legislative committee, concurred in the council's action. He has indicated he is sympathetic to introducing a bonus measure in the legislature.

The council also agreed to seek a repeal of a resolution passed by the 1947 General Assembly putting the state on record as favoring the organization of a world government.

"We are all for the United Nations," Valle said, "But we don't want the United States to surrender sovereignty under a world government."

An effort to have the resolution repealed failed at the last session of the legislature.

Truman Due To Give Congress Record Budget For Peacetime

Expected To Hit $70,000,000,000; Row Seen Over How To Spread New Tax Load

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Congress members are taking it for granted that the biggest peacetime budget in history — generally expected to hit $70,000,000,000 — will be laid in their laps tomorrow. Who pays for it and how are about as big worries at the Capitol as the actual 'sum.

There already are indications that the real pulling and hauling will begin when it comes to saying who shall hand over the money for war in Korea and a continuing world-wide guard against Communist aggression.

There is a strong pay-as-you-go sentiment on Capitol Hill but it will be put to a severe test in trying to arrange to meet the big mobilization costs on the spot.

Message To Be Read

The figures to set the wheels turning do not come out officially until 12:30 p.m. EST Monday when President Truman's budget message will be read in the House and Senate. They will cover the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1951.

The President has left no doubt that he wants the bill paid as the money is spent. For instance he spoke last week of a tax raise "very much more" than the $8,000,000,000 a year in additional levies voted since fighting began in Korea.

Paying in cash would mean something very much like $16,000,000,000 in additional taxes on the basis of a $70,000,000,000 outlay.

There is talk of all sorts about how to get the money. The President's council of economic advisers already has declared incomes taxes should be raised at all levels. It also noted that the man who has most of that kind of cash is the citizen in the below-$10,000 income group.

Tax Message Due Soon

The council, quoted by the President in the economic message, used figures indicating that present taxes leave the middle and lower bracket man in possession of 86 per cent of the country's remaining yearly income.

On that basis, the question of how to raise the tax take 30 per cent or so above the current $50,000,000,000-plus level becomes a question of how to get most of it from that group.

Mr. Truman will write his own prescription for the method in a later tax message due at the Capitol before Feb. 1, and the House Ways and Means Committee will go to work on it in public hearings Feb. 5.

Yanks-To-Europe Debate May Boil To Climax Today

Some GOP Leaders Counseling Delay

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Heated debate over President Truman's plan to send troops to Europe's defense may boil to a sudden climax in the Senate tomorrow, but some Republican leaders were reported counseling delay of a showdown.

Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, said he will try to bring up his resolution to prohibit transfer of ground forces to Europe until Congress has approved the policy.

Connally Plans Counter Move

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he will counter any such move by a motion to send the proposal to his committee for further study.

Other Republicans were said to be advising party colleagues to await a report from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower before forcing a final congressional expression on the issue which has rocked Congress since the session began.

While they wouldn't comment directly, Sens. Taft (R-Ohio) and Millikin (R-Colo) were reported advising against seeking an immediate vote on the Wherry resolution.

Taft Challenges Truman

Taft, who heads the party's policy committee, has challenged President Truman's claim of authority to make such a transfer, without the lawmakers' advance approval. He contends a major national issue is involved.

Millikin, chairman of the conference of all GOP senators, has put himself in the middle ground between what he called "globalists and retreatists." He told the Senate last week he is "opposed to falling back on the United States an adopting a cornered-rat defense policy."

U. S. Will Demand Russia Settle Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—The United States will confront Russia with a hard-boiled demand that it settle up promptly when American-Soviet negotiators finally sit down tomorrow to talk about Moscow's overdue lend-lease account.

American officials said they plan to abandon polite diplomatic language and resort to blunt talk to obtain payment of this five-year-old obligation.

If the Russians continue to "stall," officials indicated the U. S. is considering:

1. Demanding return of much of the key industrial supplies shipped to the Soviet Union during the war.
2. Denouncing Russia publicly for bad faith.
3. Appealing to the international court to settle the case.

Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin is scheduled to head the Russian group when it meets American officials at the State Department.

The American delegation is led by John C. Wyley, former American envoy to Iran.

War Again Makes Widow Of N. J. Woman

PITMAN, N. J., Jan. 14 (AP)—War has made a widow of Mrs. Jean E. Snodgrass for the second time. This time she has four small daughters to share her grief.

The name of her husband, M/Sgt. James Fort Snodgrass, was included in the Defense Department's 200th Korean war casualty list released today.

Sgt. Snodgrass was killed Nov. 28 while fighting near the Manchurian border with the Third Army Division.

Mrs. Snodgrass' first husband, Flight Capt. Charles Ridgley Hammell, 3rd, of Philadelphia, was killed in a takeoff crash at Dinjan, India, on May 9, 1945, while piloting a transport loaded with war supplies for China.

U.S. Won't Quit Fight

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA, Monday, Jan. 15 (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, said today U. S. forces "will certainly stay and fight" in Korea. He said replacements at the front would arrive "in two or three months."

Gen. Collins came here from Tokyo, where he had engaged in secrecy-guarded high level conferences. He held a press conference within an hour after his arrival for his fourth visit of the war.

Gen. Collins flew in from Washington with Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief.

Former German Military Leaders Favor Rearming

Predict No Early Attack By Russia

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 14 (AP)—Three former German generals and a former admiral agreed today that West Germany should rearm to help defend Western Europe.

All predicted Russia will not attack Western Europe in the near future because she is chiefly interested at present in expanding her influence in Asia—though they did not discount completely the possibility that she might be provoked by German rearmament into making a premature move.

They disagreed as to what conditions West Germany should demand as its price for rearming.

Separate Interviews

These opinions were expressed in separate interviews, by former Gens. Hasso Eckhardt von Mantueffel, Guenther Blumentritt, and Bodo Zimmerman and by former Adm. Gotifried Hansen.

They were picked at random from a list of Germany's former military leaders and asked a series of questions about European defense.

Manteuffel, one of Germany's top tank experts, was commander of Hitler's Fifth Panzer Army and participated in the Battle of the Bulge. Blumentritt was Field Marshal Gerd Von Rundstedt's chief of staff on the western front and was acquitted of war crimes charges. Zimmerman was a lieutenant general and operations officer on the western front and was convicted of Nazi Party affiliation. Hansen, after retiring from active duty as an admiral, was liaison officer between the German Navy and Air Force during the war.

Germany "Must Fight"

Blumentritt was the strongest advocate of German rearmament.

"Germany must help," he said flatly. "She must fight to avoid annihilation by Bolshevism. She must fight to regain the confidence of the Western World to which she belongs. Fighting is the only way that Germany can gain the support of the Western Allies in re-establishing her eastern frontier (regaining areas now occupied by Poland)."

Four American Soldiers Released By North Koreans

WITH U. S. SECOND DIVISION, Korea, Jan. 14 (AP)—Four American soldiers, captured three days ago when their jeep was mined, were released today by the Reds.

It marked one of the rare instances of such action by North Korean troops. Chinese have released prisoners several times for propaganda reasons.

The GIs were not seriously mistreated but some of their clothing was taken. One said his shirt and socks were taken and he was forced to walk barefoot in the snow for several miles.

All four of the released prisoners were picked up by a friendly patrol and flown to Japan to be treated for exposure.

Three U.N.-Held Areas Fire-Bombed, Strafed

WITH THE U. S. SECOND DIVISION, Korea, Monday, Jan. 15 (AP) —Three areas of Korea held by United Nations forces were fire-bombed and strafed yesterday and last night, the U. S. Second Division reported today.

An unidentified plane dropped napalm (jellied gasoline) bombs near Ansong on the western front southeast of Suwon at 2:05 p. m. Sunday (12:05 a. m. Sunday EST).

An unidentified aircraft strafed and napalmed the sector south of Osan at 2:22 p. m.

A plane dropped four bombs at an undisclosed point south of Osan at 8:45 p. m.

President Truman Urged To Set Up FEPC

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. (AP)—President Truman today was urged to bypass Congress on a hotly disputed civil rights issue and create a Fair Employment Practices Commission by executive order.

This proposal by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) drew immediate fire from a southerner, Sen. Johnston (D-SC), who said Congress would not pay for it in peacetime and it would just mean trouble on Capitol Hill.

Polio Increasing, U. S. Told As Dimes Drive Is Opened

WYTHEVILLE, Va., Jan. 14 (AP)—Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, launched the 1951 March of Dimes campaign tonight with a warning that "poliomyelitis is on the increase in America."

Calling for $50,000,000 in new funds, O'Connor said the foundation had a $5,000,000 debt at the end of 1950 because of the epidemics of the past three years.

"It is an honorable debt acquired by helping the stricken," he added.

O'Connor's speech, prepared for delivery over the Columbia Broadcasting System's coast-to-coast network, originated in this small town because it was the scene of the nation's worst polio epidemic last year.

The March of Dimes campaign beginning tomorrow will last throughout January.

"Tomorrow Americans everywhere will begin the greatest march against the number one epidemic disease of this country—the disease which in the past three terrible epidemic years has stricken more than 100,000 men, women and children," O'Connor said.

Heroic Stewardess, 6 Others Perish In Crash Of Airliner

Seven Perish In Crash Of Airliner

Two of the four motors of a National Airlines plane are nosed into the ground at Philadelphia's International Airport following a crash yesterday. Seven persons, including a heroic stewardess, were killed. (Other pictures on page 2)

Europe Arms Aid Backers Count Heavily On "Ike"

Two Key Questions Still Unanswered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Administration officials are counting heavily on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to help get the European arms aid program through Congress.

Eisenhower, named to command a new international army in Western Europe, is now studying defense problems there. Officials say he unquestionably will report to Congress on his return.

Truman Proposal Awaited

President Truman will propose to Congress Monday the appropriation of new billions for foreign military assistance, centering in Europe. This will press toward a climax some of the main issues posed by former President Hoover and Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) in their criticisms of the administration's aid-Europe policy.

The two key questions opened up by this discussion are:

(1) Can an adequate defense against Russia be established in Europe by the collective efforts of the North Atlantic treaty powers?

(2) Should the U. S. continue supplying its European allies with arms and funds and should it send several more divisions to Western Europe as President Truman plans.

Independent Evaluation

In testifying on these and related questions Eisenhower, administration officials point out, will speak as a professional military man who was not associated with the early stages of work on the European defense system and who therefore has an independent evaluation to offer Congress.

That Eisenhower will support the undertaking wholeheartedly appears to be beyond question. This belief is based on his public statements since his arrival in Europe a week ago and on official reports which have come back to Washington from members of his party.

Patient In Hospital Is Killed By Visitor

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14 (AP) — A man walked into the ward of Magee Hospital to visit a patient tonight, then slashed her to death with a butcher knife while nine other patients screamed in horror, police Sergeant Henry Stacklin reported.

Stacklin said the victim and her assailant were negroes. He identified the victim as Hattie Tucker, 26.

The officer said her assailant, Charles Faust, 26, was overcome by doctors and nurses and booked on a murder charge.

"Fattest" Man Dies

CLAYTON, N. M., Jan. 14 (AP) — Bill Wetsel, who claimed to be the world's fattest man, died today at the age of 57.

Relatives said the last time he was weighed — about a year ago — he tipped the scales at 675 pounds.

Nine Passengers Failed To Show Up For Ill-Fated Hop

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 14 (AP)—Nine passengers failed to show up for the National Airlines flight scheduled to leave Newark airport for points south today.

The plane crashed as it was landing at Philadelphia and seven persons died in the flaming wreckage.

"We don't know whether these nine people cancelled their flights or not," Assistant Station Agent Ward Daniels said at the NAL office here. "But for one reason or another they didn't take off with the rest of the scheduled passengers."

Martin Assails Plans For Huge Boost In Taxes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. (AP)—House Republican Leader Martin today accused President Truman's top economic advisers of planning a "completely socialist" America. He tied that in with a statement that the people face the prospect of paying up to 50 per cent of their earnings in taxes.

The Massachusetts lawmaker said the annual report of the President's Council of Economic Advisers is a "blueprint for socialism" worked out "in the name of the national crisis."

The "touchstone" of the blueprint is increased taxation, Martin said, adding:

"Already the average American is paying more than 25 per cent of his income to federal, state and local governments in the form of taxation.

"With the additional staggering increases proposed, American citizens will find themselves turning over to the government between one-third and one-half of all they earn so that the government may spend it for them. This can lead only to less independence for the individual and more dependence on government — exactly the socialist goal."

Martin let fly in a statement—as Congress made ready to receive Mr. Truman's budget message tomorrow. Capitol Hill expected it to call for about $70,000,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and for a new tax hike in the neighborhood of $16,000,000,000 to put defense spending on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Uninvited Guest Kills Himself At Home Party

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 14 (AP)—An uninvited guest walked into a home party near Indiana Central College last night and shot himself to death. A dozen adults and seven small children watched.

State Police Detective Lawrence Broderick said the victim was Joseph McKee, 57, Indianapolis, rejected suitor of a woman at the party.

Gen. MacArthur 'Blundered,' War Reporter Says

"Misinterpreted" Red Withdrawals

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur was accused of "unsound deployment of the United Nations forces and a momentous blunder" by an American war correspondent in this week's Look magazine.

Homer Bigart of the New York Herald-Tribune, who has been reporting the war in Korea, wrote that a blunder by the United Nations commander "helped insure the success of the enemy's strategy."

"It is a great tragedy that a man who served his country so nobly should be hounded and disparaged in the final hours of his career," the article said.

Criticized For One Decision

"But this is one of the occupational hazards of being a general. MacArthur grossly miscalculated the intentions, strength and capabilities of the forces against him.

"And no nation in the spot we are in can string along with a leader whose ill-considered decision to launch the offensive of November 24 precipitated and magnified the swift disaster."

Bigart said it was on that one decision that MacArthur must be criticized.

Red Tactics Not New

The writer said MacArthur misinterpreted mysterious Chinese withdrawals and thought they were the result of demoralization by air and artillery bombardment.

He said stealthy maneuvers by Communist forces in Korea were no more novel than tactics of American Minute Men against the British on the road back from Lexington in 1775.

Industrialist Dies

BAYPORT, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP) — William S. Shipley, 71, board chairman of the York Corporation of York, Pa., manufacturers of industrial refrigeration and air-conditioning machinery, died today at his home.

Plane Skids Past End Of Runway Into Ditch, Burns

21 Survive Tragedy At Philadelphia Port

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14 (AP) — A heroic airline stewardess, four other women and two babies died today in the flaming wreckage of a four-engine National Airlines plane that skidded past the end of a runway, crashed into a ditch and burned in landing at International Airport.

The stewardess, who aided many of the 19 other passengers to escape with minor injuries, lost her life in her effort to save all aboard.

Mary Frances Housley, 24, Jacksonville, Fla., a diminutive brunette who had been with the airline only since last August, was found dead in the wreckage, her arms around one of the two babies. Survivors of the crash told how she opened the cabin door, cautioned them to "take it easy," and made repeated trips into the burning plane to aid others.

Pilot, Co-Pilot Escape

The pilot and co-pilot of the DC-4 plane escaped injury as the huge craft came to a stop with the fuselage bridging the 10-foot ditch at the edge of the big airport. The plane had crashed through a heavy wire guard fence and hit a beacon light that clipped off part of the left wing like a match snapped in two. Almost immediately fire flashed through the wreckage.

It was alternately raining and snowing as the big plane, making its only stop on a Newark, N. J., to Norfolk, Va., flight, touched down for the landing at 2:13 p.m. (EST). The 6,000-foot paved runway was coated with nearly an inch of slush and water, but was rated safe for operations. Visibility was 1½ miles.

A Civil Aeronautics Administration employe on duty in the airport control tower said the big plane was making an instrument landing because of clouds covering the airport. It was a "normal" landing he added, but the plane overran the runway, rammed through the fence and bumped across the ditch, coming to a stop with the after section of the fuselage bridging the 10-foot cut.

Drop 10 Feet To Safety

A National Airlines official said that the 21 persons who escaped alive jumped from the plane within 90 seconds after it came to a stop. Many of them suffered cuts and bruises in the 10 foot drop from the cabin door to the ground. Others were burned, although none was reported in serious condition.

Mrs. Manuela Smith, wife of a sailor stationed at Norfolk, Va., escaped alive with her three-year-old daughter Betty Jane. But her infant daughter Brenda Joyce died in the wreckage. Among the dead, also, were Mrs. H. Marchiano and her infant son of Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

The other dead were identified by the airline as Mrs. N. B. Joynes, 58, Norfolk, Va.; Marion Carden, 28, Norfolk, Va., and a woman listed on the passenger manifest as Mrs. Hubian, New York City.

Shift Of NSRB Offices To DPA Is Expected

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Most of the offices now under the top level National Security Resources Board, of which W. Stuart Symington is chairman, are expected to be transferred shortly to William H. Harrison's new Defense Production Administration, informed persons said today.

These informants who did not wish to be named, said the shift is expected when Senate confirmation of Harrison's nomination clears the way for him to take over his new duties. That seems likely within the next two weeks.

$2,200 Will Build A-Bomb Shelter For Your Family

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—The atom bomb shelter man says that for $2,200 he can build a good safe place in which a family can hide.

The A.B.S. man is J. M. Woods of Baltimore, who has been running ads in Baltimore and Washington newspapers. The heading reads:

"Safeguard your family from the atom bomb."

Then follows a picture of a house, with bomb shelter attached, and the question:

"Have you considered 'A' bomb shelter of your own for your family . . . in your home?"

Naturally I hustled right around to see how business was. Surprisingly, in view of the headlines these days, the answer is not so good.

"I expect it to bust loose any moment, and we'll really get going," said Woods, who has spent 26 years in the construction business, with three years out for service in the Coast Guard.

"Right now about all I'm getting is feelers, mostly from women. On something like this, people hold back. They don't want to be the first."

30,000 Enemy Troops Sneak Behind Allies

2nd Division Gets New Commander

TOKYO, Monday, Jan. 15 (AP) — U. S. Second Division troops today stood fast near Wonju in Central Korea despite a threat by up to 30,000 infiltrating North Korean Reds to outflank the entire division.

Coincident with field operations on the critical Sobaek Mountain front were two other developments: (1) Replacement without explanation of the Second Division's commander; (2) conferences of the U. S. Army's chief of staff and other top generals from Washington with Gen. MacArthur in Tokyo.

Advance elements of the Second Division clung firmly to their tight perimeter one and a half to two miles south of Wonju, AP Correspondent William C. Barnard reported this morning from the front. Wonju is the control point for a highway network to Southeast Korea.

There was no new word on the menace posed by North Koreans who have infiltrated at points more than 50 miles below Wonju. But a division spokesman said today heavy enemy troop movements continued from West Korea toward the Wonju area.

The Wonju front was quiet Sunday night with no enemy contact.

In Korea, the Eighth Army announced without explanation that Maj. Gen. Robert B. McClure was being replaced as Second Division commander by Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner. McClure had been named to the command only Dec. 11 after the Second Division lost one-third of its men in holding back the Chinese Red offensive in North Korea to permit the Eighth Army to withdraw.

In the past week the division has staved off repeated Communist smashes in South Korea on the Wonju front, but today was confronted with a dire threat of being outflanked and cut off.

In detailing the Red maneuvers, a division spokesman in the field told AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw:

"There are growing indications that the enemy will not be content merely to drive us off the Korean peninsula. They want to separate us and cut us to pieces."

The U. S. Second Division, with battalions of French and Dutch infantry operating as part of its effective strength, was still holding fast to a wedge in Communist lines.

The wedge was 25 miles deep and 40 miles wide at its base.

For a week, this force with its northernmost tip just south of Wonju, has denied Communist forces access to an important network of mountain-pass roads leading directly south to the old Pusan defense lines of last summer.

Field dispatches Sunday said infiltrating Reds were sneaking down the snow-banked Soebak Mountain passes trying to link up with guerrillas. the Eighth Army said were operating as far as 100 miles below the 38th parallel.

Correspondent Tom Bradshaw with the Second Division south of Wonju said Communist forces had crept through U. N. positions in the sector between Chechon and Yongwol.

Dope Distributor Kingpin Nabbed

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14 (AP) — A Washington man described by federal agents as the "biggest marihuana distributor" in this area was under arrest today after being duped by an undercover worker for the narcotics bureau.

James Watkins, 28-year-old negro, was snared yesterday in a trap sprung by 15 federal, Baltimore, Washington and Maryland State Police.

Boyd M. Martin, district supervisor of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, said Watkins was arrested in his automobile after selling a pound of raw marihuana to the undercover agent who had worked himself into the dope distribution ring.

The district supervisor called Watkins the kingpin marihuana peddler of Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. He said the capture climaxed a two-year game of cat-and-mouse.

Flood Threatens Town

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 14 (AP) —Almost four and one-half inches of rain, which fell here in 18 hours, has sent Little River boiling over its banks and stopped travel in two main highways.

The American Red Cross reported tonight that eight or 10 families had been moved from their homes near the river.

Paper Co. Has Heavy Expenses For Remodeling

Luke Plant Receives New Furnace, Boiler

The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company revealed yesterday in its annual report that heavy expenditures at its three mills were required to complete rebuilding and remodeling plans in 1950.

At the Luke plant the program involved a major change-over from old cook to a modern sulphate process, designed to permit more efficient use of the kinds of wood most readily available in this region. This involved installation of a new 250-ton recovery furnace and high-pressure boiler, plus an electrostatis precipitator.

The annual report also revealed the company's net profit for the fiscal year ended October 31 was $12,262,000, equal to $12.93 a common share. This compares with a net of $10,842,169, or $11.45 a share in the preceding year.

Sales during the latest fiscal year amounted to $95,464,000, against $88,441,000 a year ago.

Paper and paperboard production in 1950 rose to 685,400 tons compared with 642,700 tons in 1949. During the last year the company also produced, in sales value, $5,936,000 of chemicals, against $5,614,000 in 1949.

The annual report to stockholders also includes a series of photographs depicting the company's multiple activities. These photographs illustrate such subjects as harvesting, storage and shipment of wood, water and power sources used in papermaking, maintenance and rebuilding of machines, research, safety measures and finished products.

Some of the photographs were made at the Luke plant including pictures of Willis McCombs checking motors stored and dismantled for repairs and rebuilding at the Luke plant. Another photograph shows Dana Wescott, Christine Parker, Gean Davis and Lyman Aldrich of the Luke plant working in the research laboratory of the mill. The report is printed on paper produced at the Luke plant.

President David L. Luke, Jr., said when the report was released, the total of capital expenditures since the end of World War II amounted to nearly $50,000,000. To complete the expansion and improvement program at the three pulp plants owned by the company may require outside financing, he added.

The three plants are located at Charleston, S. C., Covington, Va., and Luke.

Husbands Given Bibles At Church

Two husbands were given New Testaments and Psalms last night at First Baptist Church as Rev. O. Afton Linger began his "Building Bible Homes For Christ" series with a sermon on "Who is The Boss at Your House?"

Jesse Sachs, 202 Decatur Street, who has been married to Mrs. Sachs 40 years, was presented a New Testament and Psalms in Great Primer type for having been married to the same woman longer than any other man in the congregation. Leo McGann, this city, who has been married only six months, was given a pocket Testament containing the New Testament and the Psalms, as the shortest-term husband.

Several men took places in the seats reserved for "Henpecked Husbands," but Rev. Linger announced that these men must not be very much hen-pecked or they would have been afraid to have sat there.

The quarterly business meeting of First Baptist Church will be held Wednesday immediately following the 7:30 p.m. worship. Refreshments will follow the meeting.

Boy, 8, Shot And Killed By Younger Brother

BERWYN, Md., Jan. 14 (AP) — An eight-year-old boy was accidentally shot and killed by his six-year-old brother today while their parents were away from the house.

Charles Norman Lose was killed instantly by a .22 caliber rifle bullet which struck him in the heart.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lose, were making the rounds of the husband's trash collection route when the shooting occurred.

Police said they learned that the boy was shot by his brother, David, after another three-year-old brother had found the rifle standing in the corner of their parents' bedroom.

Baltimore Transit Strike Date To Be Set

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14 (AP)—A date for the start of a strike against the Baltimore Transit Company will be set here Tuesday by the executive committee of the AFL union representing bus and streetcar operators and maintenance workers.

The union got the green light from the workers as they voted 2,975 to 170 in favor of the walkout in their contract dispute with the privately owned transit company that carries more than half a million Baltimoreans daily.

Police, Firemen Search Wreckage Of Crashed Plane

Police and firemen search the smoldering mass of a National Airlines plane that crashed on a snow-swept runway at Philadelphia yesterday, killing seven persons. At right, part of the plane lies suspended across a fence and gulley. The plane was en route from Newark, N. J., to Norfolk, Va., with 22 passengers and a crew of three aboard.

Johnson Against Permanent UMT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP) — Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said today he will fight the administration's request for a permanent universal military service and training program "as un-American and undemocratic."

"The proposal of Anna Rosenberg is the most brash and shocking ever made to the Congress in its 162 years of existence," the big, blunt-speaking westerner added.

He referred to Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense.

She and Secretary of Defense Marshall presented the Defense Department's program, including draft of 18-year-olds for 27 months service, as approved by President Truman and all administration agencies.

The hearings will continue daily this week.

The present draft act permits inductions of men from 19 through 25.

Sen. Johnson said he did not object to lowering the draft age "if this is necessary to build up our forces during an emergency but I think Congress ought to prohibit sending any 18-year-olds overseas or out of the United States."

Man's Body, Legs Burned, Is Found

MARTINS FERRY, O., Jan. 14. (AP) — A middle-aged, well-dressed man was found slain in a car on a lonely country lane today, his throat slit from ear to ear and his gasoline-splattered body partly burned.

Sheriff Cloyd Barricklow said he is working on the theory the victim may be wanted as a witness by Senate crime investigators who open a hearing in Cleveland Wednesday. But in Cleveland, a committee investigator who declined use of his name, said the committee was not interested in the case.

The body was found in a car 100 yards off state Route 7, two miles north of Martins Ferry. It was wrapped in a gasoline-soaked rug, and the legs had been burned off up to the hips.

The body still was smoldering at 7:10 a. m. (EST) when a Mr. Nevin, who lives in the sparsely-settled area, discovered smoke coming from the car. The sheriff said he found one license plate, which he said had been issued to a Columbus, O., man, a few feet away from the car. The death car bore no license plates.

At Columbus, Police Lt. Lester Bauman said, however, the license plate had been reported lost earlier.

Assembly Due To Get Redistricting Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 14 (AP)—A measure to redistrict the state to provide a constituency for a seventh Maryland congressman is almost certain to be introduced during this General Assembly session.

There may be several.

Because the 1950 census returns showed that Maryland has grown in population proportionally more than some other states, this state is entitled to seven—instead of the present six—members of the House of Representatives.

The new congressman will be named in the 1952 general election.

Unless the Legislature redistricts the state before then, the seventh congressman will be elected at-large.

Judge Harris Sentences Pair To Prison Terms

A local youth and a man were ordered confined in state institutions by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court Saturday.

John R. Parsons, 16, of Washington Street, who pleaded guilty to one count of statutory burglary and another for breaking and entering, was ordered placed in the Maryland Training School for Boys.

W. T. Berry, this city, was sent to the House of Correction for one year for breaking a one-year parole imposed on him in Circuit Court.

In another case, Arch Taylor, 61, of 106 North Mechanic Street, was given a suspended sentence for larceny and paroled for two years.

Welba Casteel, of Keyser, W. Va., pleaded guilty to two counts of false pretense and was given a suspended sentence of one year in the House of Correction and placed on parole for three years.

The Parsons youth was indicted for breaking into the warehouse of Gerald F. Butler, Virginia Avenue, and entering the garage of Norman F. Geatz, Smallwood Street.

Harris sentenced Parsons to the training school until authorities there feel that he has been rehabilitated sufficiently.

Berry was given the one-year term for breaking a one-year parole imposed on him just two weeks previously on a theft conviction.

He was apprehended January 4 by City Police. Berry admitted taking whisky from the Geatz warehouse.

Casteel pleaded guilty to two charges of passing bad checks to local merchants. He was ordered to make restitution, abstain from alcohol during the three-year probation period, and place a $200 peace bond.

Taylor was indicted on a charge of statutory burglary in connection with a $35 robbery at the home of Fort Cumberland Lodge No. 178, IBPOEW.

He was ordered to make restitution in full within three months and abstain from alcohol in addition to posting a $200 personal recognizance bond.

Today Samuel B. Lyons, 44, of Paw Paw, W. Va., will be tried before a jury on a charge of manslaughter, in the traffic death of the postmaster of Manns Choice, Pa., Asa Buckey Sams.

County Group Urges Farmers To Buy Early

County farmers are being urged to buy their supplies of lime and fertilizer early to help ease the transportation problem which is developing because of national defense preparations, Albert O'Neal, chairman of the County Production and Marketing Administration, said.

O'Neal pointed out that many farmers secure their materials with the help of the Agricultural Conservation Program which is administered by the PMA. He suggested the farmers make their farm plans for the coming year known early so that orders for necessary materials can be placed in time.

Cumberlanders Are Top Winners In Honey Contest Held Here

The forty-second annual conclave of the Maryland State Beekeepers Association was held here Saturday afternoon in conjunction with the fourteenth annual Maryland Honey Sweetstakes, which resulted in two Cumberlanders winning top honors.

Approximately 50 representatives, including visitors from West Virginia and Pennsylvania, attended the meeting in the showroom of the St. George Motor Company, South George Street. Winners in the honey contest were:

John H. Lindner and his son, John V. Lindner, both of Shade's Lane, first and second prize, respectively; L. B. Shearman, Jr., and his father, L. B. Shearman, Sr., third and fourth, respectively.

Other awards went to Fern Wilson, this city; Walter Rheinheimer, Baltimore; F. D. Covell, Frederick; Edward O'Donnell, Cumberland; G. W. Marshall, Baldwin; W. C. Long and W. R. Schumann, Baltimore, and James Lindner, this city. Judges were James M. Marsh, Hyattsville, retired government employe, and George J. Abrams, state apiarist at the University of Maryland, College Park.

Speakers included Harold L. Kelley, Silver Spring, president, who reviewed activities of the association last year; B. A. Chandler, Washington, chairman of the bee forage improvement committee, who discussed the pollinating benefit of bees to clover seed growers, and Abrams. The latter reported on "Communication Among Honey Bees".

Abrams said the association went on record as favoring Baltimore as the 1952 site for the National Beekeepers Convention. Plans were made to hold a "house-warming" during the early spring in the new agricultural building now being constructed on the University of Maryland campus. New officers are usually elected at the spring meeting in Towson.

Abrams said all six of the floral sources of honey in Maryland were represented among approximately 220 jars. They are tulip tree, basswood tree, sumac, lima bean, buckwheat and clover.

The forty-third annual meeting of the Maryland association will be held in Baltimore.

Heads Tyrone Group

A former Cumberland man has been named chairman of the Retail Service Committee of the Tyrone, Pa., Chamber of Commerce, it was announced last week.

Robert R. Gillim, manager of Cut Rate Shoe Store in Tyrone for the past 10 years, was born in Keyser, W. Va., and was educated in Cumberland. He is a veteran of World War II.

Gillim replaces Nathan Levine, who resigned, and is a member of the Tyrone Kiwanis Club, Boy Scout leader, and very active in church and civic work.

Henry Duke will attend a meeting of the National Association of Mutual Insurance Agents at the organization's national headquarters in Washington, D. C., January 21.

Group 4, Central Methodist Church, South George Street, will hold a rummage sale Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock.

The Automobile Dealers Association will meet today at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

News In Brief

Theodore A. Blunk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Blunk, 818 Buckingham Road, has been appointed to membership in the Press Club of the Mercersburg Academy. He has also been named a member of the staff of The Karux, prize-winning yearbook of the Mercersburg Academy.

Mineral Grand Jury To Ponder Eight Charges

Short Term Seems Likely In Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va. — Only seven cases are prepared for presentation to the January Mineral County Circuit Court grand jury at the present time, but it is likely there will be an eighth case when the jurors meet Tuesday morning in the re-decorated court room.

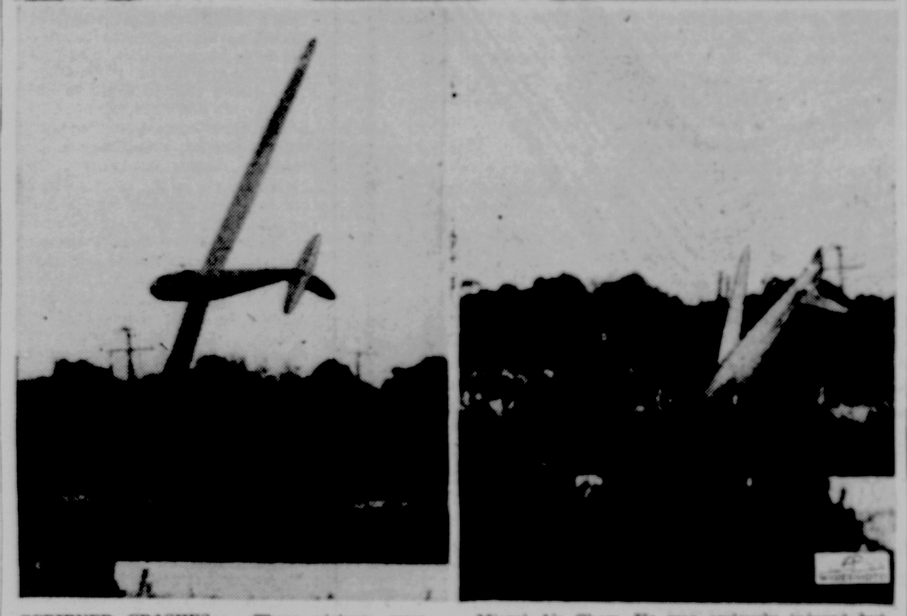
Don Hott has been working on the cases and said the term should be a short one, perhaps shorter than the October term. There are fewer cases for grand jury action.

On the civil side, there is the Daskal group of cases, four remaining for action before juries, one having been added to the civil docket since the last term. One of the Daskal cases has been tried, resulting in a $5,000 verdict being returned by the jury for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Daskal Heinisch, a daughter of Thomas Daskal, who was fatally injured when the car, in which they were riding, and a truck owned by the Schriver Company, of Cumberland, collided on the Knobley Mountain Road last June.

Mrs. Heinisch was hospitalized for a long time and received treatment since leaving the hospital. She had asked for $15,000 damages. The other cases remaining on the docket for hearing are: Mrs. Thomas Daskal, widow of the deceased man, $15,000; James Daskal, nephew, $15,000, and Genevieve Ann Daskal, daughter, $2,900. Another suit, filed last month by Mrs. Daskal, the widow, asks for payment of $2,500, financial loss of the car that was totally wrecked and hospital and doctor expenses and funeral costs.

Another case that went to trial at the last term with the jury returning a guilty verdict, was the case of James William Mason, charged wih a secong offense of driving a car while intoxicated. He claimed in his trial that past war services overseas caused him to black out, and claimed he was not drinking. The court was asked for a stay of execution of sentence in the case to give time to file on appeal to the West Virginia Supreme Court. The time granted will expire at this term of court. The case will automatically come up before the term is adjourned.

The case against Miss Ruth Iser Oates, brought as the result of nonpayment of insurance for loss of her home by fire, will again be brought up. It is understood that a new trial will be asked. If refused an appeal is expected to be taken to the Supreme Court.



SCRIBNER CRASHES — These pictures were taken at Miami, Fla., when Kim Scribner, native of Piedmont, W. Va., and well-known in the Tri-State area, was severely injured in a glider crash. In the upper picture Scribner, national sailplane champion, is shown hanging upside down from the crashed aircraft after an accident at the Miami Air Show. He was seriously injured but survived. The lower left picture shows the powerless craft which the ex-Piedmont man was flying upside down. The lower right picture was taken when its wing dropped, dug into ground and crashed. These photos were taken by the Miami Herald.

Speaker Boosts Community Business Support

Gruber Addresses Tri-Towns Lions

WESTERNPORT—J. D. Gruber, sales representative for McIntyre's Bakery here and in the Washington (Pa.) area, was the guest speaker at the recent dinner meeting of the Westernport and Luke Lions Club.

The theme of Gruber's talk was "Community Cooperation." He pointed out why people in the community should patronize their home industries and business places. How civic improvements could be obtained by the three towns here cooperating were also presented.

The club will hold a public "Hobo" dance at the home of Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, Wednesday, January 24, from 9 to 12 midnight. The music will be furnished by "Doc" Kenny's orchestra, of Mt. Savage.

Russell Keplinger and Harry Miller were received into the club as new members. Joseph Nelson, Heber Poland, James Dotson and Dwaine Stewart were appointed to make arrangements for a Ladies Night dinner to be held some time in March. Walter Woodson and Norman Baughman were selected to attend the meeting of the Boys Little Baseball League. The members of the club are collecting clothes for a needy family.

George M. Boyles and Alexander Hawkins, member of the Bruce High School faculty, were guests at the dinner.

PE VETERAN — Olin L. Savage, 102 West Loo Street, Frostburg, this month completed 25 years of service with the Potomac Edison Company. First joining the company in 1926 as a member of the Frostburg PE Line Department, Savage was named chief clerk for the utility company in 1932. Four years later he was promoted to the post of assistant district manager, the office he now holds.

Staggers To Direct Piedmont Campaign

WESTERNPORT—Louis A. Patkin, Westernport attorney, is chairman again this year for the March of Dimes for Westernport, Luke and McCole, which will open Tuesday, January 16.

Meanwhile, in Piedmont, W. Va., Vernon A. Staggers, Piedmont High School principal, and Postmaster Patrick J. Healy will be in charge of the March of Dimes fund raising. The campaign there begins today, with solicitations in theatres and places of business. They are stressing that last year 33,334 persons were stricken with polio.

Mrs. May Adams will be chairman of the Westernport section with J. Carr Getty as vice-chairman. At McCoole, Fred Sheeley, principal of the McCoole School, will be in charge and William G. Patkin, principal of the Luke School and father of Chairman Patkin, will head the campaign at Luke.

Miss Nellie Dowling, principal of the Hammond Street School will be in charge of solicitations there with John E. Grindle in charge at Bruce High School. Paul J. Welsh will direct solicitation of contributions at St. Peter's Parochial School and also at the Welsh Theatre.

Wayne Ritchie and Edmund Getty will have charge of the campaign at the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Patkin will call upon P. J. O'Brien, Luke, who for many years directed the drive in the Westernport area, to act in an advisory capacity this year.

The annual dance at Jake's Place will be held the latter part of this month. The committee sponsoring the dance includes Patkin, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. John Thomas, Mrs. Flo Clower and Mrs. Virgil Raines.

The national goal this year will be $50,000,000, the foundation epidemic fund having been wiped out entirely fighting infantile paralysis in 1950.

"This drive concerns all Americans as the fight against polio is everybody's fight. It is only because people everywhere have been willing to help their friends and neighbors when polio strikes that no victim stands alone," Patkin said.

BEDFORD, Pa. — County-wide meetings for Bedford county farmers during the coming weeks will start January 24 when fruit growers will hold sessions in the Court House, to get 1951 recommendations for spraying and general cultural practices, according to information from the Agricultural Extension Association.

February 1 is Dairy and Crops Day. The large Sunday School Auditorium of the Lutheran Church will be used for this event.

Poultry Day sessions are scheduled for February 8, with the place still to be arranged and the Annual Extension Association meeting will be held February 15, at the Methodist Church and the Fort Bedford Inn.

Piedmont School Gets New Bleachers

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—New collapsible bleachers, which will hike seating capacity by 300, have been installed in the Piedmont High School auditorium.

For commencements, plays and public meetings, 1,800 persons may now be seated. Principal Vernon A. Staggers hopes that larger crowds now will attend the Piedmont basketball games.

Corriganville PTA To Meet Thursday

CORRIGANVILLE—Mrs. Virginia Plummer's room will present a dramatization of the book, "Bartholomew and the Oobleck," at the meeting of the Corriganville PTA at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the school.

Misses J. Bestwick and D. McCollum, Allegany county music teachers, will render musical selections.

West Virginia Civil Defense Progressing

KEYSER, W. Va.—Major Edgar M. Sites, deputy director of the West Virginia Civil Defense setup, told members of the Mineral County Civil Defense unit Friday night, that the organizational work in the counties of West Virginia is progressing nicely although in five counties, nothing has been done.

In the other 50 counties, work is being done and in some, the progress has been remarkable. He said that following the 40-inch snow fall in Monongalia county a few weeks ago, the Civil Defense unit there did a very good job in that emergency, and added that the unit in Ohio county is moving along nicely, due to the financial help given by both the County Commissioners and the Wheeling council.

Navy Recruiter Sets Keyser Record

KEYSER, W. Va. — Chief Teddy M. Beckham, recruiter in charge of the U. S. Naval Recruiting Station in Keyser, has set a new record for the Keyser office.

In eight days, ending January 11, he received 45 applications for enlistment and eleven have been admitted in that period. That is the best that has ever been accomplished at the Keyser office since it was opened in 1947.

Taxing Until It Hurts

"Present conditions are such now, however, that it is necessary to tax until it hurts." That is what President Truman said in a letter to Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. Senator Byrd has been saying for years that the Administration's profligate spending policy would result in disaster. No doubt he was surprised when he opened the letter from the White House and discovered that it threatened taxes, not mayhem.

Sharp disagreement is already developing over where to take the next tax bite. Those hit squarely by any new tax on top of present rates are sure to feel they are being discriminated against.

"Hurt"is a word of more than one meaning. In "Hurt" is a word of more than one meaning. In to give pain rather than to injure. With the federal government's current tax take more than $45,000,000,000 annually, there is no way of taxing painlessly.

The American people will be forced to pay higher taxes, but no one can make them seem palatable. So the real problem for Congress is to devise taxes that will not do injury—by disrupting the economy, unduly inhibiting enterprise, discouraging hard work, or damaging public morale.

If such methods of taxation can be found, they will still hurt. But higher taxes may avert injury from zooming national debt.

But what kind of tax would meet present needs best? There is growing sentiment in favor of a federal sales tax. A sales tax in normal times is "recessive"—it causes reduced buying and starts a cycle where lowered production follows, income drops, buying is further reduced, and so on ad infinitum.

Most objections to a sales tax now are likely to come from those who fear it will be hard to get rid of in the future. The history of other "temporary" taxes indicates that such fears are not unwarranted. Nor will income taxes and other levies, if boosted still higher, be reduced in the future. The government will always be able to find ways of spending—or giving away—the money.

New Job For Hutchins

A noted university career ended when Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago, accepted appointment as associate director of the Ford Fouadation. While there are many notable college presidents today, few have been as much in the public eye as Hutchins, who for 21 years was first the president and then the chancellor at Chicago.

His most spectacular achievement was the abolition of intercollegiate football for the university. While Chicago had not shone in this sport for a number of years before giving up the game, it had previously had some extremely successful seasons, especially when Alonzo A. Stagg coached the team. A college president takes his job in his hands when he attacks the vested interest of intercollegiate football. Hutchins dared to do so, and survived the outraged complaints of the alumni.

Another innovation was the Great Books discussion group, in which citizens of many communities under local leaders simultaneously studied famous books, from ancient times to the present, which have influenced the world. This gave many their first detailed acquaintance with Plato, Aristotle, St. Thomas Aquinas, John Locke and many other thinkers.

The core of Hutchins' policy was his belief that a university's chief purpose is to advance learning. He believed that many American institutions going by the name of university were really only super-high schools catering to alumni without special knowledge of higher education or interest in it. Chicago was not founded to be one more such when it began its existence under President William R. Harper. Hutchins, following in Harper's path, compelled other university heads to meet his challenge to the existing order.

His fertile brain has now a new field for usefulness. The new undertakings of the Ford Foundation will be largely pioneer work. Hutchins seems just the man for such a post.

Sinclair Lewis

Sinclair Lewis, who died in Rome, was one of the greatest American novelists, how great will be for the future to determine, of course. His name meant little to the younger generation because his output in in the last two decades lacked the popularity of the four volumes—"Main Street," "Arrowsmith," "Elmer Gantry" and "Dodsworth"—by which his reputation was established.

"Main Street" took the country by storm in 1920. It is a satirical work on small towns in novel form, and everyone in the small towns of the nation read it and compared characters in it to acquaintances.

Lewis received the Nobel Prize for literature in 1930 and several years previously had turned down a Pulitizer Prize award, with the tongue-in-cheek comment that others were more deserving of it.

If in recent years Lewis' work was not up to his former standard, the fault was not so much the author's as it was the public's, which fancied new styles in literature. Lewis could have continued turning out new "Main Streets" until the end, but he failed to find a new theme that would be accepted spontaneously by the reading public.

Few people know that Lewis wrote six novels prior to "Main Street," none of which sold more than a few thousand copies, the first of which was published in 1914. The title was "Our Mr. Wrenn." Some critics compared his recent work to those first efforts, and attributed greater reader acceptance solely to his established reputation.

Start Of Crime

Police of Brisbane, Australia, preparing a case against a crook who had fallen into their hands, compiled a detailed list of his crimes, which were many. There were juvenile deliquencies, too, and the record showed that the first brush with authorities was in grammar school, from which he was expelled for smoking.

There are some meaty questions here for the sociologists. Were his feet planted on the road to crime in this first childhood experience of wrong-doing and punishment? If so, was the germ of his criminal career to be found in his violation of a school rule, or in the cutting of his normal education?

Such questions can be answered only by detailed study of the individual. But they must be raised whenever it is supposed that anyone, especially a youngster, has become an incorrigible wrongdoer.

Citizens who expressed doubt early in November that this would be much of a winter now regret their brasnness.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Beating Cold Weather

MY neighbor to the left, Mr. Collins, missed one of his favorite football games because the temperature was 18 degrees above and a fierce northwest wind was blowing thru the stadium. Later he found that his friends, including myself, had survived by wearing all the clothing that could be put on and still breathe and move. This prompted him to ask for a discussion on the psychological effects of exposure to cold, especially when immobilized.

It is well known that man was built to live in a warm climate and the Garden of Eden must have been a pleasant spot. But necessity is the mother of invention and with the aid of warm clothing and proper shelter our ancestors soon learned they could beat the cold even in arctic regions.

• — • — •

Despite centuries of exposure, however, the body still finds it difficult to acclimate itself to freezing temperatures. Most of us can fairly tolerate low degrees without injury to health but the extremities are always vulnerable. Unless they are protected chilblains or frostbite may ensue. How much cold we can tolerate depends to a great extent upon exercise and the degree of insulation obtained from clothing. Shivering is a natural response to cold and represents a form of exercise. These movements increase metabolism and generate heat thru friction.

But even though we tremble and shake and wear the warmest type of clothing, the body succumbs to the cold ultimately if we do not keep moving. At 10 degrees F., for example, the endurance of an inactive person is reduced to less than six hours; at 10 degrees below zero, to about four hours; at 40 below, to one and one-half hours; and at 70 below, to 25 minutes. With physical activity, these limits are extended markedly. The football spectator rarely is confronted with such bitter weather. Furthermore, his exertion depends upon the game. When the home team is ahead, the old grad is likely to jump up and down, wave his arms, and slap his friends on the back. The loser is quiet, glum, and cold.

My neighbor also asked why the football spectator feels dopey for several hours after arriving home. He blamed lack of circulation to some internal organ such as the liver or spleen. That is not necessarily true because several factors produce fatigue. Rewarming, for example, is likely to be overdone and many individuals, on returning home, take a hot foot bath or sit on a radiator or in front of a fire place. This leads to overheating, which is associated with a feeling of exhaustion and sleepiness for several hours thereafter. Cold itself has an exhausting effect on the system. It takes a lot of energy to keep warm—energy that should be utilized for productive work. Moreover, with prolonged exposure the brain becomes numbed. This is one of the reasons why the person who is lost in a blizzard develops an overpowering deside to sleep. When found, he is curled up in the snow, usually frozen to death.

The best ways to stay warm are to keep moving, wear adequate clothing and eat properly. Our food intake is comparable to the coal we burn in a furnace. The more calories it can produce the more energy is derived therefrom. Many women would not feel nearly so uncomfortable on blustery January mornings if they ate more for breakfast than a roll and cup of coffee. It is here that calories really count. Fats are richest in this respect and, pound for pound, they manufacture twice as much heat as do sugar and proteins. It is no wonder the Eskimo consumes large amounts of blubber.

TOMORROW: Wringer injuries to the hands of children.

ENLARGING THRYOID

Mrs. N. writes: Could the menopause cause a slight swelling of the thyroid.

REPLY

This occurs now and then because in the change of life all the endocrine glands are undergoing changes. May I suggest that you visit your family physician to determine whether the enlargement represents a simple swelling or a more serious disturbance.

WHISTLING AIR

K. P. writes: Could whistling cause gas on the stomach? You said that swallowing air is a cause of flatulence and since I whistle a lot, I must swallow air.

REPLY

The whistling air comes from the lungs. In this respect it is somewhat similar to the air that sets the vocal cords into vibration when we talk.

BEVERAGES

M. B. writes: Can a person with high blood pressure safely drink tea and coffee?

REPLY

Yes, in moderation, provided they do not increase nervousness or cause insomnia.

PULSATION

G. C. B. writes: What causes a vein under the eye to beat visibly?

REPLY

Examination would be required to determine the significance of this pulsation. It may be an artery or a muscle contraction such as occurs with a tic.

McCarthy Is Unwitting Dupe For German Communists; Wisconsin Senator Helps Spread Anti-American Resentment In Germany.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There is no part of the world where the United States has battled harder to prevent communism than in Germany, whose military-minded people and vast iron and steel resources can turn war into victory or defeat for Atlantic Pact nations.

Yet the biggest propaganda boost for communism and against the U. S. A. ever given the German people came from the man who sets himself up as the greatest enemy of communism — Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin.

Supporting this grave statement is evidence locked in the secret files of the Senate Armed Services Committee, evidence which a sub-committee went all the way to Germany to collect.

It shows that McCarthy allowed himself to become the mouthpiece of a German Communist agent — probably without realizing it. It shows that McCarthy charged the U. S. Army with torturing German prisoners in order to extract confessions. And finally it shows that McCarthy's speeches, made on the floor of the U. S. Senate, were later broadcast all over Germany in order to promote communism and inflame the German people against the U. S. A.

McCarthy's ill-advised propaganda speeches were in defense of the 12 Nazi SS men who lined up 80 unarmed American war prisoners and shot them in the Malmedy massacre during the Battle of the Bulge.

Nazis Go Unpunished

Of various atrocities committed during the war, this was by all odds the worst. It was more cold-blooded than any committed by the Japanese. Later the SS men who murdered the defenseless American prisoners were caught, tried, and 12 were found guilty. However, they have never been hanged and here is the reason.

After they were condemned to death, a German agent named Rudolf Aschenauer sent faked-up charged to Frederic Libby of the National Council for the Prevention of War, that U. S. Army prosecutors had tortured the Nazi SS men to obtain confessions.

Libby, not realizing he was being used, passed this on to McCarthy. He even passed it on in the same large brown envelopes he received from Munich, with Rudolf Aschenauer's name attached.

A high American intelligence officer later gave the Senate Armed Services Committee information linking Aschenauer with the Communist agitators who are trying to stir up German resentment against the U. S. A. Aschenauer, according to U. S. intelligence, was secretly affiliated with a Communist spy ring whose purpose was to keep the German people on Moscow's side.

Its job was to plant this dynamite-laden propaganda on McCarthy and then cable his inflammatory speeches back to Germany. There they were headlined in the press.

"I have seen documentary evidence that the (German war criminals) were subject to beatings and physical violence in such forms as could only be devised by warped minds," McCarthy stormed. "They were subjected to sham trials, to mock hangings; and families were deprived of rations—all of which the prosecution justified as being necessary to create the right psychological atmosphere in which to obtain confessions.

"It is an unquestioned fact," McCarthy shouted, "that an innocent man will scream just as loudly as a guilty man when being tortured, and, likewise, an innocent man will sign a confession just as quickly as a guilty man when being tortured."

Naturally this made headlines in Germany. Naturally these grave charges coming fro ma U. S. senator, were believed. And they turned thousands of Germans against the United States. Meanwhile, American taxpayers have been paying one billion dollars a year to feed the German people and keep them with us.

Republicans Investigate

McCarthy's charges were taken so seriously by Germans that to this day the army has not been able to execute the - convicted Nazi SS men. To hang them would cause extreme public reaction, possibly riots.

However, when the Senate subcommittee appointed to investigated his charges began to uncover the truth, McCarthy lashed out at his own colleagues. The subcommittee was controlled by Republicans and chairmanned by conscientious Sen. Ray Baldwin of Connecticut. Despite this, McCarthy raged: "This subcommittee not only has no desire to obtain the truth but is conducting a deliberate attempt to avoid the facts and effect a whitewash of the army officers involved."

During the committee hearings, McCarthy personally grilled U. S. Army officers, even demanding that they submit to lie-dector tests. This they agreed to do. However, McCarthy was not willing to have the German war criminals submit to the same lie detectors.

Senate Rebuffs McCarthy

And as his own GOP colleagues on the Senate committee dug deeper into the facts and got closer to exposing McCarthy, the Senator from Wisconsin staged a Vishinsky act and walked out of the hearings.

Nevertheless the Senate committee rebuffed its own colleague with an official report which came close to pinning the Communist label on McCarthy's sources.

"Through competent testimony submitted to the subcommittee," the report read, "it appeared that there are strong reasons to believe that groups within Germany are endeavoring....to discredit the American occupation forces in general. The subcommittee is convinced that there is an organized effort being made to revive the nationalistic spirit in Germany through every possible means. There is evidence that at least part of this effort is attempting to establish a close liaison with Communist Russia.

"Due to the manner in which the allegations in this case were being handled (by McCarthy) it was clear that no matter what the facts were in the case, in the minds of practically all Germans, the allegations were accepted as fact. This was certain to damage the American position in Germany....everything done to weaken the prestige of the United States and our occupation policies will play an important part in any emergency."

When McCarthy's wild charges were finally sifted down, the one billion dollars a year we spend in Germany was partly nullified, the Communist hand was strengthened, and the guilty SS men who shot 80 unarmed Americans in cold blood on a snowy day during the Battle of the Bulge still remained unpunished.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Value Of Tito

WASHINGTON

The problem of Yugoslavia sums up and represents all the immense range of problems, all involving peace, war and national survival, with which the American policy makers are now wrestling.

Here is a small, remote and rather backward country, ruled in a manner intensely distasteful to the American people, by men who not long ago were professed enemies of America. The national leader, Marshal Tito, expects an attack on Yugoslavia in the spring by the Soviet Union and/or its Hungarian, Rumanian and Bulgarian satellites. He may be right. He may be wrong. But at least his sincerity is proved by the fearful sacrifices he is making to the cause of preparedness, and he has at least had better opportunities to learn the ways of the Kremlin than almost anyone else.

The question therefore arises: "What do we do if Tito is right, and Yugoslavia is attacked in the spring?" The surface facts all point one way. There is nothing in the Yugoslav system that Americans feel bound to defend. Yugoslavia is not an ally. Our own rearmament is incomplete. The rearmament of our allies in Europe has hardly been begun. All these are weighty arguments for standing passively aside, while the Yugoslav nation is crushed by the weight of Soviet power. Beneath the surface, however, there is a whole new series of arguments, even more weighty, pointing in the opposite direction.

Points To Consider

First, the most important military force on the other side of the Atlantic today is the concentration at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, comprising the 30 Yugoslav divisions, the Turkish army of nearly 30 divisions, and the revivified army of Greece. These are troops whose fighting qualities are proven. Taken together, they actually constitute a larger force than any that can conceivably be organized in Western Europe before at least two years have elapsed. If the Yugoslav divisions are destroyed, the fate of Greece will be sealed; and Turkey, even if not invaded, will be wholly neutralized by the simple facts of geography.

Second, the Middle East is already a mush, politically and militarily. Particularly in Iran, the situation has deteriorated alarmingly in recent months. The capture of the Yugoslav position and the consequent neutralization of Turkey will expose the whole of the Middle East to the full force of Soviet pressure. The mere psychological impact of the unopposed conquest of Yugoslavia should be enough to induce a collapse or surrender in Iran, which will lead to other surrenders or political explosions in the other Middle Eastern countries. In short, all this vital area, with its immense strategic importance and its oil resources on which the economy of the whole Western alliance so directly depends, will soon be involved in Yugoslavia's fate.

Third, even these immediately forseeable consequences of the conquest of Yugoslavia will vastly reduce the usefulness of our most important strategic air bases—the advanced bases in Cyrenaica, Cyprus, and elsewhere in the eastern Mediterranean, from which the more remote Soviet targets beyond the Urals must be struck.

Could Lose Mediterranean

Fourth, it is also very probable that a Soviet triumph in Yugoslavia will have explosive political effects in France and Italy. If Yugoslavia falls, although we may hope for a different outcome, we must expect that so-called "neutraliste" regimes will soon be installed at Paris and Rome.

Fifth, a "neutraliste" government at Paris, committed to disarmament, with Communists in key posts, seeking to play a "third force" role, will certainly deny us French North Africa. Almost equally certainly, a similar government in Rome will at least allow the Soviets staging rights in the south Italian airfields. In this event, the whole Mediterranean will be lost to us. Meanwhile, the German problem will become utterly unmanageable, and the Western alliance will be fatally and finally ruptured.

It is hardly necessary to pursue any further the course of this fearful chain reaction, which we must anticipate if Yugoslavia is overrun and crushed without protest from the Western allies. The foregoing summary is not a private nightmare. It is a compressed statement of the best judgment of the men most qualified to form an opinion. It is quite enough to show that the consequences of losing Yugoslavia can quite easily add up to the equivalent of final defeat in a general war.

In other words, the Western alliance would be so hopelessly shattered, and so many vital strategic positions would be lost to us and gained by the Kremlin, that our own position would become irretrievable. And this is the right background against which the question must again be asked: "What do we do if Yugoslavia is attacked this spring?"

Factors That May Affect Decisions Are Discussed

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 14—I have been interested in a recent correspondence between President Truman and Representative Hebert, a Democrat of Louisiana, who wrote the President asking that a certain day be appointed for national prayer. He distinctly asked that God should "endow officials with the wisdom and courage to make the right decisions." The request was well worded as too many of us are not content to ask God to help us make the right decisions; but before praying we make the decisions for ourselves and ask God to see that they are carried out! It, however, is always sound to pray for wisdom and courage. If we would have such a prayer constantly on our mind in a spirit of thankfulness for such blessings as we have; without asking for definite things—we all might be much better off.

What Prayers Are Answered

Although President Truman's reply did not satisfy Mr. Herbert, yet the President's retort was very sound. It looks as if he were a better Bible student than Mr. Hebert as his reply was based on the Bible promises that "The prayers of the righteous availeth much." This means that in order to have our prayers answered, we must live a life that Jesus would approve; with kindness, unselfishness, and integrity. Jesus commanded that before we go to the altar to make our sacrifices and ask for blessings, we should first go to those whom we have wronged by act or word and secure their forgiveness, making restitution if possible. President Truman wisely hinted that this applies to most political leaders and to a large group of voters. We cannot expect an answer to our prayers while playing politics or talking unjustly about officials. Furthermore, these who have been too lazy or indifferent to vote, have a poor case when praying for better government. I, therefore, am 100 per cent for President Truman in his reply to this and similar requests.

Although the above discussion has ended, it has brought up a most interesting fact which the President and all others in authority must some day recognize. I have in mind how decisions of presidents, senators, congressmen, and other federal, state, and city officials are affected by other factors. We all know that our own decisions are definitely affected by our health and home relations, especially what we did the night before! Health and habit have been responsible for the enactment of much bad legislation, the rendering of unjust court decisions, resulting even in sending innocent men to prison or perhaps to the gallows. But let me this week discuss other causes in which Washington is getting interested. I even found the Weather Bureau looking up conditions on the day the President, through the United Nations, directed our troops to hold in Korea. Based on the conditions of that day, I believe his decision was sound, even though we may later pull out all our troops. It was worth all that it has cost to "smoke out" the Russians and awaken our people. It would be a wonderful way to start off the New Year and the 82nd Congress.

Temperature And Humidity

Looking back over my life it is very evident that the two simple words "Yes" and "No" are of tremendous importance. My successes were due to saying "Yes" when I should say "Yes," or "No" when I should say "No;" while my failures have been due to saying "Yes" when I should have said "No," or "No" when I should not have said "No." Of course, I also needed the courage to stick to the right decision! But what determined these decisions of mine, in addition to the power of prayer, is whether I was leading a life to be classified as "righteous."

The weather at the time of these decisions has definitely influenced me. A hot and humid day will contribute to the wrong decision (even in an air-conditioned room); while a clear, dry day with a west wind will help me make a wise decision. But there must not be a strong enough wind to distract me. The reading of the barometer is also a factor, as we should make decisions only on the rising barometer. We should avoid making decisions when tired, ill or hurried. It is too bad that the officials and congressmen here in Washington, upon whose decisions the nation's future depends, must live in such a hurry-

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Twist

ONE OF the most important facts established in the Harry Gold case was that the Amtorg Trading Company was the center of Soviet espionage in this country. That has often appeared in testimony before Congressional committees during the past decade and has generally been ignored by our government.

Now, to return to Gold, the spy. From his testimony it appears that he had become acquainted with a chemist whose name is Mr. Black. I do not find a first name and Black was not called as a witness, so maybe he is dead or something.

Whatever became of Black, he was a Communist and he wanted Gold to be a member of the Communist Party. Gold had no wish to be a Communist. He was willing to be a spy but not a Communist. He apparently felt that it was immoral and indecent to be a Communist but not to be a spy. In this curious amoral world in which we live in a spiraling paganism, treason seems to a man not to be a crime.

This testimony is pertinent:

"The witness (Gold): The first (reason) was a debt of gratitude to Black because of the fact that he had gotten me a job in the worst years of the depression, the worst months of the depression, in February of 1933, just before the bank holiday. We were a family with a fierce sort of pride and we would have hated to go on relief—Black saved us from that. The second reason in addition to the one of a genuine desire to help the people of the Soviet Union, the second reason was that I got Black off my neck about joining the Communist Party. I didn't want to. I didn't like them."

Now, figure that one. He is grateful to Black; he wants to help the people of the Soviet Union and he becomes a spy, stealing the military secrets of the American people, but he will not be a Communist. Why?

Read this:

"Q You did not like the Communist Party?

A No; I thought they were a lot of wacked-up Bohemians.

Q I beg your pardon, what did you say?

A I thought they were a lot of wacked-up Bohemians."

This is hard to follow no matter how you read it and I wonder how Judge Irving Kaufman or the jury could follow Gold's logic. In a word, he disliked American Communists, preferring the Russian brand.

This bit of evidence shows how Russia worked in America:

"Q You told us that you were not a member of the Communist Party. Is that correct?

A I never was a member of the Communist Party.

Q You mean you were not a dues-paying member?

A I was not a member. I never wanted to, and I never became one, and I was told by the first Soviet superior I ever had to stay away from them, never to read the Daily Worker, never to go near them —

Q In 1944 —

The Court: Are you finished with your answer?

The Witness: Not quite. I was told never to read the Daily Worker, never to read any even liberal literature or even express liberal thoughts.

Q Did you read liberal literature, Mr. Gold?

A Very, very occasionally when it was forced on me by someone.

Q Did you express liberal thoughts?

A Very rarely."

Now, when someone talks about a dues-paying, card-carrying Communist, he might think of the self confessed, convicted spy, Harry Gold, who was not a Communist but who worked for Soviet Russia against the United States.

There are many such men and women in this country, some of whom are jumping on the bandwagon now, fearful lest they be discovered. Many who today say that they are anti-Communist but who have a record of service in the interest of Soviet Russia, say since 1938, need to do more than suggest that they have changed their minds — particularly as it is now a Communist policy to go underground. Lots of Americans did worse things than Gold did. In magazines, on the radio, in universities, they corrupted the minds of our people. Now, they are denying but they are not renouncing their past. They are fooling no one.

Gold has displayed a pattern of work which was quite successful for a time.

Civic Symphony Begins Planned Expansion

In line with the expansion plan outlined recently by S. Lua Sykes, founder and conductor of the Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra, officers were elected last week and active committees appointed.

Committee chairmen are Lloyd Rawlings, ways and means; Harry Griggs, membership; Joe Feldstein, publicity; Eleanor Rice, social; A. Florian Wilson, program; soloists, Dorothy Wilson, and staging, S. Lua Sykes. Wilton Sykes is concertmaster.

Rehearsals are now held every Tuesday at 8 p. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Hall, Fayette street, and musicians interested in joining the orchestra may come to these rehearsals. Particularly wanted are string instrument players, French horn and oboe. Mr. Syckes will be glad to discuss membership with applicants. He explained that the Civic Symphony is in existence to enable high school musicians to continue ensemble playing and to advance the cause of instrumental music in Cumberland.

The next concert open to the public will be early in March at Allegany High School auditorium. Now a 40 piece ensemble, it is hoped to raise the membership to 60 during this season.

Are you a stickler for facts? Beware of being too literal-minded, if you want to keep your friends!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

IS there any greater bore to have around than the too literal-minded?

Such sticklers for detail can't tell you that they drove downtown without also telling you that they got into the car. It takes them ten or fifteen minutes to relate something that is not worth half the time. The listener gets so sidetracked by the welter of unessential facts that the point is lost.

Not only do the long-winded muddle their own conversation with picayune triviliaties, but that of others as well. They insist on master-minding what others say with interruptions of unimportant detail and inconsequential corrections.

Distracting Interruptions

"We left there about fifteen minutes ago," says the person telling the story.

"No dear, ten minutes," interrupts the self-appointed recorder of facts.

Of course, when you are following a recipe or testifying before a jury, you can't be too literal-minded. But in the average conversation, even a person who is otherwise attractive becomes a pill if he or she gets involved with minutiae instead of the sense and meaning of what is being discussed.

While a free and easy relating of fact is a social asset, it nevertheless gives no one license to wildly ignore actuality. A too-free play of imagination is as dangerous as driving through traffic with no regard for signals. Truth is something that can never be handled lightly.

Preferred People

If your initiative, sense of humor, imagination and regard for truth function normally, you'll never be thrown into a tizzy by omission or slight embellishment of unimportant trifles. If you can follow and give general directions as well as explicit ones, you needn't worry about having either a deficiency or an overabundance of literal-mindedness.

The pleasant person to be with is the one who keeps exaggeration and color in bounds—yet is never so literal-minded as to clutter conversation with irrelevant detail.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ritchey have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Ritchey, to Robert L. Maiers, son of Mr .and Mrs. E. J. Maiers, Ridgeley.

Importance Of Goal Stressed By Speaker

The importance of having a goal and working towards it were stressed by Miss Lillian Compton, president of State Teachers College, Frostburg, in speaking on "The Occupational Outlook for Young Men," at the meeting of the LaSalle Mothers Club, Monday night in the social center. She was introduced by Mrs. John Santelli, Program chairman.

Plans were completed at the business session for the public card party to be held at 8 o'clock, January 16 in the Knights of Columbus home. Mrs. Leo Darr presided and Mrs. John Brinker is party chairman.

Mrs. DeSales Glick accompanied the group singing, after which the Sophomore mothers were hostesses and served refreshments. Approximately 55 attended.

Marriages

Beckmeyer-Mousette

The marriage of Miss Lucille Anita Mousette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donat Mousette, Lewiston, Me., to Richard Baxter Beckmeyer, son of Theodore Beckmeyer, 765 Maryland Avenue, and the late Mrs. Beckmeyer, has been announced. The ceremony was performed November 23 in the Naval Communications Chapel, Washington by Rev. John Ecker. Miss Marguerite Belleau, Lewiston and Charles A. Marton, Philadelphia, were the attendants.

An ensign in the Naval Reserve, the bride is a graduate of Edward Little High School, Lewiston, Bates College and Auburn, Me., School of Commerce.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Allegany High School and former employe of the Celanese, served as a chief petty officer in World War II. Both he and his bride are employed as research analysists for the Department of Defense, and are members of the N. O. R.

Slykhuis Irked, Leaves For Home

AAU Refuses Dutch Runner More Money

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—Willy Slykhuis, Europe's 1,500 meter running champion, left for his Holland home today, expressing indignation at the treatment he said was accorded him by the AAU.

The Dutch track star said he would never run in the United States under financial arrangements proposed by Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the U. S. amateur body.

He said his request for hotel room expenses and $10 a day extra had been turned down by the AAU and that he couldn't stay in this country and compete for less.

Ferris said he had offered Slykhuis the "normal" allowance given all visiting athletes—$8.50 a day, to take care of both hotel and meals, and $2 for incidental expenses.

WIN OR ELSE?—These six coaches of top-flight college teams are out of jobs, either forced out because of losing teams or retiring because of the pressure. Another coach, Lynn Waldorf of California, is deeply concerned over the future of the coaching profession because, he says, coaching is imperiled by the "win or else" edict. "In all my years in the game," said Waldorf recently, "I have never seen a year when such fine men as Cherry of Texas, Fesler of Ohio State, Bierman of Minnesota, Myers of Boston College, Schwartz of Stanford and Cravath of Southern California have quit our profession." Fesler, Cherry and Schwartz are planning to go into business. (International)

The top girls' basketball teams in the South Branch Valley are scheduled to clash in Franklin on Tuesday, Jan. 23 when Franklin plays host to Petersburg.

Petersburg, coached by Clem Clower, has won six consecutive games and has averaged 48 points per game while holding the opposition to an average of 27. The Vikings sextet has defeated Wardensville and Mathias each twice, Circleville and Romney.

Each year this game usually decides the unofficial girls' champions of the area. Last year Franklin won. Petersburg was the 1949 winner.

A newcomer has stepped into the baseball picture for the 1951 season.

He's Harry McGowan, president of the Westvaco Club of the Bi-State League. It's the custom for the president of the C.I.O. Local at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company to head the ball team. McGowan succeeds Wayne Ritchie.

The new prexy attended the league meeting here last week.

During the dedication ceremonies at the Baseball Hall of Fame, Cooperstown, N. Y., last year a youngster in his teens approached "Cy" Young, the one-time pitching great and asked:

"What was your favorite pitch when you had the bases full?"

Young never batted an eye.

"Son," he replied, "I just don't seem to remember ever having the bases full."

New Englander Wins U. S. Duckpin Classic

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 14 (AP)—Andy Friar, Fall River, Mass., alley operator forgot his aches and pains long enough early today to capture the 21st United States Duck Pin Bowling Classic. Friar's 15-game total of 1,981 rewarded him with $1,000 top prize and a diamond medal.

Bill Brozey of Baltimore, ranked No. 1 by the National Duck Pin Bowling Congress, was runnerup with 1978, closely followed by Bill King of Washington, 1972 and Herman Ferri of New Haven, 1971.

This quartet staged a thrilling finish in this rich classic which attracted a near record entry list of 129 of the nation's leading small pinners.

Friar, who complained of sore fingers and a stiff back, rolled steadily.

England has more than 60,000 lakes.

Four Unbeaten Major College Teams Survive

Oklahoma's Aggies Top List With 15-0, Long Island Is 2nd

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—College basketball waded out of the most tumultuous week of the season today, clinging to a couple of big question marks.

They were:

1. Who's going to grab off the No. 1 ranking now that Bradley has been so convincingly chopped down by St. John's of Brooklyn?

2. How long will it be until there's not a single perfect record left among major teams?

Bradley's 68-59 setback at the hands of a sharp St. John's team was the major development of the topsy-turvy last seven days. But seven other teams had unbeaten records snapped, leaving only four in the unspoiled class.

Four In Unspoiled Class

The thin unbeaten list today includes Oklahoma A. and M. (15-0), Long Island University (11-0), Columbia (10-0) and St. Bonaventure (9-0).

The Oklahoma Aggies and LIU Blackbirds are among the country's top ranking quintets and are in the thick of the wide open fight for No. 1 place in this week's Associated Press poll.

Kentucky, beaten only by St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl, and Bradley, with an impressive 16-1 record, still are leading contenders for national honors.

Casualties in the unbeaten ranks, besides Bradley, last week included Murray (Ky) State, beaten twice, Hamline, Washington, Princeton, Washington & Jefferson, Wyoming and Duquesne.

The four teams that survived this general upheaval among the mighty might do well to readjust their safety belts because the storm that looms ahead this week looks anything but comforting.

St. Louis Plays Aggies

The precision-playing Aggies, who now have the season's longest winning streak at 15 games, play host Wednesday to the St. Louis Billikens, fifth ranked nationally and conquerors of Kentucky.

The Billikens won their 12th game in 15 starts Saturday by humbling Detroit, 58-52. The Aggies, ranked second behind Bradley in the last standings, barely edged out Drake, 72-70. It was the second close squeak for the week for the Aggies, who barely beat Tulsa, 40-38.

Long Island University, meanwhile, gets perhaps its severest test to date when it plays Duquesne Tuesday at Madison Square Garden. The Dukes have an 11-1 record, their only defeat an 86-74 loss to Cincinnati last Monday.

The Blackbirds established themselves as one of the nation's real powers by humbling St. Louis, 74-62, in a Tuesday game at the Garden. They have one of the sport's most potent weapons in big, agile Sherman White.

Columbia, with a 19-game winning streak carried over from last year, will play two Ivy League games—Penn Wednesday and Dartmouth Saturday. Penn, unbeaten in the league, is capable of snipping the string of the eighth-ranked Lions, 90-48 conquerors of Yale last night.

St. Bonaventure's big test also comes Wednesday against Niagara, a team that is given to extremely low and high performances.

Third-ranked Kentucky, bounding back strong from its only setback, will play Notre Dame tomorrow and Tennessee Saturday. The Wildcats rolled over Alabama last night, 65-48, for their tenth victory.

Indiana, sixth in the national list, will play Illinois tomorrow in the game that may lead to the Big Ten championship. The Hoosiers have a 9-1 overall record but, like Illinois, are undefeated in the conference. Indiana trimmed Michigan State, 47-37, while Illinois rolled over Michigan, 68-47.

North Carolina State, which lost to Villanova 66-64 for its second reversal in 17 games, will go against Wake Forest Tuesday and LaSalle Saturday. N. C. State is No. 7 in the rankings.

The ninth-placed team, Kansas State, has a major encounter tomorrow against its old rival, Kansas. The K-Staters won their 11th victory against two defeats by beating Iowa State, 98-58.

Wyoming's Cowboys, No. 10, play Utah tomorrow and have a double date with Brigham Young Friday and Saturday. Wyoming raised its record to 14-1 by beating Colorado A. and M., 77-58.

After ten straight victories, Washington bowed last night to Oregon State, 46-41.

Here's how the other unbeaten teams got their comeuppance during the week:

Wyoming—lost to Brigham Young, 61-57.

Murray State — lost to Eastern Kentucky, 60-59, and Western Kentucky, 65-56.

Hamline—lost to Phillips, 64-61.

Princeton—lost to Columbia, 53-52.

Washington & Jefferson—lost to Waynesburg, 73-65.

One of the longest winning streaks in the non-major class came to an end when Seattle's 17-game skein was broken by Gonzaga Friday, 72-71. Seattle came back to win last night, 77-71.

The native-born residents of Guam, in the Marianas, although American citizens, are not entitled to trial by jury.

Harold Bradley's Duke Cagers Are Surprise Quint

Blue Devils Have Won Ten Under New Mentor

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 14 (AP) — The Southern Conference had to take its hat off today to Harold Bradley, Duke University's new basketball mentor.

The reason was obvious. Bradley arrived on the Duke campus a few days before the season opened. He called together a bunch of players he'd never seen before. And he has them winning.

Duke's record today includes 10 victories and five defeats. Some of the wins have been close ones, but they say that's the kind a team has to win to be a champion.

Of course, Bradley has one advantage. The guy is used to winning. He coached at Hartwick College at Oneonta, N. Y. before Duke hired him. Bradley's team the last three years won 50 out of 68 games and played such clubs as Long Island University, Buffalo University, Muhlenberg, Massachusetts, Scranton and the powerful Quantico Marines.

Twice last week Duke demonstrated its ability to come out on top in close contests. Last night, the Dukes outscored West Virginia's Mountaineers, 77-73. It was the first conference loss for the Mountaineers. Earlier in the week, the Blue Devils edged South Carolina, 60-58.

Behind four points at halftime against West Virginia, Duke roared back in the second half. As usual, Dick Groat, regarded by some as the greatest cage star in Duke history, led his mates with 28 points.

The victory made Duke's conference record 5-1. It elevated the Blue Devils into third place behind front-running North Carolina State (7-0) and runnerup Maryland (4-0). Before the campaign ends, Duke very easily could be the team which does most to threaten the circuit cage supremacy of State, conference champion four straight years. In an early January meeting, Duke forced State into overtime before bowing.

After Duke's appearance tomorrow night at William and Mary, Bradley's boys call time out until January 27 for semester examinations.

Maryland, the league's biggest surprise to date, could find rough going this week. The Old Liners will run up against Virginia Tech's well balanced and high-scoring quintet tomorrow night at College Park, Md. They entertain North Carolina Saturday night.

State, undoubtedly smarting from last night's second setback of the year to Villanova, has a conference test Tuesday night at Wake Forest. State steps outside the loop again Saturday night, playing host to LaSalle.

Graham Is Voted Outstanding Player

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14 (AP) — Quarterback Otto Graham, who led the American Conference All-Stars to a 28-27 triumph over the National Division All-Stars today, was unanimously voted the "outstanding player" of the game by football writers covering the contest.

Graham who guided the Cleveland Browns to the National Football League championship over Los Angeles Dec. 24, turned from the air to the ground to score two important touchdowns. The second one tied the score and set the stage for the winning conversion.

The many friends of Walter E. Whitfield will be sorry to hear of the veteran gunner's death on Saturday afternoon at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

Mr. Whitfield, 69, was a retired engineer of the Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroad, secretary of the Upper Potomac Rod and Gun and was a prominent trapshooter for the past 25 years.

In recent years Mr. Whitfield participated in numerous registered trapshooting tournaments at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club.

That story out of Clarksburg the other day to the effect that Coach "Horse" Lough told the Kiwanis Club that Billy Gannon and Walt Devlin were "farmed out" to Potomac State's basketball team by George Washington University, is untrue, according to the Catamounts' mentor.

The item appeared in a paragraph of the story concerning the Potomac State-West Virginia U. freshman game.

Lough says what he told the Kiwanians was that "there were a couple of boys on our basketball team who were recommended to me by my old friend, Bill Reinhart, G. W. U. cage mentor."

"Reinhart recommended Potomac State, they came to Keyser, liked the looks of the school and enrolled here.

"There is no agreement or understanding of any kind that they will transfer into G. W. U. when they get through at Potomac State."

Lough added that West Virginia U. always got first call on any lads who were ready to transfer out of junior college to a degree-granting institution.

It is Potomac State School of West Virginia University and its first allegiance is to the Mountaineers.

Ken Murray of the Baltimore Bullets tossed in the longest field goal ever scored at the Baltimore Coliseum last week when the home team lost to Rochester, 80-78.

The former St. Bonaventure ace nabbed the ball off the Royals' backboard and when a glance at the clock revealed that time was just about to elapse, Murray lined a two-handed set shot from some 70 feet away. The ball hit the back of the hoop and dropped right through as 1,450 fans roared in disbelief but approved.

The longest field goal we've ever seen was credited to one of the Philadelphia Spas in a game here against the Dukes several years ago. That shot had eyes and didn't hit the board or rim.

A recheck of the Petersburg-Wardensville game on Friday shows that Petersburg won by the score of 78-57 and not 74-57.

Carroll Michael racked up 19 field goals and 7-7 fouls for 45 points which is the season's high in the 17-team circuit. Michael's league average is 24.8 points per game. He has 149 points in six PVC contests.

Carl Hartman of Ridgeley has registered 124 points in six games for Ridgeley High—an average of 20.7.

Watrous Is Winner Of Senior Golf Title

DUNEDIN, Fla., Jan. 14 (AP) — Al Watrous today won the playoff for the National Senior PGA golf championship, defeating Jock Hutchison by six strokes.

Watrous, who was no slouch of a player in his prime playing days, shot a 37-38—75 on the 6,425-yard par-72 PGA winter course here. He is the defending titlist and now plays out of Birmingham, Mich.

Hutchison, who is 68 and spotted his opponent 16 years, blew up on the final eight and came in with a 37-44—81.

Your Host Is Injured

Racing Career Ends, May Do Stud Duty

ARCADIA, Cal., Jan. 14 (INS) — It was certain today that the racing days of William Goetz' Your Host, greatest of the California-bred turf stars, are over.

The only question now is whether the four-year-old son of Alibhai can be saved for stud duty.

Veterinarians said they would not know for at least three weeks.

Your Host fell during yesterday's running of the $50,000 San Pasqual handicap at Santa Anita and broke his right foreleg.

The shaft of his elbow, or ulna, was shattered in four places.

There is little that veterinarians can do for the injury. Nature will have to do most of the healing.

As for the stakes winner's chances of recovery, Dr. H. J. Peters said:

"All depends on whether complications set in. If he had to break a leg it's a good thing it happened so high up near the shoulder. A lower break would have been more difficult to mend."

Another veterinarian, Dr. L. E. McGee, said that in a similar case in his experience it took the horse six months to regain his soundness.

It was a foregone conclusion that the injured horse would not be ready for stud duty before the end of the breeding season in May.

The accident happened on the back stretch as Jockey Eric Guerin began to move Your Host up. Pictures of the race showed that he had plenty of room until Renown veered over. Then Your Host tripped on Renown's heels and went down. Guerin escaped injury.

Your Host was the solid choice in the race. When he fell longshots went on to take the first three places. Moonrush won and Manyunk and Repeluz were second and third.

The spill stopped Your Host at the very peak of his career. He had a record of 10 stakes wins and earnings of $384,975.

He was in such excellent condition that Trainer Harry Daniels thought that he could both win the Santa Anita Maturity and be a solid contender for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

$18,000 Is Asked By Wife Of Oma

Also Wants Custody Of 2-Year-Old Son

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—Counsel for Mrs. Lee Oma said today she had started separation proceedings against her estranged fighter husband, asking $18,000 in cash and custody of the couple's two-year-old son, Lee Jr.

The lawyer, Bernard R. Lieberman said the suit was filed Thursday in Supreme Court here. He said it also asked $200 weekly alimony.

Lieberman said a writ of attachment was served yesterday on the heavyweight boxer, charging abandonment and non-support.

Oma suffered a technical knockout at the hands of heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles in a fight at Madison Square Garden Friday night. His share of the purse was $9,465.

Lieberman said Mrs. Oma is seeking $10,000 she supposedly spent to support herself and the child during 1950 and $8,000 from Oma's Friday night winnings. The latter sum is due her, the lawyer said, under an oral agreement the fighter made to share the purse from his first Garden fight.

Mrs. Oma, pretty 26-year-old brunette, claims her husband left her in December, 1949, moving from Newark, N. J. to Buffalo, N. Y.

Oma could not be reached for comment.

Cumberland's Spas snapped a six-game losing streak last night by defeating the Altoona Flyers in an All-American Basketball League game before 296 paying patrons at SS. Peter and Paul gym. The score was 81 to 70.

In amassing 81 points, Coach William "Bill" Keegan's outfit attained its high total in 15 league and independent contests this season.

Clevenger Turns Tide

It was anybody's ball game until midway in the third period when Altoona cracked after the count had been deadlocked for the 6th time in the game at 46-46. Jim Clevenger's field goal unknotted the count and the Spas were never headed.

The score was 18-17 at the quarter and 33-32 at intermission in Cumberland's favor and when the third period ended the locals held an eight-point edge at 62-54. At one time in the final stanza the Spas were out in front by 13 points at 68-55.

Hoop 28 of 37 Fouls

Cumberland outscored the Pennsylvanians 32 to 21 in field goals but Coach Bobby Artman's outfit stayed in the ball game through its superb work at the foul line where they meshed 28 of 37 free throws while the home team was sinking 17 of 26.

The officials, Siegel and Rabner, slapped 31 personal fouls on the home club and 21 on the Flyers and ejected Jack Murphy with the score 73-63 and Lou Bell with the count 75-66 in the final period via the six-and-out route.

Cumberland took 97 shoots at the hoops and connected 32 times while Altoona tossed in 21 of 79 tries.

Cumberland's outstanding players were Jim Clevenger and Lou Bell while Jim Mewhirter, former Bethany player, and Ed Stickel, ex-Syracuse cager, were Altoona's best bets.

Jim Clevenger of the Spas and Walt Miller, one-time Duquesne ace and center of the Flyers, paced the scorers with 17 points each. Bob Pence and Ed "Whitey" Mathewson had 16 tallies each for the home club and Jim Mewhirter garnered 15 for Altoona. Six of Clevenger's eight field goals came in the second half during which time Pence and Mathewson racked up five apiece.

George Geatz was slightly injured in the second quarter of yesterday's game and spent the rest of the time on the bench.

Erie-Wheeling Postponed

The Wheeling-Erie game scheduled yesterday at Erie was postponed when the Blues, attempting to make the trip by plane from Pittsburgh, were grounded on account of stormy weather.

The Spas lost an overtime thriller in Altoona on Saturday night by the score of 68 to 64.

The Spas will be represented at the funeral of George "Chuck" Karmarkovich, at Franklin Borough, Johnstown, Pa. Karmarkovich, Johnstown Clippers center, was fatally injured last week in an auto collision while returning from a game at Wheeling.

Wheeling is scheduled to play the Spas here next Sunday. Yesterday's lineups:

Byron Nelson Wins Crosby Golf Tournament With 209

Middlecoff Finishes In No. 2 Slot With 212

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 14 (AP)—Texas Rancher Byron Nelson, once the Mr. Big of golf, thrilled more than 15,000 fans today when he won the $10,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament with a 54-hole score of 209. He put together rounds of 71-67-71 to front a powerful field.

The victory meant $2,000 to Nelson, but to the par-cracking ace who once spread-eagled the golfing world the money was only incidental.

He was the boss-man once more, if only for this tournament.

Lord Byron, as he was known when he held the U. S. Open and PGA crowns, retired from active competition in 1946. Since then, his appearances have been few and far between.

Crooner Crosby's links derby, bringing together the celebrites of stage, screen, radio and other sports, aside from golf itself, has been one of Nelson's yearly visits. The Masters tournament in Augusta is another.

Fromer National Open Title-Holder Cary Middlecoff of Memphis closed with a classy 69 today to take second money of $1,250 with a 54-hole score of 212. He opened the tournament like a novice, with a bad 76, but came back the second day with a crackling 67.

Three players tied for third with scores of 213. They were Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., George Fazio of Washington, D. C., and Tournament Newcomer Julius Boros of Midpines, N. C.

Joe Kirkwood, Jr., the Hollywood movie character actor, followed with 214. Grouped at 215 were Pete Cooper of Ponta Verda, Fla., Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, and Smiley Quick, of Culver City, Calif.

Americans Rally In Last Half To Win Pro Bowl Game, 28-27

Graham, Waterfield Stage Passing Duel Before 53,676 Fans

By CHARLES A. PANAMA

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14 (INS) — Otto Graham and his American Conference All-Stars, completely outplayed in the first half, rallied for 14 points in the third quarter today to nip the National Conference all-stars, 28 to 27, in the first annual pro bowl football game.

The brilliant grid spectacle, attended by 53,676 fans at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, was a bitter pill for national coach Joe Stydahar and his ace quarterback, Bob Waterfield, both of the Los Angeles Rams.

Just as in the championship game between the Rams and Cleveland Browns last Dec. 24, today's battle resolved into a passing duel between Waterfield and Graham. The final score then was 30 to 28, Cleveland.

Today Waterfield and Graham both were superb. Waterfield threw two touchdown passes, kicked field goals from the 29 and 27-yard lines and converted after all three National touchdowns.

But Graham and his coach, the fabulous Paul Brown, had the last word again. Graham picked the sagging Americans from a 27 to 14 deficit and in just three minutes scored two touchdowns himself, each on a quarterback sneak.

Nationals Draw First Blood

The Nationals drew first blood the first time they got the ball. The Los Angeles Rams' pass and catch combination of Waterfield to Tom Fears paid off with a 22-yard aerial with just four minutes gone in the game.

The Americans tied it up just before the quarter ended when Billy Grimes of the Green Bay Packers took Frankie Albert's punt on his own 27-yard line, reversed his field and behind a convoy of red-shirted blockers, skipped 53 yards for a touchdown. Lou Groza of Cleveland converted.

Waterfield put the Nationals ahead, 10 to 7, in the first four minutes of the second period when he booted a 29-yard field goal, after a National drive that had originated on the American 37 bogged down.

But it took "Automatic Otto" just 60 seconds to pass the Americans back into the lead again. With three plays he moved 59 yards, the payoff coming on a 20-yard pass to end Bob Shaw of the Chicago Cardinals. Groza again converted.

Norm Van Brocklin took over at the quarterback slot and guided the Nationals deep into enemy territory. There the drive stalled and Waterfield was called back in to kick his second field goal, this one from the 27. It sliced the American lead to 13 to 14.

Davis Recovers Fumble

The Nationals got a break just before the half-time gun when Fred Davis of the Chicago Bears recovered a fumble on the American 22-yard line. Van Brocklin hit Fears in the end zone on the second play and after Waterfield's extra point the Nationals led, 20 to 14, at the half.

The second half began the same way the first half ended — with the Nationals on the move. It was Waterfield again, this time leading his blue-jerseyed mates 76 yards in four plays. The tally came on a 65-yard pass play from Waterfield to Dan Edwards of the New York Yanks.

A few minutes later the Americans advanced from the Nationals' 43 to the six. Graham then took it over on a quarterback sneak. Pat Harder of the Chicago Cardinals converted.

Chuck Bednarik of Philadelphia set up the winning score when he intercepted a Johnny Lujack pass on the 50 and returned it to the National 19. Graham again quarterback sneaked it over, this time from the nine, and Harder's kick gave the American' their one-point win.

Satterfield To Meet Brothers, Bob Murphy Tests Henry Brimm

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—Rex Layne, promising heavyweight from Lewiston, Utah, takes on Billy Roberts of Indianapolis in Salt Lake City Tuesday night in one of the top bouts of the week.

Layne projected himself into the heavyweight picture with a unanimous 10-round decision over veteran Jersey Joe Walcott in Madison Square Garden last November. Layne follows up by meeting Cesar Brion of Argentina in Madison Square Garden, Feb. 9.

Other top bouts on a skimpy card include a match between former lightweight champion Beau Jack and Del Flanagan, at Minneapolis Thursday night. Flanagan beat featherweight king Sandy Saddler in a non-title bout Dec. 6. In a heavyweight scrap, Elkins Brothers, takes on Bob Satterfield at New York's St. Nicholas Arena, Friday night.

On Wednesday night, knockout artist Irish Bob Murphy from San Diego, Calif., takes on Henry Brimm of Buffalo in Detroit. Brimm recently battled welterweight champ Sugar Ray Robinson to a draw. The bout will be broadcast and telecast by CBS.

The Satterfield-Brothers match in New York Friday night will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by CBS. Brothers recently outpointed Omelio Agramonte in a tough battle while Satterfield knocked out Lee Oma and then dropped a ten-round decision to Oma who was stopped by heavyweight king Ezzard Charles Friday night in Madison Square Garden.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14—(INS)—The biggest fight the Johnston office has had in months is again revived in refusal to permit "Oliver Twist" to be shown to American audiences. The Motion Picture Producers Association has a code which states that no race may be misrepresented. That doesn't mean that an Irishman, an Englishman, a Jew or a Mexican cannot be pictured as a heavy, but he cannot be unfairly caricatured.

The fight about "Oliver Twist" is over Alec Guinness' makeup as Fagin, the Jew. Although Guinness gives a great performance, his nose is bigger than Jose Ferrer's in "Cyrano."

Joseph Breen, who was called into the fracas, refused a permit for the famous Dickens story on the grounds that the Jewish race is unfairly pictured. Eagle-Lion appealed the case to the board of directors of the Motion Picture Producers Association. Breen's decision was upheld.

An interesting sidelight is that J. Arthur Rank is making no battle whatsoever to have "Oliver Twist" released in this country, but Eagle-Lion and the Robert Young crowd are insistent it be shown.

Bob O'Donnell and Karl Hoblitzelle have sold their share of the Interstate (Texas) Theatres for an estimated $12,500,000. Bob and his first wife, Lovey, own 20 per cent of the Texas chain and Lovey gets half of Bob's take, which isn't bad. She has gone to Texas to collect it.

The Paramount Theatres, which now take full control of the Interstate Theatre chain, have retained Bob and Hoblitzelle as operators of the chain. This is one of the biggest theatre deals in some years.

Jean Wallace has been doing the town with Robert Hagiag, the Italian producer of "Thief Of Venice." (They are usually at Ciro's). It's wonderful that Hagiag is trying to talk Jean into going to Italy to make a picture for him.

She would be interested except for one thing—it would mean leaving her children for too long. It's true that her ex-Franchot Tone, won the custody of the two boys in their sensational court battle. But Jean can see them when she wants to.

She took off Friday evening with the children for Lage Tahoe where they will all get in some skiing.

Famed Negro Actor Canada Lee is undergoing a serious operation for arthritis, and is in a London hospital. So severe is his pain, although he only had a few more days of shooting in "Cry The Beloved Country," he had to step out of the cast.

The surgery, which will sever the nerves in Lee's back, will hospitalize him for at least eight weeks. So, Korda has postponed the finish of the story until Lee is well enough to return to work. It's a big expense, but it would be bigger were Lee to be replaced.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Herbie Klotz flew to Arizona to see Barbara Hutton while she was visiting her son. But what Herbie may not know is that Prince Henri D'Auvergne, mentioned so often with the Woolworth heiress, is now in New York waiting to see the lady.

Reason Merlene Dietrich is not worried about New York Publisher Iva Patcevich's devotion to a lovely Brazilian, is that she is no longer interested in the gentleman. Marlene's attentions are all for Michael Wilding.

Telephoned Edward Arnold to ask if he planned to marry Frances Fleischman. He said no, he was carrying the crusade for freedom, but that he had taken the lovely Frances to several parties in Washington.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are boys losing their "supremacy"?

Answer: The younger teenagers are, at any rate, says Dr. Sylvia Allen in the Quarterly Journal of Child Behavior. Among youngsters of this age the trend toward feminine "supremacy" in boy-and-girl relationships has become a serious psychiatric problem, with boys tending to surrender all initiative and let themselves be bossed around and "mothered." One thing that the boys need is more contact with their fathers so as to learn to escape petticoat government and find courage to assume a normal male role.

Is pretending to be ignorant "democratic"?

Answer: Refusing to speak correctly when you know how, for example, may make certain people feel more "at home" with you, and of course you should not flaunt your education by needlessly correcting your friend's mistakes. But democracy means trying to give everyone an equal chance, not holding everyone to the same level. And the fact that this goal may never be fully attained—since all children can't have "equal" parents—does not mean that if you've been more fortunate than others, trying to hide the fact will help them.

Are most of us "physically handicapped"?

Answer: Yes, says personnel consultant Bert Hanman in "Comeback," the magazine of the Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation, West Orange, N. J. Even though your doctor tells you there is nothing wrong with you, there are still jobs for which you are not physically fitted. An examination of 1700 workers at a plant in Sweden found only sixteen who were judged physically fitted for all kinds of work. But conversely, there is almost no one who is totally disabled. "There exist jobs, even for the bedridden."

Trolley Operator In Hero's Role

BESSEMER, Ala., (AP) — A heroic conductor was badly hurt when he leaped back into his stalled trolley to help its pasengers escape before a train sliced it apart.

The streetcar operator was William A. Murphree, 64. Laura Adams, 61, and S. M. McDonald, 65, were injured less seriously. Murphree and the woman was caught on the car and McDonald fell into the ditch in jumping to safety.

Police Chief Lacey Alexander said the trolley pole became dislodged from an overhead power line as the streetcar started across the Southern railway tracks.

Murphree left the car to replace it. When he saw a freight train approaching through the early-morning darkness and fog, he first yelled to the passengers to get off, then climbed back into his compartment and opened the rear door.

The train cut the trolley into two parts.

Chief Alexander said only the fact that the car was lightly occupied on the early morning run averted a more serious accident.

It is estimated that seven million men in the United States are duck hunters.

Food, Food Everywhere And Not A Bite To Eat

THE OTHER NIGHT on the Stork Club show (CBS-TV 7:45 p. m. EST Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays), Sarah Churchill, Winston's daughter, was observed munching a stalk of celery. This is a clear violation of tradition on that show and the camera hurriedly turned its back as if it had caught Miss Churchill shoplifting. Every night on that program, clams, Shrimps, soups, oysters, grapefruit — all swathed in ice and silverware and expensive crockery—are laid before 30 or 40 people who look over it or around it or through it and never, never touch it. I don't know what the penalty Miss Churchill can expect for molesting the celery. Deportation, I expect.

John Crosby

The greatest star on television these days, if anyone should ask you, is not Milton Berle or Hopalong Cassidy or Howdy Doody. It is food. The food programs start very early in the morning with Kitchen Kapers and go on all day long—Dione Lucas' cooking course, WNBT's Cooking Show, Betty Crocker, Susan Adams Kitchen, Shop, Look and Cook, and about a million others scattered from New York to San Francisco. When the homemakers aren't preparing Turtles A La Rimbaud for the benefit of a lot of owl-eyed housewives who wouldn't cook a turtle if it committed suicide in their own frying pans, then we all move over to the restaurants for Luncheon At Sardi's, Dinner At Sardi's, the Stork Club and the other high class joints.

But no one ever eats anything. The homemakers occasionally taste a truffle; they don't eat it. At Luncheon or Dinner At Sardi's, they dispense with the silly stuff entirely; they don't even set the table at Sardi's. On television, food is something to be purchased, cooked, admired and displayed in the most elaborate settings. It is only eating that has been dispensed with as a waste of time.

Eating has been eschewed — Eschewed your food thoroughly, junior—in favor of conversation. Or what passes for conversation. The best eschewing, for my money, is done at the Stork Club where Sherman Billingsley, "the world's most fabulous host," has already acquired renown as the world's most fabulous interviewer. Mr. Billingsley's equipment as an interviewer consists of great ignorance of most of the subjects he's talking about, an immense thirst for knowledge—especially on how much everyone earns—and a surprising lack of tact for so noted a restaurant-keeper.

Since a man's income is generally considered a private matter, most of the victims squirm as if they were on the witness stand when Mr. Billingsley gets prying into their affairs. He has at various times asked a couple of models how much money they earned in a good week, a magazine editor the highest price he paid for a story and a very social lady how much the debutants paid to get into a charity ball for the New York Infirmary. It's difficult to determine which of these was the most reluctant to divulge the financial information. My nod goes to the magazine editor who will now have to explain to all his other magazine writers why they don't get paid equally well.

The art of interviewing people has been unskillfully practiced on television from the very first, the emphasis being on the looks rather than the brains of the interviewer. Mr. Billingsley appears to be innocent of all knowledge of the people he talks to. Talking to Celeste Holm one night, he asked her when "Affairs of State" could be expected to open. "It's been running for six weeks," Miss Holm informed him. Miss Holm then fell to discussing her long-running vehicle, "Oklahoma," exclaimed Mr. B. "I came from there, too." Miss Holm told him she was talking about a musical comedy. I'm afraid Mr. Billingsley doesn't listen very carefully to the answers to his own questions. And, if he doesn't care, why should you and I?

If this is the best conversation that can be wrung from the glittering array of writers, prizefighters, politicians and actresses that pass through the Stork Club, then I'm for turning the whole idea upside down. Let's cut out all the talk and fall to. There might be a good deal of entertainment value in watching Virginia Mayo tackle a stonecrab. I'd like to observe her technique with those animals and see if she gets as wet as I do. I'd like to see Jim Farley wrestle with a squab and Gladys Swarthout up to her elbows in an artichoke.

Let's, in short, restore eating to restaurant life. I thought that was the reason for going into them in the first place.

City's Engineers' Club To Meet At Kelly Plant

The Engineers' Club of Cumberland has made arrangements to hold its first meeting of the new year at the Kelly-Springfield Tire and Rubber Company plant on Wednesday evening.

Dinner for members and guests will be served in the plant cafeteria at 6:30 p. m., following which, a choice of two plant inspection trips has been arranged by the Kelly management. One tour, of general interest to all members, covers the manufacture of tires from raw material to finished product with a short side trip to inspect power facilities. The alternate tour, of particular interest to those members who specialize in power production consists of a detailed inspection of the power plant and a brief inspection of the plant facilities.

Club officers elected for the year 1951 include: Douglas Smith, president; John A. Jones, vice-president, J. V. MacDonald, secretary, and Elmer P. Buchtell, Jr., treasurer.

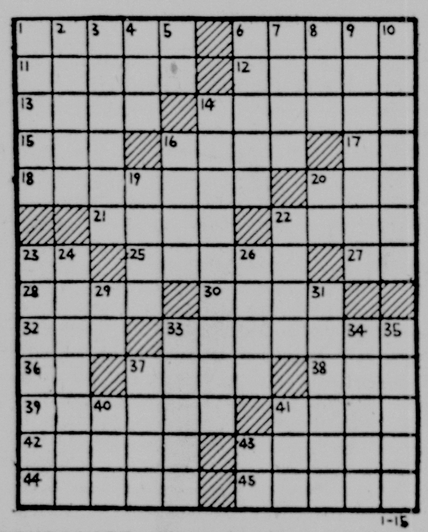
Saturday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Z P J Z X J Z X Q U W A M W K K Q P K P M L P K U W A M W G U — H S X M F P K.

Saturday's Cryptoquote: THOUGH DROP BY DROP THE MINUTES FAINT, LIKE HOURS AT MIDNIGHT PASSED—KING.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Sgt. Carl E. Royce, who was killed in action in Belgium six years ago, January 13, 1945.

A precious one from us has gone
A voice we loved is still.
A place is vacant in our hearts
Which never can be filled.
Although your soul is now at rest
And free from care and pain,
This world would seem like heaven
If we had you back again.
Keep him Jesus in thy keeping
Until we reach the heavenly shore
And then, Dear Master, let us see him,
Love and have him as before.

Sadly missed by his Parents,
Sister and Niece

What About Gravity?

Any well-known physicist will tell you that your state of mind is related to the circulation of your blood, which is affected by the pull of gravity. This is one reason for the importance of correct posture whether walking, sitting, or lying down. Swollen ankles, throbbing heads, and many other physical handicaps are lessened by changing our position so as to correct the gravity pull. This gravity pull applies to overweight, diet, lack of rest, and other factors. I am not superstitious, but the diary which I have kept for many years demonstrates that most of my good ideas came during the "no-moon" periods; furthermore, most of my foolish ideas came to me during the "full-moon" periods.

I wish to avoid any dogmatic statements or to ask for any impractical things; but I do wish that the President would ask some qualified person, already on the payroll, to make a thorough study of the above and learn whether or not I am justified in these conclusions. But I am not content to let only one man think on these things; but would like to get everyone in authority to consider them. A concrete suggestion would be to have these daily statistics on temperature, humidity, wind, barometer, and moon-phase printed on the front page of the Congressional Record each day. This would be no additional expense and could not be criticized by anyone.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Jean E. Grimes vs. James J. Grimes, No. 22,016 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the Plaintiff from the Defendant, A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The Bill of Complaint states that the parties were married on 27th day of March 1945, in Winchester, Virginia, and the defendant deserted your oratrix on the 10th day of June 1947, and that the desertion was deliberate and that the abandonment has continued and uninterrupted since that date and is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of any reconciliation and that the defendant is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and that his last known address was Roswell, New Mexico.

It is thereupon ordered upon this 6th day of January 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 7th day of February 1951, give notice to the said non resident defendant, the object of this suit, warning him to appear in this court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 24th day of February 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Dry Cleaners To Hike Prices

Several dry cleaning establishments in Cumberland have reported they will increase their prices starting today due to the general increases in the cost of materials used in their work.

One large dry cleaner said he is forced to hike prices 10 cents for suits and dresses and five cents for trousers and similar garments.

This informant said the costs of soaps, bags, spotting materials and taxes is the reason for the increased prices. He indicated that labor costs are not a determining factor at this time. The last pay increase for his workers was last May.

Prices at the various cleaners have varied from 85 cents to $1 for suits and dresses.

The price increase will probably be reflected at the small cleaners and tailoring establishments which have their dry cleaning done at one or other of the several large plants which do wholesale work.

Order Of Naval Reserve Calls Is Outlined Here

The Navy has increased by 32,000 its quota of enlisted Naval Reserves who will be ordered to active military service during April, May and June, 1951, Lt. Cmdr. F. A. Lewis, local Naval Reserve inspector-instructor, announced.

A previous announcement, made in early December, had set the quota for the three-month period at 15,000. The increase ordered this week will bring the total to 47,000. Men in this area desiring additional information on the Naval Reserve may contact the local Naval recruiters on the third floor of the Cumberland Post Office, Commander Lewis at the Naval Reserve Training Center, Cumberland (Phone 5273), or Chief Petty Officer Charles Z. Kalbaugh, USNR, at 103 Wood St., Frostburg, (Phone Frostburg 421-R).

Cumberland's First Lady To Be Elected Again Soon

Marking the beginning of the eleventh year of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority in Cumberland, the Betas will sponsor the "First Lady of the Year" contest for the fifth time.

During these years Beta Sigma Phi has grown from the organization of Lambda Chapter in October 1940 with ten members, followed by Omicron, Alpha Alpha, and the "baby Sisters" Nu Phi Mu and the highest degree Xi Beta Exemplar Chapter in December 1948, to 120 members.

Three judges will count ballots and the winner will be honored by all Betas at a banquet in March. She will receive a certificate of recognition for her work, a personal gift and will receive the "silver plate" which lists the names of the "First Ladies" of the previous years. Miss Jeannette Bonig first presented the silver plate to Miss Mary G. Walsh, First Lady 1948. Other First Ladies are Mrs. Lee W. Witherup and Miss Maude Bean.

The "First Lady" contest was inaugurated by International office Beta Sigma Phi, Kansas City, Mo., and discontinued in 1945. The Cumberland Betas were so well pleased with the cooperation of the people of Cumberland and with results that they resumed the contest in 1947, and have had continued success and have received high praise from the International Offices for efforts in making the "First Lady" of Cumberland an annual affair of interest.

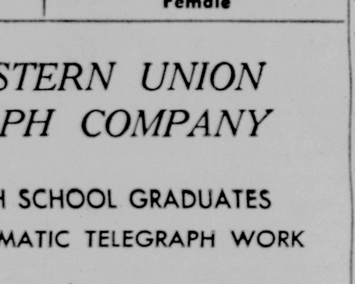
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

"UPPERCUT" A NICE PLAY

"THE UPPERCUT" is a name which has been applied increasingly in recent years to a type of defensive play that had hitherto been nameless, though known to and used by advanced players since the days of Whist. It consists of ruffing a trick with an inadequately guarded honor, such as a singleton king, doubleton queen or jack or a trebleton jack. When that obliges the declarer to use a still higher honor to overruff it, the net result may be that a previously inadequately guarded honor in your partner's hand is promoted to a winning position.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

That tenuously-bid contract would have been brought safely into port if South had not taken an unnecessary risk. But, when he failed to take out the defenders' trumps at his first opportunity, he gave them a chance to use "the uppercut" to beat him.

Following the diamond A lead, West, disliking a pitch away from his other honors, repeated the suit with the 8, so that the J pushed out the K. South now unsoundly decided he had better get rid of his other diamonds as early as possible. So he led the 6, intending to ruff it low in the dummy. West spoiled that plan by ruffing first with the spade Q, which forced the K as an overruff. You will notice that West's play, "the uppercut," had promoted East's spade J into a winner. The spade A was called from dummy, but its use left the high J still out. South also was doomed to lose a trick each in hearts and clubs, so he was down one.

"The uppercut" could have been made impossible by South if he had scored the spade A and K on trump leads to the third and fourth tricks, consuming the defenders' trumps. He could have afforded those plays, as they would have left him with the necessary two trumps in dummy to ruff out his losing diamonds.

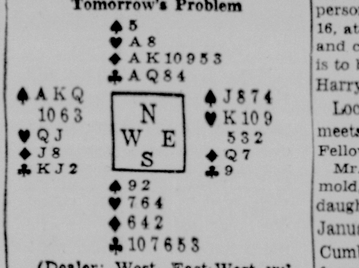
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

If West had bid spades and North got into 5-Diamonds without his side ever bidding any other suit, what should East lead?

Burned Victim Is Improving

Miss Edna Bullett, 306 Magruder Street, remained in "satisfactory" condition last night at Allegany Hospital where she was admitted Friday with second and third degree burns of the face, hands and body.

Attaches said the woman's clothing ignited after she fell against a stove in her second floor apartment.

Warren Washington, who resides on the first floor, said he heard a thump and ran upstairs to investigate. He found Miss Bullett ablaze from head to foot.

According to Washington, his first action was to cover her head with his sweater so she would not breathe flames. Then he wrapped her in a blanket to put out the fire.

Washington's quick thinking was credited with saving the woman's life.

Ex-Miner's Body Discovered Near Bloomington

Believed He Fell From B & O Bridge

The body of Stephen J. Flynn, Bloomington, 64-year-old former coal miner, was discovered yesterday morning on a cinder bank along the edge of the Potomac River and beneath a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bridge some 1,000 feet west of Bloomington.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, Oakland, Garrett county deputy medical examiner, said that both of Flynn's legs had been fractured, his jaw also was fractured and his skull probably also had been fractured.

The examiner, who investigated the case along with State Trooper Robert Henline, is almost certain that Flynn died in a plunge from the bridge, which is between 50 and 60 feet above the river bank.

Doubting that Flynn met with foul play or committed suicide, Dr. Baumgartner has concluded that while walking across the railroad bridge from West Virginia Junction, Flynn probably met a B&O train and was crowded so that he fell off the bridge, or that he lost his footing.

One reason for this assumption is that Flynn was last seen alive by Gilbert Males about 11:45 p. m. Saturday in a tavern on the West Virginia side of the river. The body was discovered by two boy bicyclists, Freddie Rebar and Curdy Fullback, both of Beryl, W. Va.

Born October 6, 1886, Flynn had lived in the Bloomington area all of his life, with the exception of five years when he was in the Army. This period was immediately before and during World War I. At the time of his discharge he held the rank of sergeant.

Flynn last worked as a coal miner last winter for the Campbell Coal Company at Barton.

Unmarried, he lived in Bloomington with three other unmarried brothers, Dominick, Frank and Charles. He also is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Stine, Keyser, W. Va., and Mrs. Annie Beeman, Beryl, W. Va.

Educators View Youth Problems

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 14 (AP) — A group of Western Marylanders studying the needs of the state's young folk has heard a recommendation for educating children from a universal angle.

The suggestion was one of many made here yesterday at a regional meeting of the Maryland Commission for Youth. About 150 youngsters and adults attended to represent their units in Allegany, Garrett, Carroll, Frederick, Montgomery and Washington counties.

The commission was set up by former Governor Lane as a sort of study and planning group to determine the greatest needs of the counties and how they can be met.

Yesterday's discussion covered six phases of planning for youth improvement.

The suggestion for instilling a more worldly viewpoint among students came during the discussion of education. Along this same line the meeting produced suggestions that sex education be started in elementary school, domestic relations courses be offered in later grades and work groups in religion be organized in the classrooms.

Also discussed were the possibilities of a survey to outline employment facilities for young people, community protection services for neglected children, greater attention to the rehabilitation of mentally retarded children, and wider community sponsorship of youth recreation programs.

Louis Weber, Founder Of South Cumberland Planing Mill Dies

Succumbs At Home In His 90th Year

Louis Weber, 89, founder of the South Cumberland Planing Mill Company, died at 8:30 a.m. yesterday at his home, 502 East Oldtown Road, following a lingering illness of four years.

Born in Mt. Savage, August 31, 1861, he was the son of the late John and Dora Pollack Weber. His family moved to Baltimore when Mr. Weber was very young and his father died when he was six years old.

Working as a farm hand near Baltimore, he and his mother came to Cumberland when he was 20 years old. In 1880, he started his independent business career as a florist in partnership with his brother-in-law, John A. Bopp, who later became one of the most successful florists in Cumberland.

In 1896, Mr. Weber started the present business of the South Cumberland Planing Mill Company. In the beginning, his two sons, Albert L., then 15 years of age, and Arthur J., then 11 years of age, helped him to get the business started and have been actively engaged in it from then until the present time. Albert L. is president and Arthur is secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Weber had been president of the company from its incorporation in 1912 until recently when he became chairman of the board. In addition to his activities with the company, he helped to organize and has been a director of the Cumberland Savings Bank since its organization nearly 50 years ago.

He has been well-known in fraternal circles as a member of the Modern Woodmen of America; Ohr Lodge, No. 131, A. F. and A. M.; Chapel Hill Lodge No. 53, IOOF, and Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O., Elks; Cumberland Rotary Club; past vice president and director of Central YMCA; director of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; former chairman of the Civil Service Commission of Cumberland; president and director of the Odd Fellows' Temple in the South End and was a very active member of St. John's Lutheran Church for many years.

He was married to the former Miss Anna Catherine Bopp, who died in 1929. He remarried the former Miss Mamie Peebles Richards.

Survivors include two sons, Albert L. Weber, this city, and Arthur J. Weber, this city; one half brother, Fred M. Ruppert, this city; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Carscaden, this city, and Mrs. Fannie Harvey, Baltimore.

LOUIS WEBER

The body is at the Scarpelli Funeral Home, where it will remain until Tuesday at 11 a.m. when it will be taken to St. John's Lutheran Church to lie in state until 2:30 p.m. when a funeral service will be held with Rev. Donald F. Brake, pastor, officiating.

Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Local 26 Elects Seven Division Chairmen For '51

They Will Serve On Bargaining Unit

Seven division chairmen, only three of them holdovers from 1950, were elected for one-year terms yesterday afternoon by Local No. 26, United Rubber Workers of America, at a special meeting held at the union's headquarters, 12 South Mechanic Street.

Vice-President Ralph C. Beard, who presided at the half-hour meeting, said that about 150 members attended the session.

The division chairmen are D. L. Snyder, Division I; K. W. Stonebreaker, Division II; Elmer Smith, Division III; I. S. Muir, Division IV; W. E. Plummer, Division V; Lester Fatkin, Division VI, and Leo Barkman, Division VII. Snyder, Muir and Fatkin were reelected and the others succeed men who held chairmanships last year.

These chairmen, coupled with the union officers, who will be elected in May, make up the bargaining committee at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Each division includes various departments in the tire manufacturing plant. Two Hospitalized As Car Plunges Down Steep Bank

Washington Pair Hurt Near Parsons

A Washington, D. C. man and wife were confined to Tucker County Hospital, Parsons, W. Va., last night as a result of a spectacular automobile accident in which the car skidded on an icy road and plummeted down a 100-foot embankment.

They were listed by Tucker County Sheriff D. E. Crosten as Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Dumirg. Mrs. Dumirg, 35-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ball, of Parsons, was most seriously injured. She sustained a compound fracture of her right arm, just below the shoulder, and a forehead laceration which required six stitches to close. Her 40-year old husband was released from the hospital after receiving emergency treatment yesterday morning but was readmitted last night. He sustained a sprained left ankle, a laceration above his right eye, a bump on his head and a possible concussion. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dumrig also were suffering from shock.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. McGhee, Takoma Park, in whose automobile the Dumirgs were riding, escaped serious injury or possibly death by leaping from the car as it went down the bank. He jumped out as the automobile left Route 72, some eight miles north of Parsons, about 9:30 a. m. yesterday and escaped injury.

Mrs. McGhee, who jumped from the car about half way down the steep embankment, sustained only a bruised hip.

Dumirg was thrown from the car as it neared the foot of the embankment while Mrs. Dumirg still was in the vehicle when it came to a stop.

The two couples, who had spent Saturday night with Mrs. Dumirg's parents in Parsons, were en route to the Dumirgs' farm near Limestone when the accident occurred. The scene was on a hill approaching St. George at the George Phillips farm. The ruined car came to rest in a field on the Phillips farm.

Heavy Rainfall Swells Streams

Heavy rainfall through most of yesterday in the Wills Creek and Potomac River water sheds caused area stream observers to look warily at the rising waterways but last night it appeared that a flood was not imminent.

In Cumberland both Wills Creek and the Potomac River rose about a foot yesterday and were still rising slowly last night. At Luke, river-gauge readers of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company reported that the Potomac River there was rising at a rate of slightly more than an inch an hour. Normal depth there is 22 inches. Yesterday morning it was about 22¾ inches and by 10:45 o'clock last night had deepened to 28 inches. Flood stage is regarded in the neighborhood of 50 to 54 inches at Luke.

The high-water danger was heightened by the above-freezing temperature. As a result all of the rain water was running off the frozen ground to the streams.

Touchy State Bonus Proposal To Be Renewed

Phoebus To Advance Bill In Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 14—(AP)—The touchy topic of a bonus for Maryland veterans of World War II is going to be brought up again in this session of the Legislature.

Senator Phoebus (R-Somerset) says he plans to introduce a bill calling for a referendum on a $90,000,000 bonus.

Bonus legislation has been brought up and killed in the last two sessions of the Legislature.

"I feel confident this time," said Phoebus who was co-sponsor of a similar measure last year with Senator Goldstein (D-Calvert), now majority leader.

Phoebus didn't say where the money would come from to provide the bonus for the estimated 215,000 Maryland veterans of the last war.

The Phoebus-Goldstein bill last year called for an $89,998,000 bond issue to be paid off by the sales tax receipts in excess of $20,000,000 and, if necessary, an increase in the real estate tax. It was amended later to embrace veterans of World War I at a total estimated cost of $125,000,000. The bill would have authorized payments of from $10 to $500 depending upon length of service and time spent abroad.

Besides the two sponsors, nine of the senators who favored the bill are back for new terms in Annapolis. Of the opponents, only Senator Turnbull (D-Baltimore County) was reelected. Turnbull said today he is still opposed to the bonus proposal and will vote against it again.

A bonus referendum was endorsed by the Republican party in its platform for the State election last fall.

VFW Refers Bonus To Posts In State

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14—(AP)—State officials of the Veterans of Foreign Wars voted today to send the question of a state veterans bonus back to the individual posts for their reaction.

The move was made at a meeting of the Council of Administration.

Last June at the annual department convention in Cumberland, the VFW membership voted to ask for the bonus at the 1951 session of the General Assembly.

"Normally," explained Francis J. Valle, past department commander, "This would be a mandate to our legislative committee to seek passage of a bonus bill.

"However, in view of the national emergency which has developed, with the increased tax burden, the council decided today to send the issue back to the posts."

The results, he said, should be available by February 10, so there will still be ample time to introduce a bonus bill if the majority still wants it.

Sen. Louis Goldstein (D-Calvert), majority leader in the state senate and a member of the VFW legislative committee, concurred in the council's action. He has indicated he is sympathetic to introducing a bonus measure in the legislature.

The council also agreed to seek a repeal of a resolution passed by the 1947 General Assembly putting the state on record as favoring the organization of a world government.

"We are all for the United Nations," Valle said, "But we don't want the United States to surrender sovereignty under a world government."

An effort to have the resolution repealed failed at the last session of the legislature.
